PREFACE

IT is now about forty-five years since, having finished my studies in Arts and Law, I was enlisted, at about the age of 25, as a soldier for the literary service of Islām, by the great Muslim reformer of this age, Ḥadẓat Mirzā Ghulām Ahmad of Qādiān, the Founder of the Ahmadiyya Movement. Thank God that during this period He has granted me to contribute to Islamic religious literature more than six thousand pages in English and ten thousand pages in Urdū, in spite of other multifarious duties, first as Secretary of the Ṣadr Anjuman Ahmadiyya at Qādiān, and then as President of the Ahmadiyya Anjuman Ishā'at Islām, Lahore. I am thankful to God again that He has vouchsafed me at this advanced age to do yet another service to the literary cause of Islām.

The present work was undertaken to fulfil, primarily, the need of English converts to Islām, but it is really a work the need of which is felt throughout the English-speaking Muslim world. It is a faithful picture of the culture of Islām at its source, free from foreign influence and independent of later growth. It shows what the Holy Prophet Muhammad, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said and did, and what lives his companions led. This is technically known as the Sunna (lit., a manner of acting or a mode of life) of the Holy Prophet, and is popularly known as Ḥadīth (lit., a saying), being a record of what he said, did or approved.

Hadīth literature is vast, there being several collections, the most important of which are known as the Sihāh Sitta or the Six Reliable Works. Among these the Bukhārī, (more fully, the Jāmi' of Muhammad Ismā'il al-Bukhārī), undoubtedly holds the first place. It is not only the first comprehensive collection of Hadīth but also the most authentic one. As a recent European writer rightly observes, Bukhārī undertook a research into the then prevalent Hadīth "with all the painstaking accuracy of a modern writer." In addition to this, in his fiqhāha, or acumen, Bukhārī surpasses all other collectors of Hadīth.

A translation of the Sahīh Bukhārī was undertaken about eight years ago by Mr. Muhammad Asad, an Austrian convert to Islām, but at first, owing perhaps to the lack of means as compared with the difficulties of the undertaking and, later, to his internment owing to the war, only a fractional part of the work has been published. Even if completed, the work, at a price of about Rs. 120, could decorate only the shelves of big libraries and would not be accessible to the man in the street. But really the Bukhārī is every Muslim's need, and it is this need that I have tried to fulfil by publishing the present work.

In A Manual of Hadīth I have tried to give a compendium of the Sahīh Bukhārī, so far as subjects relating to the practical side of a Muslim's life are concerned. I have not touched the historical or prophetic portions of this great work, as I considered this beyond the scope of a handy treatise. In the arrangement of chapters too, I have mainly followed Bukhārī. But as my object was to make this short treatise complete so far as the requirements of an ordinary Muslim are concerned, I have freely drawn upon other collections of Hadīth, particularly that well-known work called the Mishkāt, rendered into English by Matthews about the year 1870

I have been compelled, owing to the shortage of paper due to war conditions, to omit many of the details which I originally intended to include in this work. As a matter of fact, I had to cut about a third of the manuscript when I found that sufficient paper could not be had in the market, and the work has suffered on that account. In its present form it contains 690 hadīth, out of which 513 or about three fourths have been taken from the Bukhārī

I may further draw the reader's attention to two special features of this work. In the first place, every chapter of this work commences with verses of the Holy Qur'ān dealing with the particular subject of that chapter. In this again I have followed Bukhārī, who heads the more important of his chapters with a text from the Holy Qur'ān, and thus shows that Hadīth is only an explanation of the Holy Qur'ān and a secondary source of the teachings of Islām. In fact, a manual of the Holy Qur'ān is an even greater need than this book, and I have long cherished the idea of supplying this desideratum, though I do not know if I shall be spared for its fulfilment.

The second feature of this book, which is quite a novelty so far as Hadīth literature is concerned, is a brief head-note, following the quotations from the Holy Qur'ān, in which is given a brief summary of the teachings of the Holy Qur'ān and Hadīth on that subject. This head-note will be found useful as it contains a summary of every hadīth given in the chapter, and thus enables the reader to lay his finger on the exact point which is of particular interest to him. By referring to this head-note, he will be able to find the Holy Prophet's guidance on a particular point without going through the whole chapter. I have thus tried my best to facilitate the task of the reader, who in these days of pre-occupation with subjects of material interest cannot devote much time to what pertains to his higher moral interests.

As an introduction to this work, I would recommend to the reader to go through the chapter on "Sunna or Hadīth", in my book The Religion of Islām.

In conclusion, I must give expression to my thanks to Mr. F. W. Bustin, Editor of The Civil and Military Gazette, Lahore, for having gone through the manuscript, and to Malak Sher Muhammad Khan, B.A. for having gone through a part of the proofs.

MUḤAMMAD 'ALĪ.

ABBREVIATIONS

All references given without an indication of the name are to the Holy Qur'ān, the first figure representing the number of the chapter and the second the number of the verse

Words uttered by the Holy Prophet are throughout given within inverted commas

In the references to Hadīth collections, the first number represents the number of the book and the second the number of the chapter, except in the case of the Musnad of Ahmad ibn Ḥanbal where the first figure stands for the volume and the second for the page. In all references to the Mishkāt, the name of the collection from which the Mishkāt has taken the particular hadīth is also indicated

CHAPTER I

HOW DIVINE REVELATION CAME TO THE HOLY PROPHET

1 And it is not for any mortal that Allāh should speak to him except by inspiration or from behind a veil or by sending a messenger and revealing by His permission what He pleases' (42 51)

2 ' And surely this is a revelation from the Lord of the worlds—the Faithful Spirit has come down with it upon thy heart that thou mayest be of the warners—in plain Arabic language' (26 192-195)

3 'And thus have We revealed to thee an Arabic Qur'ān' (42 7)

4 ' The Holy Spirit has brought it down from thy Lord with the truth' (16 102)

5 "Whoever is the enemy of Gabriel surely he revealed it to thy heart by Allāh's command" (2 97)

6 "We have revealed it, revealing portion by portion" (17 106)

Revelation according to the Holy Qur'ān is a universal fact. It speaks of revelation to inanimate objects—heaven and earth (41 11, 12 99 5)—and of revelation to lower animals (16 68, 69). Revelation to man is undoubtedly of a different nature from these revelations, and it is with this that we are at present concerned. In the first verse quoted above it is stated that Allāh speaks to man—i e, revelation to man is granted—in three ways: (1) by infusing an idea into the mind—the word wahy used here carries its original significance of a hasty suggestion, (2) from behind a veil, which includes ru'yā (dream), its higher form kashf (vision) and the still higher form ilhām, when voices are heard or uttered in a state of trance, (3) when a messenger, the angel Gabriel is sent with the Divine message in clear words to the recipient of the revelation. The third is the highest form of revelation: the Divine message is sent not in the form of an idea as in the first case or in the form of a vision as in the second but in words through the angel, and it is peculiar to the prophets*. The Holy Qur'ān was revealed to the Prophet in words in the Arabic language (vv 2, 3) through Gabriel, who is also called the Faithful Spirit and the Holy Spirit (vv 2 4, 5),

* I have discussed this subject fully in The Religion of Islām, in the chapter on Revealed Books

the angel descending upon the heart of the Prophet (vv 2 5) The last verse shows that the Holy Qur'ān was revealed in portions

The hadīth narrated in this chapter bear out what has been so clearly established in the Holy Qur'ān We are told that before the higher revelation the Prophet received revelation in the form of dreams that the Prophet's first experience of higher revelation was marked by the appearance of the Angel, who communicated to him the first Divine message in words contained in the first five verses of ch 96 and that the Prophet related his experience to Waraqa who believed in him saying that it was the angel Gabriel who brought the Divine message to Moses (h 2) The Prophet's second experience of the higher revelation was similar to the first (h 3) It is further shown that the higher revelation of the Holy Qur'ān came in words through Gabriel (hh 4 5) He felt a great strain when this revelation came to him he perspired even on cold days and grew heavier and a perceptible change came over him (hh 5—8) It appears that to receive this spiritual experience he was translated to another sphere, and his detachment from the material environment was so real that it brought about a physical change as well

1<sup>1</sup> 'Umar ibn al-Khattāb said, I heard the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, say

<sup>1</sup> Bukhārī opens his Jāmi with the hadīth that follows here, and it is the first hadīth of the chapter entitled The Beginning of Revelation But, as the subject matter of the hadīth shows it does not really relate to this chapter, it is in fact a sort of introduction to the Collection itself It is a very appropriate introduction indeed, for it shows not only the sincerity of purpose of the author but also warns the reader that the good and noble deeds to which he is guided by the sayings and deeds of the Prophet will prosper only if there is sincerity of purpose beneath them

<sup>2</sup> By a'māl (pl of 'amal) are meant the good and noble deeds to which the Holy Prophet invited The best of deeds would be worthless if the motive were not sincere Sincerity thus occupies the first place in the moral development of a Muslim

<sup>3</sup> The original word is hijra which literally means forsaking someone or flying from a place or giving up low desires evil tendencies or bad morals, and is specially used of the historic flight of the Holy Prophet from Makka to Madīna, which has become the starting point of the Muslim era. The Muslims had to fly from Makka because they did not enjoy freedom of conscience there and were persecuted on account of their religious convictions. Hijra has thus become synonymous with the forsaking of worldly relations, comforts and possessions and undergoing the severest hardships for the sake of one's convictions.

<sup>4</sup> A true dream is thus a kind of Divine revelation (wahy). According to another hadīth al-ru'yā al-sāliha (the true vision) is a part of prophethood. "The Messenger of Allāh said, 'nothing has remained of prophethood except mubashshirāt' (lit good news). (The companions) asked, 'And what is meant dreamed a dream but the truth of it shone forth like the dawn of the morning. Then solitude became dear to him and he used to seclude himself in the cave of Hīrā',<sup>5</sup> and therein he devoted himself to Divine worship for several nights before he came back to his family and took provisions for this (retirement), then he would return to Khadija<sup>6</sup> and take (more) provisions for a similar (period), until the Truth<sup>7</sup> came to him while he was in the cave of Hīrā', so the angel

حَتَّى حَاءَهُ الْحَقُّ وَهُوَ فِي غَارِ حَرَاءٍ

by mubashshirāt?' He said, 'The true dream' (B 92 5) The dream of the believer is expressly called a part of prophethood in B 92 26. In the Holy Qur'an also al-bushrā or true visions are promised to believers (10 64). Prophethood and revelation are not therefore synonymous terms, and while prophethood has terminated, revelation of the first two kinds (42 51) will continue for ever.

<sup>5</sup> This cave (6 ft by 2 ft) lies to the north east of Makka at a distance of about three miles from the city.

<sup>6</sup> Khadija was the Holy Prophet's wife whom he married when he was twenty-five years old while she was forty, and who remained his only wife till her death when he was fifty years of age.

<sup>7</sup> By the Truth is meant the Spirit of Truth or the Holy Spirit : ٤, Gabriel.

(Gabriel) came to him and said, Read He (the Prophet) said, "I said I am not one who can read" And he continued 'Then he (the angel) took hold of me and he pressed me so hard that I could not bear it any more, and then he let me go and said, Read I said, I am not one who can read Then he took hold of me and pressed me a second time so hard that I could not bear it any more, then he let me go again and said, Read I said, I am not one who can read" (The Prophet) continued "Then he took hold of me and pressed me hard for a third time, then he let me go and said, 'Read in the name of thy Lord Who

He is called "the Angel" in the words that follow This first appearance of Gabriel which was the beginning of the highest form of revelation took place according to one report on the 25th of the month of Ramadzan Others say it was the 17th of Ramadzan which seems to be a mistake for the 27th, for according to the Holy Qur'an, the first revelation came on the layla al-qadr which occurs on one of the three nights of Ramadzan, 25th, 27th and 29th According to a report of Ibn 'Abbās, the Holy Prophet had then attained the age of forty (B 63 28) created—He created man from a clot—Read and thy Lord is most Honourable<sup>8</sup>

The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, returned with this (message) while his heart trembled and he entered upon Khadīja, daughter of Khuwailid, and said, "Wrap me up, wrap me up," and they wrapped him up until the awe left him<sup>9</sup> Then he said to Khadīja, while he related to her what had happened, "I fear for myself"<sup>10</sup> Khadīja said, Nay, I call Allāh to witness that Allāh will never bring thee to disgrace for thou unitest the ties of relationship and bearest the burden of the weak and earnest for the destitute

خَلَقَ خَلَقَ الْإِنْسَانَ مِنْ عَلَقٍ اقْرَأْ

وَتَحْمِلُ الْكَلَّ وَتَكْسِبُ الْمَعْدُومَ

<sup>8</sup> These are the first three verses of the 96th chapter of the Holy Qur'an and the first five verses of this chapter are by consensus of opinion the first Quranic revelation that came to the Holy Prophet It was after this, as appears from the hadīth that follows, that the first verses of ch 74 were revealed

<sup>9</sup> The awe was due to his first experience of Divine revelation

<sup>10</sup> The fear to which the Prophet gave expression was lest he should be unable to achieve the great task of the reformation of humanity which was imposed upon and honourest the guest

tress

Then Khadija went with him until she brought him to Waraqa ibn Naufal ibn Asad ibn 'Abd al-'Uzzā, Khadija's uncle's son, and he was a man who had become a Christian in the time of Ignorance,<sup>11</sup> and he used to write the Hebrew script, and he wrote from the Gospel in Hebrew what it pleased Allāh that he should write and he was a very old man who had turned blind. Khadija said to him, O uncle's son!

وَتَقْرَى الصَّيْفَ وَتُعِينُ عَلَى
نَوَائِبِ الْحَقِّ فَأَبْطَلَتْ بِهِ خَدِيجَةً

عَمِيَ فَقَالَتْ لَهُ خَدِيجَةُ يَا ابْنَ عَمِّ

him Khadija's reply clearly shows this to be the import. If any one was equal to that great task, Khadija comforted him, it was he who had already laid down his life for the service of humanity. This also shows how well the Prophet's life was spent even before prophethood. Neither in this hadīth nor in any other is there anything to show that the Prophet feared that he would be killed by the jinn or that he had become insane. The Prophet knew for sure at the first experience that he had been raised to the dignity of prophethood and entrusted with the great task of reforming humanity.

<sup>11</sup> Pre-Islām days are called al-Jāhiliyya (Ignorance) or ayyām al-Jāhiliyya (Time of Ignorance), as compared with the learning and light which followed in the wake of Islām.

Listen to thy brother's son Waraqa said to him, My brother's son<sup>1</sup> What hast thou seen? So the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, related to him what he had seen Waraqa said to him, This is the angel Gabriel whom Allāh sent down upon Moses,<sup>12</sup> would that I were a young man at this time—would that I were alive when thy people would expel thee The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said, 'Would they expel me?' He said, Yes, never has a man appeared with the like of what thou hast brought but he has been held in enmity, and if thy time finds me (alive) I shall help thee with the fullest help After that <sup>12</sup> Nāmūs means the angel Gabriel (Fr). Nāmūs is the person to whom the king entrusts his secrets and by it is meant (in hadīth) the angel Gabriel whom Allāh has chosen to communicate His revelations (N) This meaning has also been given by Bukhārī himself when repeating this hadīth in B 60 22 Waraqa in fact only bore testimony to the truth of what the Holy Prophet had stated, viz, that the Holy Spirit (Gabriel) had come to him with a revelation from on high He,

Waraqa did not delay (long) that he died, and the revelation broke off temporarily<sup>13</sup> (B 1 1)

تَمَّ لَمْ يَنْسَبْ وَرَقَةُ ابْنُ تَوَيْقٍ وَ فَترَ الْوَحْيُ ☆

3 Jābir said, speaking of the temporary break in the revelation, (The Holy Prophet) said in his narrative

٣- عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ وَهُوَ يُحَدِّثُ عَنْ
فَترَةِ الْوَحْيِ فَقَالَ فِي حَدِيثِهِ بَيِّنًا أَمَا
أَمْتَنِي إِذْ سَمِعْتُ صَوْتًا مِّنَ السَّمَاءِ
فَرَفَعْتُ بَصْرِي فَأَدَا الْمَلَكُ الَّذِي
حَآءَنِي بِجَرَّاءٍ جَالِسٍ عَلَى كُرْسِيِّ
بَيْنَ السَّمَاءِ وَالْأَرْضِ فَرُعْتُ مِنْهُ
فَرَحَعْتُ فَقُلْتُ زَمِلُونِي زَمِلُونِي

“Whilst I was walking along, I heard a voice from heaven and I raised up my eyes, and lo! the Angel that had appeared to me in Hīrā’ was sitting on a throne between heaven and earth and I was struck with awe on account of him and returned (home) and said, Wrap me up, wrap me up, however, added that it was the very angel that had come to Moses, and this was probably a reference to the Bible prophecy that a prophet ‘like unto’ Moses would be raised among the Ishmaelites (Arabs)

<sup>13</sup> The temporary breaking off of revelation was not very long certainly not longer than six months Ibn Ishāq’s report that it lasted for three years is belied by historical facts Persecution had begun and a large part of the Holy Qur’ān had been revealed, long before the expiry of three years It is also an established historical fact that on account of persecution which had grown very severe the Holy Prophet was compelled, in the fourth year of the Call, to take shelter in the house of Arqam and there prayers were said in congregation, and it is a fact that the Holy Qur’ān was recited in prayers from the first theh Allāh sent down 'O thou who art clothed! Arise and warn, And thy Lord do magnify, And thy garments do purify, And uncleanness do shun' "14

Then revelation became copious and came in succession <sup>15</sup> (B 1 1)

فَاَنْزَلَ اللّٰهُ تَعَالٰى يَا اَيُّهَا الْمَدْتَرُ قُمْ

<sup>14</sup> While the previous hadīth relates to the Holy Prophet's first experience of revelation this one speaks of his second experience. On this occasion the first five verses of ch 74 were revealed to him. This portion is from the Holy Prophet's own mouth, and therefore not the least doubt can be entertained as to the fact that Gabriel's second visit to him was the occasion mentioned in this hadīth. What is, therefore, added by Zuhri in B 92 1 (where h 2 is repeated) that during the break in revelation the Holy Prophet used to go to the tops of the mountains to throw himself down and Gabriel appeared to him on such occasions and comforted him that he was the true Messenger of Allāh cannot be accepted as true. This hadīth makes it clear that Gabriel was never seen by the Holy Prophet during the break, and that when he saw him on the second occasion, he was struck with awe as on the first occasion. Zuhri, moreover, gives no authority for his addition in B 92 1.

<sup>15</sup> Five short verses of ch 96 were revealed on the first occasion and five short verses of ch 74 on the second. After that, it is stated, revelation became plentiful—the Arabic word is ḥamīya which literally means became hot—and continuous, there being no break like the break between the first two revelations.

 "Do not move thy tongue with it to make haste with it Surely on Us devolves the collecting of it and the

So after this when Gabriel came to him the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him, would listen, and when Gabriel departed, the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him, recit-

 قَرَأَهُ النَّبِيُّ ﷺ كَمَا قَرَأَهُ ☆

<sup>16</sup> This hadīth shows that all revelations without any exception were delivered to the Holy Prophet by the angel Gabriel and that the method of their delivery was always the same, viz, that Gabriel first recited the revelation and the Holy Prophet listened to it and then when Gabriel departed the Holy Prophet recited the same words. On the first two occasions, only five short verses were revealed and it was not difficult for the Prophet to repeat them but after that, as shown in the last hadīth, revelation became plentiful, i.e., large portions were revealed at one time, and as Gabriel began to recite the Holy Prophet made haste to repeat lest any word or sentence might be lost. He was, therefore, told not to make haste with it and to wait until Gabriel had delivered the whole message and then to repeat the same, being assured that it was a Divine arrangement and that nothing would be lost (75 16, 17). In another very early chapter he was still more plainly told "We will make thee recite so thou shalt not forget" (87 6). There are chapters—one of these containing over a thirtieth of the Holy Qur'ān—that were revealed to him in their entirety at one time, yet Gabriel recited them once only and then the Holy Prophet repeated them without omission of a word and ordered them to be written down at once.

It would further appear from this hadīth that other people saw the Holy Prophet's lips move when he received the revelation which shows that his reception of the revelation was not subjective but a real and external experience.

5 'A'isha reported that Hārith ibn Hishām asked the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, "O Messenger of Allāh! How does revelation come to thee?" The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said

"Sometimes it comes to me like the ringing of a bell and that is the hardest on me, then he departs from me and I retain in memory from him what he says, and sometimes the Angel comes to me in the likeness of a man and I retain in memory what he says" <sup>18</sup>

هـ عَنْ عَائِشَةَ ابْنِ الْحَارِثِ بْنِ
هَشَامٍ سَأَلَ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ فَقَالَ

يَأْتِينِي مِثْلَ صَلَاطَةِ الْجَرَسِ وَهُوَ
أَشَدُّ عَلَيَّ فَيَفْصِمُ عَنِّي وَقَدْ وَعَيْتُ
عَمَهُ مَا قَالَ وَ أَحْيَانًا يَتِمَّتْ لِي
الْمَلَكُ رَحْلًا فَيُكَلِّمُنِي فَأَعْيِي مَا يَقُولُ

<sup>18</sup> The difference in the two states is one of the form the Angel assumed in the first case it is not stated what likeness the Angel assumed—it was an angelic form beyond description—and the words came forth with the clear resonant sound of vibrating metal, in the second case the Angel assumed the likeness of a man and the words were uttered as one man talks to another. That words were spoken in both cases is clear enough from the words of the hadīth, in both cases we are told "I retain in memory what he says" In the first case, however the words 'an-hu (i.e. from him) have been added to show that it was the Angel who spoke the words. In both cases the Holy Prophet saw the Angel and heard the words from the Angel and then retained them in memory, the difference was only one of the likeness of the Angel, and consequently, of the tone in which the words were uttered.

A'isha said, And I saw him when revelation came down upon him on a severely cold day then it departed from him and his forehead dripped with sweat<sup>19</sup>

فَنَقَلْتُ عَلَىَّ حَتَّى خَفْتُ أَنْ تَرْضَى
فَحَدَى

<sup>19</sup> There are many hadīth showing that a real change came over the Holy Prophet when revelation came down upon him. Here it is stated that perspiration ran down his brow on a severely cold day according to h 6. Zaid felt his thigh being crushed under the Holy Prophet's thigh when revelation came on, h 7 says that Ya'lā saw the Holy Prophet when revelation descended on him and "his face was red", according to h 8 when revelation descended on the Holy Prophet, "he appeared distressed and a change came over his face". All these hadīth show that whenever revelation came down upon the Holy Prophet, whether he was in public or in private, there was a real change which could not be assumed. It is clear from this that though revelation came to the Holy Prophet in a state of wakefulness yet there was a transition from the physical environment to the spiritual sphere, the effect of which was witnessed on the body. The new senses which were required to receive the revelation necessitated the coming of a kind of death over the body. The story that "froth appeared before his mouth" is a pure invention and no trace of it is to be met with in any hadīth.

7 Ṣafwān ibn Ya'lā reported that

Ya'lā said to 'Umar, Show me the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, when revelation is sent down to him

CHAPTER II

ĪMĀN (FAITH) AND ISLĀM (SUBMISSION)

1 "The Messenger has faith in what has been revealed to him from his Lord and so have the believers they all believe in Allāh and His angels and His books and His messengers we make no difference between any of His messengers" (2 285)

2 "And those who believe in what has been revealed to thee and what was revealed before thee and of the hereafter they are sure (2 4)

3 "O you who believe! Believe in Allāh and His Messenger and the Book which He has revealed to His Messenger" (4 136)

4 'The dwellers of the desert say, We believe Say, You believe not, rather say, We submit, and faith has not yet entered into your hearts" (49 14)

5 'The faithful are only those who believe in Allāh and His Messenger then they doubt not and struggle hard with their wealth and their lives in the way of Allāh" (49 15)

6 "And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth" (3 82)

7 "Whoever submits himself entirely to Allāh while doing good (to others)—he has his reward from his Lord" (2 112)

8 And remember the favour of Allāh on you when you were enemies Then He united your hearts, so by His favour you became brethren" (3 102)

9 "And do not say to any one who offers you salutation, Thou art not a believer" (4 94)

The basis of all higher religions is a faith in Divine revelation, because God is known to man, and personal contact with Him is established, only through revelation. Man can make all discoveries in the sphere of the finite but he cannot discover the Infinite God, it is God Who reveals Himself to man, and it is therefore only through Divine revelation that man can know God. Bukhārī who was gifted with special insight into matters religious begins his Jāmi' with the book of Revelation and follows it with the book of Faith. But the conception of faith in Islām is widened in two ways. In the first place, faith here stands not for faith in revelation to one person or one generation but a faith in revelation to all people in all ages (v 1) It is a faith in the books of Allāh, and in the messengers of Allāh, in all the books and messengers that preceded the Holy Prophet (v 2) And secondly, faith here combines both belief and actions in v 3, believers are asked to believe which means that they should bring their faith to its full development by good deeds and sacrifices, v 4 shows that the first step is that of mere acceptance of Islām and the second is that when faith has taken root in—entered—the heart When this stage is reached a man becomes capable of the highest deeds of sacrifice (v 5) Islām or submission to Divine laws is the rule of nature (v 6) and man attains perfection only when he submits himself to the revealed laws of God (v 7) Islām, however, does not aim only at individual perfection, it also establishes a vast brotherhood of humanity membership of which cannot be denied even to the man who simply offers the Islamic salutation (vv 8 9)

Hadīth related in this chapter begin with the basic fact that religion does not consist in hard religious exercises but in living a good life in which due regard is paid to the rights of others (hh 1—3) Good actions, it is further stated, spring from a good heart and hence the need of faith which rules the heart (h 4) Īmān (faith) and Islām (submission to Divine law) are often used interchangeably but Īmān strictly indicates the acceptance of a principle which is the basis of action—the theoretical side—, and Islām the action itself—the practical side of man's life (hh 5 6) But theory and practice here go hand in hand, and the actions which spring from faith are also called faith One's faith is therefore greater or less as one's actions are more or less beneficial to humanity Faith is spoken of as love the man who has faith in Allāh does not spare the doing of good to the nearest passer-by, so broad is his love for humanity (h 7), he loves the whole of humanity and most of all the Holy Prophet, because he is the greatest benefactor of humanity (h 8), his love for his brother is not mere word of mouth, but he is guided by that love in his everyday relations with him (h 9), he loves Allāh most of all and loves humanity for the sake of Allāh and thus his love for humanity is based on the purest of motives (h 10)

The next three hadīth show what Islām is It does not simply mean a certain declaration, the declaration of Divine Unity and prophethood of Muhammad brings a man into the fold of Islām, but to be a Muslim he must live the life of a Muslim the life of a man who lives in perfect peace with others The first condition of that life is that he shall not cause injury to any man either with his tongue or with his hand (h 11) Such injury is said to be an act of transgression even unbelief (hh 12 13) It is not permissible however, to go to the other extreme and call a Muslim an unbeliever or turn him out of the pale of Islām because he has committed an act of unbelief So long as a man declares his faith in the Unity of Allāh and the prophethood of Muhammad, he is a Muslim (hh 16, 17) Nay, a man who offers prayers like Muslims with his face to the Qibla has the covenant of Allāh and His Messenger that he shall be dealt with as a member of the Muslim brotherhood (h 15)

And the Holy Qur'an goes even further and accepts the Islamic salutation as sufficient proof that such a man is a Muslim whatever his differences with others (v 9) H 18 gives another description of what Islām in practice is

1 Abū Huraira reported that
The Prophet, peace and blessings
of Allah be on him, said

Religion is easy, and no one exerts himself too much in religion but it overpowers him, so act aright and keep to the mean and be of good cheer and ask for (Divine) help at morning and at evening and during a part of the night”<sup>1</sup>

عَلَيْهَا وَ عَمَدَهَا امْرَأَةٌ قَالَ مَنْ هَذِهِ

(‘Ā’isha) said, She is such and such a one, and began to speak (highly) of her prayers He said

“Enough, only that is binding on you which you are able to do, by Allāh, Allāh does not get tired but you get tired, and the condition dearest to Him is that in which the person perseveres<sup>2</sup> (B 2 31)

3 ‘Abd Allāh ibn ‘Amr reported,

The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said to me, “O ‘Abd Allāh’ Am I not told that thou fastest in the day time and standest up in devotion during the night?” I said, Yes, O Messenger of Allāh He said

“Do not do so, keep fast and break it and stand up in devotion (in the night)

تَفْعَلْ صُومَ وَ أَفْطِرْ وَ قُمْ وَ نَمَّ فَإِنَّ

<sup>2</sup> ‘Ā’isha admired the devotional exercises of a certain woman, but the Holy Prophet warned her of excess of these because, he said people indulge in these and then get tired of them The chief aim of religion is, as made clear in the concluding words to bring about perseverance in the character of a man He is therefore told to adopt that course in religious devotion in which he can keep constant

<sup>3</sup> There are many versions of this hadīth and in all of them it is made clear by the Holy Prophet that a man has several duties to perform and he must keep all of them in mind in devoting himself to religious exercise No religious exercise, whether it is keeping the fast or standing up in prayer, will do him good if he neglects his worldly duties In fact, even religious devotion is meant to make a man fitter for the performance of his duties which he owes to others In the development of the spiritual the physical side and worldly duties are not to be neglected

5 Abū Huraira said,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him</sup> was one day sitting outside among the people when a man came to him and asked, What is faith (Īmān)? He said

هـ- عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ كَانَ النَّبِيُّ

فَقَالَ مَا الْإِيمَانُ قَالَ الْإِيمَانُ أَنْ

<sup>4</sup> The man who is imbued with a truly religious spirit avoids not only what is manifestly unlawful but even the doubtful things which might lead him into the unlawful. The concluding portion of the hadīth shows that religion does not consist in the devotional exercises which a man may perform but in the presence in him of a right mentality—the mentality to act aright and avoid the wrong. A sound mind is of the essence of religion, as the Holy Qur’ān says “Except him who comes to Allāh with a sound mind” (26 89)

“Faith is that thou believe in Allāh and His angels and in meeting with Him and (in) His messengers and that thou believe in being raised to life (after death)”

He asked, What is Islām? (The Prophet) said

“Islām is that thou shalt worship Allāh and not associate aught with Him and (that) thou keep up prayer and pay the zakāt as ordained and fast in Ramadẓān”

He asked, What is ih̄sān (goodness)? (The Prophet) said

“That thou worship Allāh as if thou seest Him, for if thou dost not see Him, surely He sees thee”<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> At the end of this hadīth it is added that the Holy Prophet said that it was Gabriel who had come to teach people their religion. The hadīth is related with slight variations by 'Umar, but Bukhārī does not accept it. In 'Umar's version, describing īmān (faith) the Holy Prophet is reported to have said instead of “in meeting with Him,” “that thou believe in qadar, in the good of it and the evil of it.” The belief in qadar is evidently a doctrine of later growth and it is perhaps on account of this flaw that Bukhārī does not accept the version attributed to 'Umar. Another variation in 'Umar's version is that in describing

6 Ibn 'Umar said,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him said

"Islām is built on five (things), the bearing of witness that there is no god but Allāh and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh and the keeping up of prayer and the payment of zakāt and the pilgrimage and fasting in Ramadzān"<sup>6</sup>

what Islām is, the pilgrimage to Makka is also spoken of this is evidently an omission in Abū Huraira's version And further instead of "that thou shalt worship Allāh and not associate aught with Him" in Abū Huraira's version, we have in 'Umar's "That thou bear witness that there is no god but Allāh and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh"

This hadīth makes a distinction between Īmān (faith) and Islām, showing that the former relates to matters of conviction and the latter to matters of practice The third term ihsān is not a technical term and indicates the state of sincerity in one's conviction or practice—to feel oneself in Divine presence Īmān and Islām are often used interchangeably but, as distinguished from each other, īmān means a belief in Allāh, the angels, the messengers (which includes the Books or the messages) liqā'-Allāh (which means holding communion with Allāh), and in a life after death, while Islām means the worshipping ('ibāda) of Allāh keeping up prayer, fasting in the month of Ramadzān paying zakāt (a fixed portion of one's property) and the pilgrimage to Makka

The man who accepts these principles is a Muslim, and a member of the Muslim brotherhood

<sup>6</sup> This hadīth corroborates the definition of Islām as given in the previous one In fact, the first requisite of Islām—the bearing of witness that there is no god but Allāh and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh—includes all the other four because they are a part of the teachings of the Holy Prophet They are mentioned along with the basic principle on account of their importance

7 Abū Huraira said,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, said

“Īmān (faith) has over seventy, or over sixty, branches, the most excellent of these is the saying, There is no god but Allāh, and the lowest of them is the removal from the way of that which is harmful, and modesty (hayā) is a branch of faith”<sup>7</sup> (M 1 58)

<sup>7</sup> The word seventy is used in Arabic as a perfect number and signifies a large number. This hadīth shows that Īmān (Faith) carries a much wider significance than that which may generally be attached to it. It is not limited to certain matters relating to belief, to the conviction that certain principles are true, but extends to the carrying out of those principles into action, nor is it limited to certain religious acts or devotions but covers all good qualities and actions that benefit humanity.

Īmān is represented as a big tree with branches extending in all directions. The confession of Divine Unity which is the basic principle of Islām is the highest branch of this tree, while even the removal from the way of what may cause harm to a passer-by is a branch of the tree of faith. The making of roads for the convenience of the public is therefore an act of faith. Thus all acts which aim at doing good to humanity are branches of the tree of faith, and faith thus signifies the proper development of all human faculties. Hayā, translated here as modesty, is specially mentioned because it originally signifies that quality which makes one shun all evil things (R)

"None of you has faith unless I am dearer to him than his father and his son and all mankind"<sup>8</sup>

<sup>8</sup> Though here only love for the Prophet is spoken of, yet what is meant is love for Allāh and His Prophet, as h 10 shows. The love for a person springs from the good which he does to us or from the benefit which we may derive from him. As the Holy Prophet is the greatest benefactor of humanity, and of his umma in particular every Muslim is required to have greater love for him than for any other human being. Highest love for the Holy Prophet is made a test of faith, because the stronger the ties which bind a man to him the greater the strength with which he will be able to walk in his footsteps and the larger his capacity to do good to humanity.

Practically, the Muslim world to-day has proved an entire failure under this test. The Holy Prophet and his teachings are misrepresented throughout the world and he is abused as no other religious leader has been abused, but Muslims do not stir a little finger to remove the misrepresentations and carry the true teachings of Islām to a world which is groping in the dark.

<sup>9</sup> Here is another test of real faith. It is not simply doing to others as one would like them to do to oneself, it is much more—to love for others what one loves for oneself. Such a state of mind can arise only from the highest disinterestedness. Muslims judge each other by the repetition of certain formulæ and by belief in certain doctrines, the Holy Prophet required* them to be judged by their love for Allāh and His Prophet and by their love for humanity.

10 Anas reported on the authority of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, He said

“There are three qualities, in whomsoever they are met with he has tasted the sweetness of faith—that Allāh and His Messenger are dearer to him than anything besides them, that he loves a man and does not love him but for the sake of Allāh, and that it is loathsome to him that he may go back into unbelief as it is loathsome to him that he may be thrown into the fire ”

<sup>11</sup> This is how Islām introduced spiritual meaning into physical words—Ḥijra or flying from home becomes flying from evil

believers are spoken of as fighting with each other (49 9) The act itself may amount to unbelief, but the doer of it does not thereby become an unbeliever so long as he professes faith in the kalima, the Unity of Allāh and the messenger ship of Muhammad, which is the basic principle of Islām

<sup>13</sup> I have omitted here the portion of the hadīth which speaks of according an equal treatment to slaves, and have quoted only the words of the Holy Prophet which show that abusing another man is an act of ignorance which word in Muslim terminology is equivalent to unbelief Abū Dharr had used the words Ibn al-saudā, or son of a Negro woman, regarding another, and as these words were used contemptuously, they were considered an abuse of one Muslim by another, which was an act of ignorance or unbelief In fact, every evil deed is an act of unbelief according to the Holy Prophet, just as every good deed is an act of faith Neither does an unbeliever become a believer if he does a good deed, nor a believer an unbeliever if he does an evil deed The line of demarcation between the believer and the unbeliever is the confession that God is One and that Muhammad is His Messenger—Lā ilāha illallāh Muhammad-un Rasūl-ullāh

<sup>15</sup> Here a more practical test is given. If you see a man saying his prayers in the Islamic mode and with his face to the Qibla that is a sure test that he is a Muslim—for him is the covenant of Allāh and the covenant of His Messenger—and to call him a kāfir is violation of the covenant of Allāh. The Holy Qur'an lays down a still more practical and a broader test "And do not say to any one who offers you (Islamic) salutation, Thou art not a believer" (4 94). When a person says to another as-salāmu 'alaikum to show thereby that he is a Muslim, he cannot be called an unbeliever or kāfir. The author of the Mawāqif says

<sup>16</sup> The generality of the theologians and the jurists are agreed that none of the Ahl Qibla (persons facing the Qibla in their prayers) can be called a kāfir (Mt p 600)

<sup>17</sup> This hadīth and the one previous to it show that when a person professes that God is one and that Muhammad is His Messenger with a sincere heart, i.e., trying to the best of his knowledge to follow the Divine commandments and walk in the footsteps of the Holy Prophet he is saved from the fire and shall enter paradise

<sup>18</sup> Faithfulness to Allāh consists in submitting to Divine commandments; faithfulness to His Messenger means following in his footsteps; faithfulness to Muslim leaders consists in obeying their orders so long as they do not go against Allāh and His Messenger, and faithfulness to Muslims in general consists in doing one's utmost for their good. This is the quintessence of the religion of Islām

This saying of the Holy Prophet is quoted by Bukhārī in the heading of his chapter

CHAPTER III

KNOWLEDGE

1 'Read in the name of thy Lord Who created, He created man from a clot. Read and thy Lord is most Honourable, Who taught to write with the pen taught man what he knew not' (96 1—5)

2 "Allāh will exalt those of you who believe and those who are given knowledge to high degrees" (58 11)

3 'And say O my Lord increase me in knowledge' (20 114)

4 And whoever is given knowledge is given indeed great wealth' (2 269)

While faith brings about the spiritual and moral development of man knowledge brings about his intellectual development, and therefore stands next in importance to faith. Bukhārī's arrangement of his books is therefore very judicious. The first revelation that came to the Holy Prophet is admittedly the first quotation given above. These verses not only lay stress on both reading and writing but also speak of the Lord of Honour in this connection showing that man can attain to honour only through knowledge. This is expressly stated in v 2. The Holy Qur'ān even directs the Holy Prophet to seek more and more knowledge (v 3). It is in fact full of praise for knowledge: the words ya'lamūn (they ponder), yatafakkarūn (they reflect), yataadhakkarūn (they meditate) and other similar expressions occur on almost every page of the Holy Qur'ān. V 4 speaks of knowledge as great wealth. Such is also the import of the very first hādīth quoted in this chapter which speaks of both wealth and knowledge as things which man desires naturally to seek and in which all men should try to emulate each other (h 1). The Holy Prophet made it incumbent on those who came to him to seek knowledge to impart the same to others (hh 2, 3) and desired even those who were considered to be in the lowest strata of society to be uplifted to the highest level through education (h 4). Islām, in fact, lays the basis of mass education: education of men as well as women, of children as well as adults. The Holy Prophet himself made arrangements for the education of women (h 5). Writing was encouraged (hh 6—9) and acquisition of knowledge was made the standard of excellence (h 10). It is spoken of in the highest terms of praise (hh 11—14) and this explains the unsatiable thirst for knowledge of the Muslims of earlier days. H 15 makes it incumbent upon every Muslim, man or woman, old or young, that he should acquire knowledge and thus introduces the principle of compulsory education. A warning is given that when a nation gives up the acquisition of knowledge, its downfall is sure (h 16).

1 'Abd Allāh ibn Mas'ūd said,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh</sup>
he on him, said

"There shall be no envy but (emulate) two<sup>1</sup> the person whom Allāh has given wealth and the power to spend it in the service of truth and the person whom Allāh has granted knowledge<sup>2</sup> of things and he judges by it and teaches it (to others)."<sup>3</sup> (B 3 15.)

١- عَنْ عَبْدِ اللَّهِ بْنِ مَسْعُودٍ قَالَ
قَالَ النَّبِيُّ ﷺ لَا حَسَدَ إِلَّا فِي

اللَّهُ الْحِكْمَةَ فَهُوَ يَقْضِي بِهَا وَ يُعَلِّمُهَا ☆

<sup>1</sup> The words in Arabic are lā hasada illā fi-thnataim which may be rendered as meaning "there shall be no hasad but in two cases". But as hasad or the desire that another person shall be deprived of the advantages which he has is totally prohibited by the moral code of Islam, the word illā is here used as an istithnā munqatī'. Hasad (envy) and ghibta (emulation) have one thing in common, viz. a desire regarding advantages or excellence which another man possesses, but in hasad the desire is that he shall be deprived of them while in ghibta it is that the desirer may be favoured with similar advantages. By using the word ghibta in the heading of this chapter, Bukhārī shows that while hasad is prohibited here ghibta is recommended in two cases.

<sup>2</sup> The word in the original is hikma which may be rendered wisdom or knowledge. According to R it means "the knowledge of things and the doing of good".

<sup>3</sup> The desire to have knowledge is here made akin to the desire to possess wealth which is a natural desire in every human heart and thus it is made clear that the acquisition of knowledge is as important as that of wealth, and every human being should acquire both. The desire to possess either, however, is made subject to a further condition: the possessor of wealth spends it in the cause of truth, and the possessor of knowledge teaches it to others, so that the benefit of humanity is the real end in view. In the Holy Qur'ān, knowledge is spoken of as the greatest wealth. "And whoever is given knowledge (hikma), he indeed is given great wealth" (2: 269).

<sup>5</sup> Here we are told that, so far as education was concerned even slave-girls were not to be neglected. They had to be trained well and educated in the best manner. This was what Islām aimed at and this was to be the Muslims’ highest ideal, not only were free citizens to be trained and educated but even slaves, who were considered by the Arabs to have a very low status, not so low, however, as the unfortunate untouchables in India, were to be brought up to the level of the free citizen by proper education and training and not only boys but girls as well. The questions of mass education, female education and emancipation of slaves were thus forestalled by the Holy Prophet thirteen hundred years before modern civilization.

<sup>6</sup> Bukhārī mentions this hadīth under the heading, “Should a separate day be fixed for the education of women?” It shows that from the Islamic point of view it is desirable that there should be separate arrangements for the education of men and women.

<sup>7</sup> Although the Holy Prophet himself did not know reading or writing, he encouraged both. There is a misunderstanding as to the prohibition of writing down hadīth. As this hadīth shows, the Holy Prophet himself ordered the writing down of hadīth when it was needed. Generally, however, writing of hadīth was not considered desirable as it was feared that persons who were not cautious enough might confuse the verses of the Holy Qur'ān with hadīth. As the next hadīth however, shows there were some people who regularly resorted to writing hadīth.

<sup>13</sup> This is also a saying of the Holy Prophet and forms part of the heading of B 3 10. It is related as a separate hadīth in Tr. Knowledge is here described as the inheritance of the prophets and is called a great fortune.

<sup>14</sup> Baihaqī adds that the text of this hadīth is well-known but its authorities are weak. It should, however, be noted that there is a number of hadīth quoted above which make it obligatory upon all Muslims men as well as women, to acquire knowledge, and therefore there is no reason to reject it.

<sup>15</sup> “The hour” in the language of Islām indicates as regards an individual, his death, as regards a nation, the hour of its doom, and as regards the whole of humanity the destruction of all. Evidently what is meant here is the doom of a particular nation. Just as knowledge brings life to a nation, ignorance seals its doom. Thus have Muslims fallen on evil days, instead of that thirst for knowledge which characterized their ancestors, ignorance has taken hold of them.

CHAPTER IV

PURIFICATION

1 "And thy Lord do magnify, And thy garments do purify, And uncleanness do shun" (74 3-5)

2 "Surely Allāh loves those who turn to Him again and again, and He loves those who purify themselves" (2 222)

3 "Attend to your adornment at every time of prayer" (7 31)

4 "We have indeed sent down to you clothing to cover your shame and clothing for beauty" (7 26)

5 "O you who believe! When you rise up to prayers, wash your faces and your hands as far as the elbows and wipe your heads and (wash) your feet to the ankles, and if you are under an obligation to perform a total ablution, have a bath, and if you are sick or on a journey, or one of you come from the privy, or you have had contact with women, and you cannot find water, betake yourselves to pure earth and wipe your faces and your hands therewith, Allāh does not desire to put on you any difficulty but He wishes to purify you and that He may complete His favour on you, so that you may be thankful" (5 6)

Purification, though a necessary preliminary to prayer, is an independent subject and is dealt with as such in Ḥadīth collections. The first three quotations from the Holy Qur'ān given above require in general terms that the man who would turn to his Lord should be pure in body and garments which latter, according to v 4, serve the purpose of covering nakedness as well as beautification. V 5 gives the details of ablutions which are necessary before prayer. Purity of the body is thus required as a preliminary to the purity of mind, and the Muslim who is required to say prayers five times a day must needs keep himself and his clothes always clean.

It is true that an intelligent man should know for himself what cleanliness is, but religion aims at giving directions to men in all states of civilization, in early states as well as in the more developed ones. Moreover, the masses among all people stand in need of minute details, and hence while the Holy Qur'ān simply gives the general direction to keep oneself in a state of cleanliness, Ḥadīth gives the necessary details. As a matter of fact Islām directs attention to many details of personal cleanliness of which even the more civilized people are ignorant.

I have divided the chapter into five sections. The first deals with natural evacuations. Purification is called half the faith (h 1) and the key to prayer (hh 2, 3). It must not be forgotten that purity of the body is a prelude to the purity of the soul (h 4). Full regard must be paid to personal cleanliness as well as public hygiene (hh 5-13). Spitting in public places is forbidden (hh 16 17).

The second section deals with tooth-brushing which occupies a very prominent place in the Muslim's cleanliness. It is spoken of as a means of purifying the mouth and seeking the pleasure of the Lord (h 18) which is to show that God loves even bodily cleanliness. Great stress is laid upon its use (hh 19, 20), and the minimum requirement is that the tooth-brush should be used after getting up from sleep (hh 21, 22). A clean mouth is in fact the greatest help for the preservation of health. Its importance is further emphasized in h 23.

The third section gives the details of ablution (hh 25-36) and shows when a fresh ablution becomes necessary (hh 37-41). A prayer directing attention to purity of the spirit must be offered when the ablution has been performed (h 43).

The fourth section deals with total ablution or bath, which is made compulsory once a week (hh 44-46). Particular occasions on which bath must be taken are mentioned in hh 47-50. A person under an obligation to have a bath on account of janāba and a menstruating woman are not impure (hh 51, 52). Some details are given in hh 53, 54 and taking a bath naked in an open place is strictly forbidden (h 55).

The fifth section deals with tayammum or wiping the face and hands with pure dust when water is not available for ablution or bath though it may be available for drinking or domestic purposes or when the use of water is likely to be harmful (hh 56-59). This act is as it were a reminder that purification before prayer is an essential thing.

SECTION 1—NATURAL EVACUATIONS

1 Abū Mālik said,
The Messenger of Allāh
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, said

"Purification is half the faith" <sup>1</sup> (M-Msh 3)

<sup>1</sup> A pure mind in a pure body is the watchword of Islām. Here cleanliness is not next to godliness but it is half of godliness or faith.

2 Jābir said,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, said

“The key to paradise is prayer and the key to prayer is purification ”

(Ah-Msh 3 )

٢- عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ
ﷺ مِفْتَاحُ الْجَنَّةِ الصَّلَاةُ وَ

3 Ibn 'Umar said,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings

“Prayer is not accepted without purification, nor of what is acquired by unlawful means ”<sup>2</sup>

٣- عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ قَالَ

4 Anas said,
When the Prophet,
peace and blessings

٤- عَنْ أَنَسٍ قَالَ كَانَ النَّبِيُّ ﷺ
إِذَا دَخَلَ الْخَلَاءَ قَالَ اللَّهُمَّ إِنِّي

<sup>2</sup> This hadīth and the previous one lay down in general terms that purification is a necessary condition of prayer, which in fact means that a man should always keep himself free from impurities, since prayer is said five times a day. The habit of outward purification is thus developed through an institution which is meant to purify the soul, and a Muslim is required to keep his body, his clothes, in fact, the whole of his environment, clean. Charity like prayer purifies the mind, and as what is acquired by unlawful means is impure, the pure and the impure cannot go together.

of water.<sup>4</sup> (B 4 15)

The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allah be on him, said

٧- عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ قَالَ رَسُولُ

<sup>3</sup> Khubuth is the plural of khabiṭh (an evil person) and khabā’irih is the plural of khabiṭha (an evil person of feminine gender), and the words are generally understood as meaning the devils, but according to the Nihāya, the first word may also be read as khubṭh which means impure deeds and the second word may also mean evil habits. Thus from outward defilement attention is directed to inward impurities.

<sup>4</sup> Other hadīth speak of stones for cleaning purposes, but water was used when available even after cleaning with earth or stones. These may appear to be minor details, but the minutest details are necessary to develop habits of cleanliness. Water or earth was also used after urinating.

<sup>5</sup> This hadīth and the one following speak of pebbles or balls of dry earth for cleaning purposes. Toilet paper would serve the same purpose.

“When one of you goes to ease himself, let him take with him three pebbles with which to clean himself, for these will suffice him”

(AD-Msh 3 2)

When the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, wanted to ease himself he went (to a distant place) until no one could see him <sup>6</sup>

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, said

“When one of you wishes to pass urine, let him seek the proper place for urinating.” <sup>7</sup>

... إِذَا أَرَادَ أَحَدُكُمْ أَنْ

<sup>6</sup> For evacuating himself a man must not, therefore sit in a place where he can be seen by others, that is, when he goes out into field. Latrines must be made on the same principle

<sup>7</sup> So there must be either urinals or a man must retire to some other proper place

The right hand of

٢٥- عَنْ يَحْيَى الْمَازِنِيِّ أَنَّ رَجُلًا

A man said to 'Abd Allāh ibn Zaid, Canst thou show me how the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him, performed ablution? 'Abd Allāh ibn Zaid said, Yes <sup>15</sup> Ablution, which means washing of certain parts of the body that are generally exposed and where dust or dirt is likely to settle, is a preparation for going into the Divine presence. The object is undoubtedly two-fold, that a man should be clean and that he should feel that he is cleaning himself to go into the Divine presence. The words of the hadīth are generally taken to mean that ablution is not perfect unless it is accompanied with the remembrance of Allāh. The beginning should be made with Bismillāh as in the case of all important affairs.

So he sent for water and poured it over his hands and washed his hands twice, then he rinsed his mouth and sniffed water into his nose thrice, then he washed his face thrice, then he washed his hands up to the elbow twice, then he wiped his head with both his hands so that he carried them from the front and brought them back—he began with his forehead until he carried them to his neck then he brought them back to the place from which he had started—then he washed his two feet. <sup>16</sup> The various reports show that there was great latitude in these matters. The cleaning might be effected in some cases by washing once only while in others it might require repetition. Maqā'id, according to Ibn Hajar, is the name of a place in Madīna. According to others, it means a place where people sit together.

The next hadīth shows that socks are treated similarly, i.e., it is sufficient to pass wet hands over them when they are worn after performing ablution. This may be done for one day and night, i.e., the socks or boots must be taken off and the feet washed once in every twenty-four hours, but in the case of one who is journeying the time-limit is three days and nights. مَنْ أَحْدَثَ حَتَّى يَتَوَضَّأَ ☆

<sup>20</sup> The Arabic word is ahdath which means originally he caused or occasioned a thing, and is technically applied to the voiding of ordure. When Abū Huraira was asked, what hadath was, he simply said, breaking wind, but it includes the passing of urine, stools and wind. To this must be added sound sleep as stated in h 39, and vomiting (h 40), though there is a difference of opinion in the latter case. The reason for a fresh ablution after sound sleep seems to be that one does not know if one has passed wind in that condition. Bukhārī makes it clear that ablution is only necessary when something passes out through the makhrajain, the two ways of natural evacuation. The flowing of blood from wounds or the spitting of blood does not necessitate ablution. If a man performs ablution by wiping his boots or socks, and then takes them off, fresh ablution is not necessary (hh 32, 34). Taking food or milk does not call for fresh ablution, but the mouth should be rinsed in both cases (B 4 50, 51, 52).

There are certain hadīth speaking of the necessity of ablution in certain other cases. For instance, there is a hadīth which says that ablution should be performed if one has kissed one's wife, but this is contradicted by other hadīth. The clear rule laid down by Bukhārī that ablution is necessitated only by what passes out of the two outlets of natural evacuation is the safest rule. Sound sleep and vomiting are the only exceptions.

37 Anas said,

هـ-٤- عَنْ قَيْسِ بْنِ عَاصِمٍ أَنَّهُ

<sup>22</sup> Taking a bath once a week, on Fridays, is made incumbent irrespective of other needs. It does not mean that a Muslim should take a bath only once a week, it is the minimum requirement, and the whole body as well as the head must be washed by both men and women, rich and poor, at least once a week. To keep oneself clean has already been stated to be half the faith, and in the hot and even temperate seasons nothing less than a daily bath can serve that purpose, but in the cold season and in the case of generality of people who cannot afford a daily bath, the washing of the whole body once a week is an absolute necessity.

Islām, and the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, commanded him to take a bath with water and (leaves of) the lote tree<sup>23</sup>

٤٩- عَنْ عَائِشَةَ أَنَّ امْرَأَةً سَأَلَتْ

<sup>23</sup> This was a kind of disinfectant, soap would serve the same purpose. A man who is initiated into Islām must clean himself outwardly also by having a bath, and this was further meant to serve as a hint that he should henceforward aim at both purity of body and purity of mind.

<sup>24</sup> Janāba (from janb meaning a side) is literally the putting of a thing aside or making a person avoid a thing. In the religious terminology of Islām, the state of janāba arises from nocturnal pollution (ikhlām) and coitus (sexual intercourse) for both men and women. There are contradictory hadīth as to whether bath is necessary in case of sexual intercourse when there is no emission, and Bukhārī favours the view that wuḍū' or ablution is sufficient in such a case, but that bath is better. The person who is in a state of janāba is called junub. Such a man must take a bath before he can say his prayers.

The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup>, met him on a certain road of Madīna when he (Abū Huraira) was junub. Considering myself unclean I left him, then I went and took a bath. Then he (Abū Huraira) came, and (the Prophet) said "Where wert thou, O Abū Huraira?" He said, I was junub, so I did not like that I should sit with thee while I was in a state of <sup>25</sup> A bath is necessary for women after menses (ḥaḍḍ) and puerperium (nifās), i.e. the flow of blood after child-birth. During the period of menses and puerperium a woman is exempted from prayer. Menstruation generally lasts from three to ten days, and a bath is needed when the flow stops, after a minimum period of three days. Bath must necessarily be taken after the maximum period of ten days, and if the flow continues after that, it is called istihādza, and the rules relating to menses do not apply to this state.

impurity He said

“Allāh be glorified, the believer does not get impure” <sup>26</sup> (B 5 23)

(M-Msh 3 12)

<sup>26</sup> This hadīth shows that the state of janāba is not a state of defilement. The junub can do everything, he is simply required to take a bath before saying his prayers.

<sup>27</sup> This hadīth removes another great misconception. The woman, who has her menses on, is not impure. There is a large number of hadīth showing that her social relations with her husband or other members of society remain unchanged.

Maimūna said,

The hands should be struck on clean earth, then the dust should be shaken or blown off, then the back of each hand should be wiped with the other and then the face should be wiped with both hands. There are other hadīth which give a slightly different process, but as the object is simply to remind a man that he is going to a Higher Presence, this simple process serves the purpose well enough. Bukhārī relates that Yahyā ibn Sa'īd said that there was no harm in performing tayammum on sabkha, i.e., on ground on the surface of which salt had appeared (B 7 6). And generally anything would do, on the surface of which dust might have settled.

In this case the wounded man had a bath on the advice of his friends, and the wound got septic and he died. The Prophet upbraided his companions for giving an advice which was not based on knowledge.

CHAPTER V

THE MOSQUE

1 "Surely the first house appointed for men is the one at Bakka blessed and a guidance for nations " (3 95)

2 ' And from whatsoever place thou comest forth turn thy face towards the Sacred Mosque, and wherever you are turn your faces towards it " (2 150)

3 " And had there not been Allāh's repelling some people by others, certainly there would have been pulled down cloisters and churches and synagogues and mosques in which Allāh's name is much remembered " (22 40)

4 " And who is more unjust than he who prevents men from the mosques of Allāh that His name should be remembered therein and strives to ruin them " (2 114)

5 " The mosques are Allāh's " (72 18)

6 " The idolaters have no right to visit the mosques of Allāh " (9 17)

The first mosque built on the earth is the Sacred Mosque, the Ka'ba, built at Makka, also called Bakka (v 1), and all mosques should therefore face towards the Sacred Mosque (v 2, h 3) The Prophet's Mosque at Madīna was a simple structure made of rough material, and though in rebuilding it finer material was used by 'Uthmān, the third Caliph, it still retained its simplicity (h 4) A mosque should be a simple structure it should not be decorated (h 5), and should have no pictures or statues in it (h 8) It should be kept clean (hh 9, 10) and even perfumed (h 9) Its only furniture consists of a pulpit, wherefrom the Imām delivers a sermon on Fridays or addresses people on other important occasions, and of mats on which prayers are said (hh 11, 12), though prayers may be said even on bare ground (h 13)

The whole earth being a mosque (h 1), prayers may be offered anywhere, singly or in congregation, and accordingly no consecration of the mosque is necessary Prayers may be said even in a non-Muslim house of worship, provided it contains no statues or pictures (h 8) Building of a mosque is an act of great merit (h 2) No Muslim can be denied the right to enter a mosque and offer prayers therein (v 4) A mosque is said to be Allāh's (v 5) it is thus not the property of any person, though its management must necessarily be in the hands of some one, the builder of the mosque or any one appointed by him nor can a mosque when once built be diverted to any other use once a mosque always a mosque A place set apart in a house for saying prayers in congregation would, however retain its private nature (h 14)

The mosque is meant primarily for Divine worship To the Muslim, however, the mosque means much more than a mere house of Divine worship which could, in fact be offered anywhere it is the real centre for the society of Islām in a certain locality, as the Ka ba is the centre for the Muslims of the whole world The mosque is also the cultural centre of Islām The Prophet's Mosque at Madīna had a kind of boarding-house called the Suffa, attached to it for students where at one time as many as seventy students were accommodated (hh 16 17) In fact, the mosque is plainly stated to be a place to which one should go to learn or teach some good (h 18) The Suffa of the Prophet's Mosque has left its legacy in the form of the malṭab or madriṣa (the school)—considered a necessary adjunct to the mosque to this day—and the library which was generally attached to the more important mosques by Muslims in all ages

The mosque, being the essential meeting-place of Muslims five times a day, became also a general centre where all important matters relating to the welfare of the Muslim community were transacted and where Muslims gathered together on all important occasions The Holy Prophet himself (with his wife 'Ā'ishā) witnessed a display with lances given by some Abyssinians in the mosque (h 19) Hassān ibn Thābit recited in the mosque his poems in defence of the Holy Prophet (h 20) Juridical affairs were also settled in the mosque (h 21) A tent was set up for a wounded soldier in the mosque (h 22) Even a freed handmaid had a tent set up for her in the yard of the Mosque (h 23) Deputations were received in the mosque and sometimes even lodged there (h 24) A prisoner who was an idolater was once kept in the mosque (h 25) On another occasion it served the purpose of the treasury (h 26) The mosque was thus not only the spiritual centre of Muslims, but also their educational, political and social centre, their national centre in a general sense

Notwithstanding all that has been said above, the sacredness of the mosque, as the house of Divine worship, was fully observed On the one hand, non-Muslims were received and even lodged there, but, on the other, the Holy Qur'ān plainly laid it down that they had no right to visit the mosques (v 6) It was only on sufferance that they were admitted there While many affairs relating to the welfare of the community were attended to in the mosque, yet all this was to be done with the respect due to the House of God The raising of voices in the mosque was forbidden (h 27), and spitting therein is called a sin (h 29) In all those matters which related to the sanctity of the mosque, Muslims were however, told to be lenient (h 31) Carrying on any kind of trade in the mosque is strictly prohibited, as is also the reciting of poems, and even sitting in circles and indulging in talk at the time of prayer (h 32) The mosque should not be used as a thoroughfare and the doors of the houses should not open on to it (h 33) Nothing is to be done in the mosque which may give offense to others, and it is for this reason that the eating of raw onions or garlic when going to the mosque is prohibited (h 34) Saying prayers with the shoes on is permitted (h 35), but the general practice now is to take them off before entering the mosque as a mark of respect It would be improper to take dogs inside the mosque, though if a dog happens to pass through it the mosque is not hereby defiled (h 36)

An important question relates to a junub and a menstruating woman entering the mosque According to hadīth narrated in the previous chapter, neither the junub, nor the menstruating woman, is najs, i.e., defiled or impure (IV 51, 52), and when an idolater (man or woman) can enter the mosque as already shown, there could be no prohibition against Muslims In h 23, it is clearly stated that a woman was allowed to have a tent pitched in the mosque and she resided in it, and there is nothing to show that she was turned out when she had her monthly courses And Ā'ishā was told by the Holy Prophet that menstruation did not affect her hands in any way (h 30) and consequently it affected no other part of the body Therefore hadīth speaking of the prohibition for the junub and the menstruating woman to enter the mosque must be taken as having a limited application, in the sense that they cannot enter the mosque in order to say prayers

1 Jābir reported that
The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, said

4 'Abd Allāh ibn 'Umar reported that

The Mosque was, in the time of the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him,</sup> built of unburnt bricks and its roof was of palm-boughs resting on columns of the stems of palm-trees

اللَّهِ ﷺ مَبْنًى بِاللِّينِ وَسَقْفُهُ
الْجَرِيدُ وَعَمْدُهُ خَشَبُ النَّخْلِ

<sup>2</sup> This hadīth shows that a mosque should be built facing towards the Ka'ba, which, according to the Holy Qur'an, is the first mosque built on the earth. Before the revelation referred to in this hadīth (v 2), Muslims used to face towards Jerusalem which was the qibla of the Israelite prophets. It was about sixteen or seventeen months after the Hijra that the Holy Prophet received the revelation to make the Ka'ba his qibla. The idea underlying the Qibla is to bring about unity of purpose. As in a large country the direction of the Ka'ba would be different in the north from that in the south, it is stated in a hadīth (Ah I, 223) that "it is not fit for one country to have two qiblas," for different qiblas in one country would destroy the very purpose of the Qibla.

Abū Bakr did not add anything to it, and 'Umar extended it and built it of unburnt bricks and palm-boughs, on the foundation on which it was built in the time of the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him</sup> and made anew its columns of timber. Then 'Uthmān changed it, and made in it very large extensions and built its walls of chiselled stone and mortar and made its pillars of chiselled stone and its roof of teakwood<sup>3</sup>

So 'Uthmān made it of hewn stone and mortar, but it was still a simple structure, and such were also all the mosques built in the great Muslim centres.

The money was there, a hundred thousand dirhams, but he did not even look at it. Neither did he take one pie of it into his house, nor did he reserve any portion of it for future needs.

<sup>18</sup> As h 20 shows, the Holy Prophet allowed Hassān to recite his verses in the mosque, because they were religious in character. The carrying on of trade in the mosque is forbidden because it would change the atmosphere of the mosque into that of a market. The last prohibition aims at maintaining the serenity of the prayers. People sitting in groups would usually indulge in talk which would disturb the calm and quiet necessary to a prayerful attitude. And that is the reason why Muslims so strongly resent noise or music before mosques at the time of prayers.

<sup>19</sup> The doors of the Holy Prophet's apartments opened into the mosque, and so did those of some other houses. But later on all these doors were closed so that the mosque should not be used as a thoroughfare.

<sup>21</sup> This hadīth shows that prayers may be said with shoes on. Hence a man can also go into the mosque without removing his shoes, but that they must be clean is a necessary condition. It must further be remembered that the floor of the mosque was of gravel, and shoes were needed as a protection from heat or cold. The practice now is that shoes are left outside the mosque. But if needed as a protection from severe heat or severe cold or for some other reason, a man may go into the mosque with shoes on if they are clean. The case of a non-Muslim is different. He can enter the mosque only on sufferance, and he must, therefore, be required to remove his shoes as a mark of respect.

36 'Abd Allāh ibn 'Umar said,

CHAPTER VI

ADHĀN AND IQĀMA

1 O you who believe ' when the call is given out for prayer on Friday, hasten to the remembrance of Allāh and leave off business ' (62 9)

The adhān (lit an announcement) is an announcement of the time of prayer in the words of h 3 on hearing which Muslims flock to the mosque or to a place of prayer and the iqāma (lit setting upright of a thing or establishing an affair) is a similar call in the words of h 4, at which those gathered in the mosque arrange themselves into ranks and the prayer service is started. Though prayers were said in congregation from the very start when this institution was established very early at Makka, the adhān and the iqāma were introduced after the flight to Madīna. But the adhān is not only an announcement to the people to gather together for prayer, it is as well a declaration of the principles of Islām, made with a loud voice, from every locality inhabited by Muslims. It is an announcement to the whole world five times a day as to what Islām is and what it stands for. In the shahāda there is a declaration of the basic principles of Islām that there is no god but Allāh—God is only One—and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh. In the takbīr there is the declaration that Allāh is the greatest power and that, therefore, a Muslim bows before none but Allāh—Allāhu Akbar the watchword of Islām is repeated no less than six times in the adhān. In hayya'ala s-salā (come to prayer) there is the declaration of the real message of religion which is the realization of the divine in man. This can only be attained through prayer, by drinking deep at the Divine source. In hayya-ala-l-falāh (come to success) we are told that success, or full development of the human faculties, can be attained only through prayer or the realization of the divine in man.

The adhān thus serves a double purpose, it is an announcement of the time of prayer and at the same time an announcement of the principles of Islām and the significance underlying them. It replaces the meaningless ringing of a bell or the blowing of a trumpet by the most effective propaganda of religion that can be thought of. To everyone's door, nay to his very ears, is carried the message every morning, every noon, every afternoon, every evening and at the time of going to bed that the Unity of God and the messengership of Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, are the fundamental principles of Islām, and that any one can attain to complete self-development through the realization of the divine in him which is brought about by prayer

Muslims must give up all business on hearing the call for prayer (v 1) How adhān was started is stated in hh 1, 2 while h 3 gives the words of the adhān and h 4 the words of the iqāma Hh 5-8 relate to the mode of delivery of the adhān, while hh 9, 10 show that the adhān must be delivered from a high place and in the loudest voice so that it may reach the largest number of people The deliverer of the adhān must be a man who is respected for his virtues and he should take no remuneration for this service (hh 11 12) The call must be obeyed (h 13) The words of the adhān should be repeated when it is being delivered, and a prayer must be offered after it has been delivered (hh 14—16) The adhān may be called out earlier than the time of prayer if there is some other object in view (h 17) Hh 18 19 relate to the delivery of the iqāma

1 It is reported about Ibn 'Umar that he used to say,

The Muslims when they came to Madīna used to gather together and they made an appointment for prayers; no call was given for it So they talked about it one day Some of them said, Have a bell like the bell of the Christians; others said, Rather a bugle like the horn of the Jews, 'Umar said, Would <sup>1</sup> It appears from other hadīth that the portion that follows relates to another occasion. A consultation was held but nothing was decided then, though 'Umar seems to have made a suggestion that instead of ringing a bell or blowing a horn, a man should be appointed to give a call for prayers. According to one hadīth 'Abd Allāh ibn Zaid was shown in a vision how to give a call for prayer. So when the Messenger of Allāh came the next day, he informed him. O Messenger of Allāh! I was half asleep and half awake when there came to me one who showed me how to deliver the adhān. The narrator of the hadīth added 'Umar had been shown it twenty days previously but he concealed it, then he informed the Holy Prophet (AD 2 27). Bukhārī refers to this by quoting 'Umar as saying, Would you not appoint a man who should give a call for prayer. It was, however, the Holy Prophet's order—or maybe he himself had received a revelation, similar to the visions of 'Abd Allāh and 'Umar as some reports show—which gave the sanction to the adhān.

ring a bell Then Bilāl was commanded to call out the adhān, repeating the words, and to say the iqāma, uttering the words only once (B 10 2)

3 Abū Mahdhūra said, I said, O Messenger of Allāh! Teach me the practice of the adhān He said, So he touched his forehead (and) said

<sup>2</sup> The repetition of the shahāda a second time as stated in this hadīth is known as tarjī' (lit returning to a thing again and again) As the previous hadīth and the one that follows show, the general practice in the Holy Prophet's time was that the adhān consisted of fifteen sentences, Allāhu-Akbar four times, āshhadu an lā ilāha illa-llāh twice, āshhadu anna Muḥammada-r-Rasūlu-

4 Ibn 'Umar said,
In the time of the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him, (sentences of) the adhān used to be repeated twice, and (those of) the iqāma (were uttered) only once, with this exception that he used to say, Prayer is ready, Prayer is ready<sup>3</sup>

٥- عَنْ سَعْدٍ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ

llāh twice (both sentences beginning with ashhadu are known as the shahāda)
hayya 'ala-s-salā twice (turning the face to the right), hayya 'ala-l-falāh twice (turning the face to the left), Allāhu Akbar twice and lā ilāha illa llāh, once The tarjī or repeating the two shahāda sentences twice again in a still louder voice seems to have been resorted to only occasionally In the adhān for the morning prayer the sentence as-salātu khayr-un mina-n-naum was added after hayya 'ala-l- falāh, and repeated twice

<sup>3</sup> As compared with the adhān, the sentences were uttered only once in the iqāma, according to this hadīth, the significance being that sentences that were uttered twice in the adhān were uttered once in the iqāma The iqāma thus consists of Allāhu Akbar being uttered twice—in the adhān it is uttered four times—each of the shahāda sentences once hayya 'ala-s-salā and hayy 'ala-l-falāh each once (without turning to right or left), qad qāmat-s salā twice, Allāhu Akbar and lā ilāha illa llāh once

But the iqāma may also consist of all the sentences of the adhān with the addition in its proper place of qad qāmat-s salā uttered twice Between the delivery of the adhān and the iqāma there is another difference The sentences of the adhān are delivered leisurely and in as loud a voice as possible, while the delivery of the iqāma is marked by quickness

CHAPTER VII

JAMĀ'A (CONGREGATION)

1 "And establish prayer and pay the zakāt and bow down with those who bow down" (2 43)

2 "Thee do we serve and Thee do we beseech for help Guide us on the right path" (1 4, 5)

3 "And when thou art among them and ledest the prayer for them, let a party of them stand with thee and let them take their arms, then when they have prostrated themselves let them go to your rear and let another party who have not prayed come forward and pray with thee" (4 102)

The prayer-service of Islām is essentially a congregational service, and has, besides the development of the inner self of man, through communion with God, other ends as well in view, which show what a unique force the Islamic prayer is in the unification of the human race. In the first place, this gathering of all people living in the same vicinity five times daily in the mosque, is a great help to the establishment of healthy social relations, the circle becoming wider in the Friday service, and still more extensive in the Īd gatherings. But the jamā'a not only promotes social relations, what is far more important it levels down social differences. In the congregational prayer all Muslims stand shoulder to shoulder before their Maker, the king along with his poorest subject, the rich arrayed in costly robes with the beggar clad in rags, the white man along with his black brother. Nay, the king or the rich man standing in a back row is required to lay his head, when prostrating himself before God, at the feet of a slave or a beggar standing in the front row. There could be no greater levelling influence in the world. In fact, congregational prayers are meant, among other things, to carry into practice the theoretical lessons of equality and fraternity for which Islām stands, and however forcibly Islām may have preached in words the equality of man and the fraternity of the community of Islām, all this would have ended in mere talk, had it not been translated into every-day life through the institution of five daily congregational prayers.

The stress laid by the Holy Qur'ān on jamā'a is evident not only from the express command contained in v 1, the very word used in it for the observance of prayers is evidence that congregation is of the essence of prayer. Wherever the institution of prayer is spoken or one of the derivatives of the word iqāma which signifies the putting (of an affair) into a right state or the keeping up or establishing of it is used to indicate its proper observance. This very word iqāma technically signifies the pronouncement of certain sentences before the congregational service is held for which see the preceding chapter. The word iqāma being thus associated with congregational service by the Holy Prophet himself is a clear indication that by the iqāma of prayer in the Holy Qur'ān is meant the establishment of the congregational service. In fact the stress laid on jamā'a by the Holy Qur'ān is evident from its prayers which all aim at the development of the community as a whole—V 2 which contains the most frequently repeated prayer of Islām affords an example of this. V 3 shows that the importance attached to congregational prayer is so great that even when facing the enemy in the battle-field Muslims are required to say their prayers in congregation.

Of the hadīth related in this chapter, the first three lay stress on the importance of the congregational prayer, h 4 shows that when the congregational prayer is being said no prayer shall be said singly. H 5 speaks of the excellence of congregational prayer, while h 6 shows that when it would be hard on people to gather together in the mosque they should be allowed to say their prayers in their abodes. Hh 7, 8 show that even women were required to join the congregation while h 14 requires that women should form a separate row by themselves. Hh 9—12 relate to the arrangement of ranks, while h 13 shows that a single man shall not form a row by himself.

1 Abū Huraira reported that The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said

"I swear by Him in Whose hand is my soul, I had almost determined that I should order that wood should be collected, then I should order that a call should be sounded for prayer then I should order a man that he should lead the prayer, then I should

<sup>4</sup> In such a case, the man is required to take hold of a man from the last row and make him stand along with himself behind the row so that the two together may form a row

<sup>5</sup> In congregational prayers the women formed a row by themselves behind the male rows, and even if there was a single woman, she formed a row by herself. Women were not allowed to mix with the men in their rows, as such a course would have led to the evil which is witnessed in church gatherings

CHAPTER VIII

THE IMĀM

1 'And when his Lord tried Abraham with certain words he fulfilled them He said, Surely I will make thee a leader (imām) of men Abraham said, And of my offspring? My covenant does not include the unjust, said He" (2 124)

Imām is literally one who is imitated or whose example is followed from ʾimma bi-hi, he followed or imitated him It generally means a head or a chief or a leader, whether he follows the right way or not In relation to congregational prayers, the imām is the person who leads the prayer Abraham is spoken of as having been made an imām because he fulfilled the Divine commandments—and every imām should try to follow his example, and an unjust person did not deserve to be made a leader—even though he may be of high parentage (v 1)

That the man who leads the prayers is called an imām shows that he should be one occupying the highest place of honour in his community on account of his righteousness While alive, the Holy Prophet himself acted as imām, and when he was unable during his last illness to perform that function he ordered that Abū Bakr should act as imām (h 1)

The honour of acting as an imām should be conferred upon the man who occupies the highest place of honour in a community (h 1), it is further laid down that the man having the greatest knowledge of the Qur'ān should be chosen as imām (hh 2, 3), even though he be a slave (h 4) He should not be paid any remuneration for leading prayers (H vi 12) It is not, however, prohibited to say prayers behind an imām who is either a usurper (h 5) or an unrighteous person (h 6) A blind man is not unfit to lead the prayers (h 7) nor is a woman (h 8) The imām should have regard for the weak and the sick among those who follow him (h 9) Those who follow the imām shall not anticipate him in any movement (h 10) When a person joins the congregational service, he should start his prayer where he finds the imām (h 11) The position which the imām occupies in relation to the congregation is explained in hh 12–14 There is no harm if a wall intervenes between the imām and the congregation (h 15)

1 Abū Mūsā said,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup> fell ill and his illness became severe, so he said "Tell Abū Bakr that he should lead the prayer for the people"<sup>1</sup> So the messenger came to him, and he (Abū Bakr) led the prayer for the people in the lifetime of the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup>

(B 10 46)

2 Abū Mas'ūd said,
The Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> said

"The man who knows most the Book of Allāh shall act as imām of a people,<sup>2</sup> and if there are persons equal in their knowledge of the Qur'ān, then he who has greater knowledge of

<sup>1</sup> While alive the Holy Prophet himself acted as imām and led the prayers During his last illness he became too weak to leave his bed and to go out to pray in congregation, so he directed that Abū Bakr should lead the prayers This hadīth, along with the Holy Prophet's practice, is conclusive proof that the man who held the highest place of honour in the community on account of his righteousness acted as imām, for after the Holy Prophet Abū Bakr was admittedly the most excellent of his followers

the Sunna, and if they are equal in their knowledge of the Sunna, then he who is first in hijra,<sup>3</sup> and if they are equal in hijra, then he who is older in years, and a man shall not lead another in prayer in the place where he (the latter) is in authority,<sup>4</sup> and no one shall occupy the place of honour in another man's house except with his permission”

CHAPTER IX

INSTITUTION OF PRAYER

1 Recite that which has been revealed to thee of the Book, and establish prayer surely prayer keeps one away from indecency and evil " (29 45)

2 " And establish prayer in the two parts of the day and in the first hours of the night surely good deeds take away evil deeds this is a reminder to the mindful " (11 114)

3 ' Establish prayer from the declining of the sun till the darkness of the night, and the morning recitation, surely the morning recitation is witnessed " (17 78)

4 ' Surely prayer is a timed ordinance for the believers " (4 103)

5 " Guard (your) prayers and the most excellent prayer, and stand up truly obedient to Allāh " (2 238)

6 " Woe to the praying ones, who are unmindful of their prayers, who pray to be seen and withhold alms " (107 4-7)

In this chapter I have collected the hadīth relating to the times of prayer and other external circumstances relating to it, while the prayer-service itself is dealt with in the next chapter

Prayer was made an institution by Islām It was not left to individual choice to resort to prayer when and how one liked The order to establish prayer as an institution is very frequent in the Holy Qur'ān, the first three verses quoted above being given as an example The purification of the mind is the great aim (vv 1, 2 hh 1 2), which is attained by resorting to the remembrance of Allāh time after time in the midst of one's worldly pursuits The spirit to serve humanity is also imbibed through prayer, and unless that spirit is imbibed, prayer is simply a show (v 6) The times of prayer were fixed by Divine ordinance (v 4) There is a continuity in prayer from the declining of the sun till the darkness of the night (v 3)—early afternoon late afternoon, after sunset and early hours of the night (h 3)—and then there is a break till dawn (v 3) which is the time of the fifth prayer (h 3)

To say prayer purposely when the sun is rising, or when it is setting is prohibited (h 5) The two afternoon prayers and the two early night prayers may be combined (h 6) The morning and the late afternoon prayer must not be missed on any account (h 7) When a prayer has been unavoidably missed (h 8), or when one forgets the saying of a prayer (h 9) the prayer must be said at the first opportunity It is undesirable to sleep before the Ishā' prayer or engage in unnecessary talk after it (h 10) Everything must be avoided which may distract one's attention from prayer (hh 11-13) One must not hurry for prayer, for it would destroy the calm of mind which is so essential for prayer (h 14), nor should one when taking food make haste and leave his food for the sake of prayer (h 15) Prayer may be said even when riding (h 16), in a boat or a railway carriage As regards dress, a man may wear any dress that he can afford or that is convenient for him, and prayer may be said even in knickers and shirt (h 17) It is not proper for any one to pass in front of the man who is praying (h 18) and a sutra may be set up when prayer is said in an open place

1 Abū Huraira reported that He heard the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, say

“Tell me if there is a stream at the door of one of you, in which he bathes five times every day, what dost thou say, will it leave anything of his dirt?”

They said, It would not leave anything of his dirt
He said

<sup>1</sup> This hadīth should be interpreted in the light of the Qur’ān which says as quoted in the heading “Prayer keeps one away from indecency and evil” (v 1) By the blotting out of faults is therefore meant curbing the tendency to go against Divine injunctions. The man, who feels himself in the Divine presence five times a day, has his mind purified of all dross just as the bather is purified of physical dirt.

<sup>2</sup> That is the essence of prayer, a man should feel when praying that he is alone before his Maker, and he should open his mind to Him in its fullness.

<sup>3</sup> This is a comprehensive hadīth relating to the times of prayer. It further shows that the mode of prayer, the rakas and the time thereof were taught to the Holy Prophet by Divine revelation, as it was Gabriel who led the prayers and the Holy Prophet followed him. Gabriel pointed out the time-limits within which different prayers could be said. The different times thus are Zuhr—when the sun begins to decline till ‘Asr, ‘Asr—when the sun is about midway on its course to setting till it begins to set, Maghrib—after the sun sets till the disappearance of the red glow in the west, ‘Ishā’—after the disappearance of the red glow till midnight (as other hadīth show), Fajr—after dawn till sunrise. Where the days are too short, the Zuhr and the ‘Asr prayers may be combined, and where the nights are too short, the Maghrib and the ‘Ishā’ may be combined (h 6). Where the days or nights extend over 24 hours, the times of prayer may be fixed in accordance with the times of work and rest. Thus the morning prayer may be said on rising from sleep, the Maghrib and the ‘Ishā’ when going to bed, and the Zuhr and the ‘Asr in the middle of the day’s work.

<sup>4</sup> The Fajr prayer is the last prayer of the night, and the ‘Asr the last prayer of the day. As h 7 shows, these two prayers are given a special importance.

<sup>5</sup> What is forbidden is the commencing of prayer purposely when the sun is setting or when it is rising. If, however, a man begins his prayer before the setting of the sun, and it begins to set when he is still praying, he should finish his prayer. Similarly in the case of the rising of the sun. The prohibition aims at avoiding resemblance with sun-worshippers.

<sup>6</sup> This hadīth allows the combining of Zuhr with ‘Asr prayer and that of Maghrib with ‘Ishā. According to another hadīth (Ah I, 223), the Holy Prophet did this when there was “neither danger nor rain,” and he did this so that “his umma may not be in difficulty.” This shows that the prayers spoken of may be combined in case of danger or rain, and even when there is no such reason. The combined prayers may be said at either prayer time. In combining prayers the sunna that fall between the two prayers are dropped.

So I said, what are the two 'Asr prayers? He said "A prayer before the rising of the sun and a prayer before the setting of it."

<sup>8</sup> The hadīth does not mean that only two prayers are sufficient. It only lays stress on their special importance. Or, perhaps the man found it difficult to attend the congregational prayer five times daily, and he was told to be mindful specially of these two prayers and not to miss them in congregation.

CHAPTER X

PRAYER-SERVICE

1 "O you who believe! Do not go near prayer when you are intoxicated until you know what you say" (4 43)

2 "And when you journey in the earth there is no blame on you if you shorten the prayer" (4 10)

3 "And when thou art amongst them and leadest them in prayer, let a party of them stand up with thee then when they have prostrated themselves, let them go to your rear, and let another party who have not prayed come forward and pray with thee" (4 102)

4 "And they who pass the night prostrating themselves before their Lord and standing" (25 64)

5 "Thou wilt see them bowing down, prostrating themselves, seeking grace from Allāh and pleasure" (48 29)

6 "O you who believe! Bow down and prostrate yourselves and serve your Lord" (22 77)

7 "Those who remember Allāh, standing and sitting" (3 190)

Every prayer-service consists of two, three or four units (h 1), the unit being called a rak'a (lit, an act of bowing) which consists of qiyām (standing), rukū' (bowing of the head and body), sajda (prostration) and jalsa or qa'da (sitting), in the order in which they are mentioned. These are all the worshipful positions which a man can adopt, and they are mentioned in the Holy Qur'an in different places, not of course in this order (vv 3—7). It will be noted that after giving the number of rak'as in a particular prayer it is added, "and after it two rak'as" (h 1). This latter is the supererogatory part (nafl), which is said singly and is commonly known as sunna (the Prophet's practice), as distinguished from the congregational prayer which is called maktūba (obligatory) (H VII 4), and is commonly known as farḍ. There is perfect agreement in the whole Muslim world as to the number of rak'as in the congregational service. In the case of prayers consisting of four farḍ rak'as, the number of rak'as is halved when journeying, while the sunna may be dropped altogether (v 2, h 32) A full description of the different postures of the rak'a—a practical revelation to the Holy Prophet (H 15, 3)—and the arrangement in which they follow each other are given in h 3 Further details relating to these postures are contained in hh 4-7

Every posture or change from one posture to another is connected with some kind of dhikr,* and the man who prays should know its significance (v 1 h 8) The most frequently occurring dhikr in prayer is the takbīr (magnifying), i.e., the utterance of Allāhu Akbar (Allāh is the Greatest) These words are uttered first when a man begins the prayer-service and then on every change from one position to another except when he rises from rukū' (h 9) An additional dhikr after rising from rukū' is mentioned in h 19 After the first utterance of Allāhu Akbar one or other of the dhikrs mentioned in hh 10, 11 is uttered in a voice audible to oneself only The latitude given in this matter shows that any other prayer may be added It is however with the Fātiha that the service really opens (h 12) It is so essential to prayer that without it no prayer is acceptable (h 13) The recital of the Fātiha is followed by Āmīn which should be uttered in a loud voice when the Fātiha is recited in a loud voice (h 14) In the first two rak'as the Fātiha is followed by the recital of any portion of the Holy Qur'ān (hh 15, 16) There are many forms of dhikr for rukū' and sajda (hh 17, 18) to which any prayer in any language may be added, especially in sajda, in which state a person is enjoined to make most petitions, as he is nearest to God when he humbles himself most (h 21) In fact, the whole of the prayer-service is a petition to the Divine Being, and any prayer may be addressed in any position so much so that the Holy Prophet used to address prayers even when reciting the Holy Qur'ān (h 18) Special intercessory prayers were offered on rising from rukū' (h 20) A prayer is also addressed in the respite between the two sajdas (h 22) Prayers are also offered in the sitting position (hh 23-26) But like a petitioner who takes advantage of an opportunity for being heard, some sort of dhikr is resorted to even after the prayer is finished (hh 28, 29) The service ends with taslīm (h 27)

Some points of minor importance are added at the end The first relates to the procedure to be adopted when a mistake is made through forgetfulness (hh 30, 31), the second to prayer when journeying and to the duration of the journey (hh 32, 33)

* Dhikr means literally remembrance, and in relation to prayer it includes all utterances regarding the praise and glorification of God, recitations from the Holy Qur'ān and supplications to God

<sup>1</sup> Rak'a (from raka'a, he bent or bowed down) taken as meaning a single act of standing in prayer, is really a unit in the Islamic institution of prayer. It consists really of all the four possible worshipful positions, viz., standing, bowing down, prostration and sitting. Its full description is given in h 4. A man first stands in prayer, then bows down, then stands upright again, then falls down in prostration, then raises himself up and sits down then falls down in prostration again and then raises himself up again. This is called one rak'a. After every two rak'as the sitting position is assumed for a longer time. The standing position is called qiyām, the bowing down rukū', the prostration sajda, and the sitting position jalsa when it is a short sitting between the two sajdas, and qa'da when it is a longer sitting for reciting tashahhud after two rak'as or at the end of prayer. This hadīth contains full details of the number of rak'as for the different prayers with the exception of Fajr, which consists of two rak'as, but the statement made here that nafl or sunna rak'as were said during journeys is contradicted by Bukhārī (h 32).

<sup>2</sup> From the hadīth that have gone before it appears that he said two rak'as before Zuhri. It is, therefore, reasonable to conclude that sometimes he said two rak'as sunna and sometimes four.

<sup>10</sup> This direction shows that the Holy Prophet wanted the people to know the significance of what they recited in their prayers. Mere repetition of words without understanding their meaning does not serve the real purpose of prayer.
The recitations, which are essential in prayer-service are so few that a child, as well as an adult, can learn their significance within three months. It may, however, be noted that some of the phrases, which are more frequently repeated in prayer, are understood by Muslims generally, whether they are educated or not, such as Allāhu Akbar, Subhāna Rabbiya-l- Aẓīm, etc. Moreover the different postures are a great help in creating a prayerful mood.

Prayer is said to open with al hamdu li-llāhi (the Fātiha), because it is with this prayer that the imām opens the prayer in a loud voice, the dhikr, called istiftāh being uttered individually in a voice audible to oneself only

<sup>20</sup> The prayer after rising from rukū' is known as qunūt, the name given to the special prayer of qunūt. This hadīth further shows that any petition whatsoever may be made in any posture during the prescribed prayers. The Holy Prophet spoke the Arabic language and he therefore made all supplications to God in Arabic. Following this practice everyone is at liberty to ask for anything from God in his own language.

<sup>21</sup> The state of sajda or prostration is a state of utmost humility and the humbler a man feels before the Great Maker, the nearer he is to Him. He is told to make most of his petitions in this state. These petitions may be made in any language. Undoubtedly those made in the language which a man generally speaks would give the best expression to his deep feelings and are most fitted to lay open his mind before God.

The tribulation of the Anti-Christ is spoken of as the greatest tribulation that has appeared in the world, and it is stated in ḥadīth that the first and the last ten verses of the chapter entitled Kahf (ch 18) afford a protection from it "He who remembers the first ten verses of the chapter entitled the Cave is protected from the tribulation of the Dajjāl" (A D 36 14, Tr 31 59, IM 36 33, Ah VI, 446) Now the verses referred to speak of the Christian doctrine, and therefore there is not the least doubt that the tribulation of the Dajjāl means the tribulation of the Christian or materialistic civilization with which we are faced in these days, and the name Anti-Christ given to it is due to the fact that it is opposed to the true teaching of Christ, who never taught the doctrines of Sonship and Atonement

Another hadīth shows that the Holy Prophet said two rak'as instead of four, and when he was informed of it, he first completed the number and then performed two sajdās (B 22 3). According to another hadīth (B 8 31, 22 2), when five rak'as were said instead of four, and the Holy Prophet was informed of this after finishing the prayer, he performed only two sajdās which were followed by taslīm. In all cases the sajdās were followed by taslīm only. In 22 4, Bukhārī quotes Qatāda that there is no additional tashahhud in cases of forgetfulness. When the imām makes a mistake, any one of those following him may point it out to him simply by saying Subhān Allāh, the implication being that every human being is liable to error.

<sup>31</sup> The Holy Prophet, however, said the witr prayer in journey (B 14 6), and his tahajjud prayer as well (B 18 6) The sunna before the Fajr prayer are an exception as one hadīth shows that he never dropped them (B 19 22)

<sup>32</sup> According to this hadīth, a person who has to stay at one place even for nineteen days in the course of a journey may continue to shorten the prayer. But as nineteen days is nowhere spoken of as the limit the prayer may be shortened even for a longer period in such a case. When a person settles down at a place, the case is different and he must complete the prayer. So also in touring when that is part of the duty of a person.

CHAPTER XI

FRIDAY SERVICE

“O you who believe! When the call is given for prayer on Friday, hasten to the remembrance of Allāh and leave off business” (62 9)

Jumu'a (from jama'a, he gathered together) is literally congregation, it is the name by which the sixth day of the week is known. The verse quoted above contains an express commandment to all Muslims to leave off business of every kind to join it. The prevalent idea that Friday service can be held only in big towns or under Muslim rule has no sanction in the Holy Qur'ān, which requires all Muslims wherever they may be to join it. Hadīth makes it further clear. In the Holy Prophet's time, Friday service was held at Juwāthā a village in Bahrain (h 1). It was held even in a place where some Muslims had settled temporarily for management of a tract of land (h 2). Omitting the Friday service without good excuse is considered as one of the gravest sins (h 3). Even women should try to attend the Friday service (h 4), and also those who are journeying (h 5). But when the inconvenience is too great, attendance is not compulsory (B 11 13). Time for the Friday service is the same as that for the Zuhr prayer (h 6), though on account of the larger numbers attending the service an additional adhān has become the practice (h 7). Every Muslim must try to take bath before attending the congregation and cleanse his mouth and use scent if possible (h 8). Two sunnas must be said before the service is held (h 9). The service must be preceded by a sermon which constitutes an integral part of it (hh 10-13). The service itself consists of two rak'as (h 14), in which the Holy Qur'ān is recited in a loud voice (h 15).

1 Ibn 'Abbās said,

<sup>3</sup> Women were required to attend the 'Id gatherings, and their presence at the Friday service is of the utmost importance for the welfare of the Muslim community, and, therefore, even if it may not be obligatory for them, they should generally attend the Friday service so far as is consistent with their duties. The words of the Holy Prophet quoted here include the Friday service along with other prayers.

5 It is reported on the authority of Zuhri,

When the Mu'adh<sup>dh</sup>in gives a call for prayer on Friday, and there is one who is journeying, it is incumbent on him that he should attend (B 11 17)

6 Anas reported that The Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him,</sup> used to hold the Friday service when the sun declined (B 11 15)

7 Sā'ib said, The first call on Friday, in the time of the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him,</sup> and Abū Bakī and 'Umar, was sounded when the imām ascended the pulpit, but when (the time of) 'Uthmān came and the number of people became very great, he added a third call at the Zaurā'<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> The additional adhān is called the third adhān—actually it is the first—, the ordinary adhān and the iqāma being the other two. As the hadīth shows, this adhān, delivered some time before the imām ascended the pulpit, was meant to inform the people that they should get ready for the prayer, and it was, therefore, delivered at Zaurā', a place in the market of Madīna.

8 Abū Sa'id said,

<sup>7</sup> The Friday sermon is thus divided into two parts, the imām sitting down to take a little rest in the middle. The Holy Prophet used to take some verse of the Holy Qur'ān as his text, which he explained to the audience. The object of the sermon is to give true guidance to the congregation on the various questions of life, and it is, therefore, quite meaningless to deliver the sermon in Arabic to people who do not understand that language

15 Ibn ‘Abbās reported on the authority of the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup>

He used to recite (on Friday) al-Sajda (ch 32) and Hal atā ‘ala-l-insān (ch 76) in the morning prayer, and al-Jumu‘a (ch 62) and al-Munāfiqūn (ch 63) in the Friday service<sup>9</sup> (Ah I, 340)

<sup>8</sup> The Friday service thus consists of two rak as of prayer, and whoever misses both should say the Zuhr prayer

<sup>9</sup> This shows that the Holy Qur‘ān was recited in a loud voice in the Friday service

CHAPTER XII

ĪD SERVICE

1 'It is not their flesh nor their blood that reaches Allāh, but to Him is acceptable righteousness on your part' (22 37)

2 "When they fall down eat of them and feed the poor man who is contented and the beggar" (22 36)

The word 'Īd (from 'āda he or it returned) is literally "the time of return of joy and of grief" (LL), and hence it comes to indicate a festival or a periodical festival. The word 'Īd itself occurs in the Holy Qur'ān only in connection with the prayer of Jesus for bread for his disciples in the sense of an ever-recurring happiness (5 114). There are two festivals among the Muslims (h 3), the festival of sacrifices called Īd al-Adḡhā, (dzuḡhā meaning early part of the day, and dzaḡhā, he sacrificed a victim in the time of dzuḡhā), and the festival of breaking fasts, called 'Īd al-Fitr (fatara meaning he split a thing and aftara, he broke the fast). In the Holy Qur'ān a reference to 'Īd al-Adḡhā is contained in the course of the mention of the sacrifice which is the chief feature of that day (v 12)

The dates for the two Īds are determined with reference to the appearance of the new moon, and hence certain rules are laid down when there is doubt about it (hh 1, 2). The festivals start, not with any physical enjoyment but, with an act of bowing before God, so that the spiritual awakening thus brought about may serve as a restraint on physical enjoyment (h 3). A sermon is delivered by the imām after two rak'as of prayer have been said, and stress is laid in it on matters relating to the welfare of the community (hh 3, 4). No adhān is delivered, nor the iqāma a number of additional takbīrs is, however, pronounced during the service (hh 5, 6). Women and children are also required to join in the service and listen to the sermon (hh 7, 8). The 'Īd service is held wherever there is a number of Muslims, whether it is a town or a village or a solitary place (h 8). In the Īd al-Fitr it is necessary to take some food before going out to pray (h 9). The taking of a bath is also necessary (h 10). The Īd prayer should be said at an early hour, say by breakfast time (h 11). The Holy Prophet generally took a different route on returning from the place of prayer (h 12). Sacrifice should not be offered until prayer has been said (h 13). Everyone who has the means is required to sacrifice an animal (h 14). Some details regarding the animals to be sacrificed are given in hh 15, 16. One goat or one sheep is sufficient for one man or one household but seven men may be partners in one cow or one camel (h 17) The animals may be sacrificed either on the day of Īd or on the two following days (h 18) A part of the meat of the animal sacrificed is distributed among the poor, and the price of the skin must be devoted to charitable objects (H VIII 26) A charitable institution is also connected with the Īd al-Fitr in the form of Fitr charity which must be collected at a central place and then distributed (hh 19, 20) When the Īd occurs on a Friday, the Friday service becomes optional (h 21) A little music or sport is not prohibited on the Īd day (h 22)

1 Ibn 'Umai reported that
The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, mentioned Ramadẓān and said

"Do not keep the fast until you see the new moon, and do not discontinue the keeping of fast until you see it (again), and if it be veiled to you (by cloud, etc), have it measured" (B 30 11)

2 Ibn 'Umar reported that,
The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings
of Allah be on him, said

"The month is (sometimes) twenty-nine nights, so do not keep the fast
until you see (the new moon), and if it be veiled to you (by cloud, etc), then complete the number thirty"<sup>1</sup> (B. 30. 11)

the Adzhā to the Musallā, so the first thing that he did was the saying of prayer, then he turned and

٣- عَنْ أَبِي سَعِيدٍ قَالَ كَانَ النَّبِيُّ ﷺ يَخْرُجُ يَوْمَ الْفِطْرِ وَالْأَضْحَى

be seen there are two ways suggested to determine its appearance, either thirty days may be completed (h 2), or the appearance of the new moon may be determined by calculation based on the course of the moon (h 1). According to another hadīth (B 30 13), the Arabs did not keep an account of the course of the moon and therefore the easier way for them was to complete the interval of thirty days. It follows therefore, that it is not forbidden for a people who keep the account to determine the appearance of the moon from its course. This would bring about more uniformity in the observance of the ‘Īd in one country. Wireless however, has made uniformity possible even if the actual appearance of the moon is depended upon.

* The Musallā (lit the place of prayer) means here the place where the ‘Īd service was generally held. In the ‘Īd service, the prayers were said first and the sermon delivered afterwards. The sermon not only contained general injunctions, but also dealt with measures relating to the welfare of the community.

4 Ibn 'Abbās reported that, The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allah be on him, said two rak'as of prayer on the day of the Fitr, and he did not say any prayer before it, nor after it, then he came to the women and with him was Bilāl, and he commanded them to give charity, so they began to throw away (their ornaments),—a woman gave away her ear-ring and her necklace<sup>3</sup> (B. 13 8)

5 Jābir ibn Samura said, I said both the 'Īd prayers with the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allah be on him, not once or twice, without adhān and without iqāma (M-Msh 4 47)

6 Kathīr reported on the authority of his grandfather that,

٤- عَنْ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ أَنَّ النَّبِيَّ ﷺ صَلَّى يَوْمَ الْفِطْرِ رَكْعَتَيْنِ لَمْ يُصَلِّ قَبْلَهَا وَلَا بَعْدَهَا ثُمَّ أَتَى السَّاءَ وَمَعَهُ بِلَالٌ فَأَمَرَهُنَّ بِالصَّدَقَةِ فَجَعَلْنَ يُثْلِقْنَ تُلْقَى الْمَرْأَةُ خِرْصَهَا وَنَخَابَهَا ☆

٦- عَنْ كَثِيرٍ عَنْ حَدِّهِ أَنَّ

<sup>3</sup> In the sermon the men were asked to join the army if the raising of an army was necessary, and the women were asked to contribute to the expenses Charity in the Holy Prophet's day was directed as much towards the defence of the community as towards the help of the poor

The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> uttered takbīrs in both ‘Īd services seven times in the first (rak‘a) before the recitation (of the Fātiha), and five times in the second (rak‘a) before recitation <sup>4</sup>

(Tr-Msh 4 47)

7 Umm ‘Atiyya said, We (women) were commanded to go forth on the day of ‘Īd, in so far as to make a virgin leave her curtain and to require (even) menstruating women to turn out, and they (the women) were behind the men, and they uttered the takbīr along with their takbīr, and they made their supplications along with their supplications, hoping for the blessings of that day and its purification <sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> All women, even young girls, were commanded to go forth for the ‘Īd service. Menstruating women took part in all functions only they did not join the prayer-service (B 13 15)

8 Anas ordered his slave Ibn Abī 'Utba at Zāwīya, so he gathered together the people of his household and his sons, and held prayer service just as the residents of the towns hold prayer service and utter takbīrs

* Being the festival of breaking fasts, it is necessary that something should be eaten before prayer. According to another hadīth, food should be taken on the Id al-Adzhā after prayers have been said, but this perhaps refers to partaking of the meat of the animal sacrificed.

11 It is reported on the authority of ‘Abd Allāh ibn Busr that,

He went forth with the people on the day of the Fitr or the Adzha, and disapproved of the delay of the imām and said, We used to have finished by this time, and it was the time of the prayer after sunrise<sup>7</sup> (IM 5 170)

<sup>9</sup> This relates to the 'Id al-Adzhā Sacrifice was not allowed before prayers, for such procedure would have given precedence to the physical enjoyment of partaking of meat over the spiritual bliss of bowing before God

<sup>10</sup> Musinna means full-grown, “and is applied to an animal of the ox-kind and to the sheep or goat, at the least in the third year” Jadha'a “as applied to a sheep, a year old, and sometime less than a year, or eight months old or nine or from six months old to seven and applied to a goat a year old, applied to a bull, in his second year or in his third year, and applied to a camel in his fifth year” (LL)

16 Barā' ibn 'Āzīb reported that,

The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, was asked as to what sacrifices should be avoided. He pointed out with his hand and said

“Four The lame one whose limping is manifest, and the blind of one eye whose disfigurement is manifest, and the diseased one whose disease is manifest, and the emaciated one which has no marrow left in its bones.”<sup>11</sup>

(AD-Msh 4 48)

17 Jābir reported that, The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said, “(Sacrifice of)<sup>12</sup> a cow (suffices) for seven, and that of a camel for seven”

(M-Msh 4 48)

١٦- عَنْ السَّاءِ بْنِ عَارِبٍ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ سُئِلَ مَاذَا يُتَّقَى مِنَ الضَّحَايَا فَاتَّارَ بِيَدِهِ فَقَالَ أَرْبَعًا الْعَرَجَاءُ الَّتِي تَطْلُعُهَا وَالْعَوْرَاءُ الَّتِي عَوْرُهَا وَالْمَرِيضَةُ الَّتِي مَرَضُهَا وَالْعَجْفَاءُ الَّتِي لَا تُتَّقَى ☆

<sup>11</sup> This shows that the animal to be sacrificed should be healthy and sound, without any manifest disfigurement

<sup>12</sup> One goat or one sheep for one man or one household is the rule, but a cow or a camel would suffice for seven, the latter even for ten according to another hadīth (Tr Msh 4 48)

sā' of dates or one sā' of barley—obligatory on every slave and free man, male and female, minor and major, from among Muslims, and ordered that it should be paid before people go out for ('Id)

وَأَمَرَهَا أَنْ تُؤَدَّى قَبْلَ خُرُوجِ
النَّاسِ إِلَى الصَّلَاةِ ☆

<sup>13</sup> The animal to be sacrificed may be slaughtered on the day of the 'Id after the prayers have been said or at any time during the two following days, these being the days of the pilgrims' stay in Minā

<sup>14</sup> Charity, like prayer, constitutes a distinguishing characteristic of both 'Id festivals. In the 'Id al-Adzhā, charity takes the form of the distribution of the meat of the sacrificed animal, and the price of its skin which must be devoted to some charitable object, and in the 'Id al-Fitr, it is made obligatory in the form of Fitr charity. The sā' was an Arab measure for grain weighing about four seers. Under present conditions money-value of the sā' would be about four annas in India, and that may safely be taken as the standard for Fitr charity for each individual, including children.

The present practice in the Muslim world to leave it to individual choice is against the Holy Prophet’s Sunna. ## CHAPTER XIII

SUPEREROGATORY PRAYERS

(TAHAJJUD, WITR AND TARĀWĪH)

1 "And during a part of the night forsake sleep by prayer, beyond what is incumbent on thee, maybe thy Lord will raise thee to a position of great glory" (17 79)

2 "The rising by night is the firmest way to tread and the best corrective of speech" (73 6)

3 "Surely thy Lord knows that thou passest in prayer nearly two-thirds of the night, and (sometimes) half of it, and (sometimes) one-third of it, and also a part of those who are with thee" (73 20)

Tahajjud, from hajada meaning he remained wakeful in the night, is the prayer which is offered during the latter part of the night, before day-break. It is a supererogatory prayer, but special stress is laid on it in the Holy Qur'ān (vv 1, 2). Witr (lit., an odd number), originally a part of the Tahajjud prayer is a supererogatory prayer of three rak'as, generally said after the 'Ishā' prayer. Tarāwih (pl. of tarwīha meaning rest) is a supererogatory prayer of eight or twenty rak'as said during the month of Ramadhān immediately after the 'Ishā' prayer.

The Tahajjud prayer is said, after one has enjoyed sleep, during the latter third of the night (h 1). This prayer consists of eleven rak'as (h 2), but may be shortened to nine or seven or even less (hh 3, 4), there being a break after every two rak'as. As all people could not afford to get up in the latter part of the night, three rak'as of witr were added to the 'Ishā' prayer, being the final act of devotion before going to sleep (hh 5, 6). The last rak'a of witr was characterized by a special prayer offered before or after rukū', and called the qunūt (h 7).

The Tarāwih prayer really takes the place of Tahajjud, in the case of those who cannot get up for Tahajjud, in the month of Ramadhān. In its present form, it was introduced in the time of 'Umar (h 8).

1 Abū Huraira reported,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, said,

“Our Lord, blessed and exalted is He, descends every night to the nearest heaven when the latter one-third of the night remains, (and) says, Is there any one who calls upon Me so that I may accept of him, who asks of Me so that I may grant him, who seeks forgiveness of Me so that I may forgive him?”<sup>1</sup>

(B 19 14)

2 ‘Ā’isha reported,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, used to say eleven rak‘as of prayer—

۲- عَنْ عَائِشَةَ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ
كَانَ يُصَلِّي إِحْدَى عَشْرَةَ رَكْعَةً

<sup>1</sup> Discussing the meaning of this hadīth under the word nazala, Ibn Athīr says “Descending and ascending, motion and state of rest, are the properties of matter, while Allāh is supremely exalted above this and hallowed, and the meaning is the descending of Divine mercy and grace and their nearness to servants” The statement is, therefore, metaphorical, and the significance is that the man who seeks communion with the Divine Being at such a time, when the whole of nature is in a state of quiet and the mind of man himself free generally from all anxieties and worries, will find Him nearest to his heart Such a time is, therefore, fittest for communion with the Divine Being, and that is the time of Tahajjud prayer

this was his prayer, she meant, at night, and he used to remain in sajda so long, before he raised his head, that one of you could recite fifty verses, and he said two rak'as before the morning prayer, then he lay down on his right side until the mu'adh<sup>dh</sup>in came to him for the (congregational) prayer<sup>2</sup>

كَانَتْ تِلْكَ صَلَاتُهُ تَعْنِي بِاللَّيْلِ

3 Masrūq said,
I asked 'Ā'ishā about the prayer of the Prophet,
peace and blessings of Allah be on him, at night. She said, (Sometimes) seven

<sup>2</sup> The Tahajjud prayer consists, according to this hadīth of eleven rak'as, but this number may, as explained in the next two, be reduced to nine or seven rak'as, or even less, when the time at hand before the break of the dawn does not suffice to complete the total

besides the two (sunna)
rak'as of the Fajr

“Two (rak'as) at a time, and when one of you knows (that) the dawn (is near), he should add one (rak'a)—this will make his prayer witr”

(B 8 84)

مَنْ وَالَيْتَ تَارَكْتَ رَبًّا وَتَعَالَيْتَ ☆

<sup>3</sup> This is the practice now generally followed The Holy Prophet himself made the witr a part of the Tahajjud prayer

<sup>4</sup> Qunūt means the being constantly obedient, and is technically applied to the prayer offered in a standing posture in the last rak'a of any prayer

8 'Abd al-Rahmān said, I went out with 'Umar ibn al-Khattāb to the mosque on a certain night in Ramadzān, and the people had formed themselves into different groups—one man saying prayer alone and another saying prayers with a number of people following his prayer. So 'Umar said, I think if I gather them together behind one reciter, it would be much better. Then he made his decision and gathered them together behind Ubayy ibn Ka'b. Then I went out with him on another night and the people were following the prayer of their reciter

٨- عَنْ عَبْدِ الرَّحْمَنِ قَالَ نَخَرْتُ

before or after the performance of the rukū', in the congregational service it was offered by the imām after rising from the rukū' (B 10 126). There are other forms of the qunūt prayer—in fact, any prayer may be offered as qunūt.

'Umar said, This innovation is very good, and the part (of the night) in which they sleep is better than that in which they stand saying prayers—he meant the latter part of the night, and the people stood praying in the first part.<sup>5</sup>

(B. 31 1)

قَارِئِهِمْ قَالَ عُمَرُ نِعَمَ السَّعَةِ

أَخِرَ اللَّيْلِ وَكَانَ النَّاسُ يَقُومُونَ
أَوَّلَهُ ☆

<sup>5</sup> The prayer spoken of in this hadīth is the Tarāwīḥ prayer, said in Ramadẓān. The Holy Qur'ān is recited in this prayer, from the beginning, in such portions that the whole is finished by the end of the month. It is apparent from this hadīth that no such prayer was said by the Holy Prophet. A reference to H viii 15 would show that when the Holy Prophet was in a state of i'tikāf in the month of Ramadẓān, some people joined him when they saw him saying the tahajjud prayer, and thus, tahajjud was on that occasion said in congregation, though the Holy Prophet never meant it. This continued for three days, after which the Holy Prophet intentionally discontinued it.

CHAPTER XIV

MISCELLANEOUS PRAYERS

(ISTIKHĀRA, SALĀT AL-KUSŪF, ISTISQĀ')

Istikhāra (lit, the asking of khair i.e., good or blessing) means the asking of Divine blessing in the doing of a thing which a man intends to do. Kusūf means the eclipse of the sun or the moon. Istisqā' (from saqy, giving to drink) is a prayer for rain

1 Jābir said,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, used to teach us istikhāra in all matters, as he used to teach us a chapter of the Qur'ān. He said

“When one of you in-he should say two rak'as<sup>1</sup>

'A'isha said,

The Prophet, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, recited aloud his qirā'a in the eclipse prayer, and when he finished his recital he pronounced the takbīr and performed the rukū', and when he raised (his head) from the rukū', he said, "Allāh listens to him who praises Him Our

4 ‘Abd Allāh reported, I saw the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, on the day he went out to pray for rain He said, He (the Prophet) turned his back to the people and faced the Qibla praying, then he turned over his outer wrapping garment, then he said with us two rak’as of prayer reciting therein the qirā’a aloud<sup>4</sup> (B. 15 17.)

<sup>3</sup> The eclipse prayer is a congregational service in which both men and women take part (B 16 10) The particular eclipse which is spoken of in this hadīth occurred on the very day on which Ibrāhīm, the Holy Prophet’s eighteen months old son, died (B 16 17)

<sup>4</sup> This was a special service for rain held in an open place Prayer may also be offered for rain without holding a special service (H xi 13, B 11 35)

CHAPTER XV

BURIAL SERVICE

1 " And give good news to the patient ones who, when a misfortune befalls them, say We are Allāh's and to Him shall we return These are they on whom are blessings and mercy from their Lord, and these are the followers of the right course " (2 155-157)

2 " Our Lord! Forgive us and those of our brethren who had precedence of us in faith " (59 10)

3 ' And never hold a burial service for any one of them who dies and do not stand (to pray) on his grave, surely they disbelieve in Allāh and his Messenger " (9 84)

When news of death is received, one should repeat the words innā li-llāh-i wa innā ilai-hi rāji'un (v 1) The asking of forgiveness for the departed ones is a Muslim's duty towards a Muslim (v 2), and this is done by the holding of a burial service at death Burial service is prohibited in the case of those who disbelieve in Allāh and His Messenger (v 3), the particular people referred to in the verse being hypocrites whose disbelief had become manifest

Details as to the duties of the living towards the dying and the dead are given in Hadīth Visiting the sick is a duty laid upon every Muslim (h 11) When signs of the approach of death are witnessed in a person, the Holy Qur'ān may be recited by his bedside (h 1) Speaking well of the dead or a sick person when a visit is paid to him is recommended (h 2) Grief for the dying or the dead is but natural, and one may weep when overcome (hh 3, 4), but wailing, slapping the cheeks tearing garments, etc are forbidden (hh 5, 6) Death of children is spoken of as a blessing in disguise (h 7) The dead body must be washed and cleaned of all impurities and then wrapped up in clean cloth (hh, 8, 9) Following the bier is an act of great merit (h 10), and a duty which a Muslim owes to his dead brother (h 11) Respect must be shown to the bier, whether it be of a Muslim or of a non-Muslim (hh 12, 13) A burial service may be held even in the absence of the dead body (h 14) Women were advised not to follow a bier but there is no prohibition against it (h 15) The bier may be followed on foot or riding (h 16) Those who follow the bier arrange themselves into ranks behind the imām at the burial service (h 17)

The service consists of four takbīrs and taslīm while standing, there being no rukū or sajda but wuḍū' must be performed before joining it (hh 17, 18) The bier is placed before the imām who stands opposite the middle, or the breast, of the dead body (h 19) The first takbīr is followed by the recital of the Fātiha in a soft voice audible to oneself (preceded by the istiftāh as in prayer), the second by the recital of al-sala ala-l Nabīyy, the third by an intercessory prayer for the dead one in particular, but it includes the living as well, and the fourth by taslīm (hh 20-23) Burial service must be held even on a Muslim who is guilty of heinous sins (H viii 6) The committing of suicide is, according to Islām, a criminal act but even such a person may not be deprived of the burial service (h 24) In the battle-field the washing, the shrouding and the burial service were dispensed with and two men were buried in one grave (h 25) What should be said and done at the burial is related in hh 26 27 The tomb should be raised a little above the ground and should be gibbous in shape (h 28) The plastering of tombs or construction of buildings on them is discouraged (h 29) The gathering of friends and relatives to console the bereaved family is allowed and so also is the preparation for them of food, at which only those very nearly related should be present (hh 30, 31) Abusing the dead is forbidden (h 32) Charity on behalf of the dead is allowed (hh 33, 34) When visiting graves, one must pray for the dead (h 35)

The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, took Ibrāhīm (in his arms) and kissed him and smelt him. Then we visited him after this while Ibrāhīm was yielding up his spirit, so tears began to flow from the eyes of
the Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him 'Abd al-Rahmān ibn 'Auf said to him,
And thou too, O Messenger of Allāh? He said, "O Ibn
'Auf! That is compassion."
Then he wept again and said

"Surely the eye sheds tears and the heart grieves and we do not say but what the Lord is pleased with, and we, O Ibrāhīm,<sup>1</sup> are full of grief on account of thy separation."<sup>3</sup>

<sup>12</sup> Ibn ‘Abbās recited the Fātiha in a voice which others could hear so that they might know that it was the Holy Prophet’s practice. This shows that it was ordinarily recited in a low voice not audible, and further that it was meant to be so recited by the imām as well as the congregation. The same is the case with the prayers after other takbīrs. The Fatiḥa is recited after the first takbīr, al-salā ‘ala l-Nabiyy, as in the sitting position in prayer, after the second, and an intercessory prayer for the deceased (hh 22, 23) after the third, while the taslīm is uttered after the fourth.

<sup>13</sup> The burial service is thus an intercessory prayer for the deceased one, and any prayer may be offered. Hadīth contains several such prayers. The one generally adopted is given in the next hadīth.

As this hadīth shows, preference was given to the lahd, the other body being placed in the shaqq, the pit itself and therefore burial in the shaqq is not disallowed. In the case of a coffin, the shaqq alone would serve the purpose.

Qur ān over the dead body or on a grave is not traceable to the Holy Prophet and is an innovation. Recital of the Holy Qur ān is a good deed in itself, but to do it for remuneration does not bring any good to the reciter and certainly none to the dead. There is no authority of the Holy Prophet for the Qul ceremony on the third day, or for the ceremonies connected with the tenth and fortieth days after death. Nor can they be considered as acts of charity, for they are not for the benefit of the poor.

CHAPTER XVI

CHARITY AND ZAKĀT

1 'The parable of those who spend their property in the way of Allāh is as the parable of a grain growing seven ears with a hundred grains in every ear, and Allāh multiplies for whom He pleases and Allāh is Ample-giving Knowing" (2 261)

2 "O you who believe! Give in charity of the good things you earn and of what We have brought forth for you out of the earth and do not aim at giving in charity what is bad" (2 267)

3 'If you give in charity openly it is well, and if you hide it and give it to the poor it is better for you" (2 271)

4 "Righteousness is this that one believes in Allāh and the last day and the angels and the Book and the prophets, and gives away wealth out of love for Him to the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the wayfarer and the beggars and for the emancipation of the captives and keeps up prayer and pays the zakāt" (2 177)

5 'Zakāt is only for the poor and the needy, and the collectors appointed for its collection and those whose hearts are made to incline to truth and the ransoming of captives, and those in debt and for the way of Allāh and (for) the wayfarer" (9 60)

The Arabic word for charity is sadaqa, (from sidq meaning truth) Zakāt properly zakā, is originally zakawa, of the same measure as sadaqa, and its primary significance is increase or purification. Technically zakāt is a fixed portion of one's wealth which it is obligatory to give away annually for the benefit of the poor, the giving away of wealth to the needy is thus regarded as bringing about its purification and increase. Charity is likened to the sowing of seed which brings immense reward (v 1). Only that charity is acceptable to God which is given out of one's lawful earnings (v 2). It may be given either openly or in secret (v 3). Zakāt is obligatory charity in addition to voluntary charity, and it forms with the keeping up of prayer the basis of Islām (v 4, h 10). Those appointed to collect the zakāt are included among the persons who are entitled to receive the zakāt (v 5), and thus it is definitely laid down that the zakāt must be collected as public money and distributed as such, under the directions of the head of the state or the head of a community

Hadith gives equal conspicuousness to this subject. Charity is here given the broadest possible significance, including the doing of any good to a fellow-man or to an animal, refraining from doing evil, meeting one's brother with a cheerful countenance and so on (hh 1-6). The giving of charity in secret is praised (h 7). Asking for other people's charity is disapproved, earning one's livelihood by hard labour being far more preferable (h 8).

Zakāt is a tax distinct from voluntary charity, and the most important obligation next to prayer (H 11 5 6, hh 9, 10). The minimum limit on which zakāt is payable is in silver about Rs 50 (h 11). Zakāt is payable at the rate of  $2\frac{1}{2}\%$  on all savings (h 12) over which a year has passed (h 13). A woman must pay zakāt out of her ornaments (h 14). A trader is also liable to pay zakāt on his goods (h 15), and being a tax on property it is payable out of the property of an orphan (h 16). The zakāt is payable to the Muslim state or some other authority; it must be collected at some central place and then distributed (hh 17 18). One-third or one-fourth of zakāt may be left in the hands of the person who pays the zakāt, for distribution according to his choice (h 19). The tax on land produce is one-tenth or one-twentieth (h 20) while in the case of treasure-trove or minerals it is one-fifth (hh 21, 22).

1 Abū Mūsā reported,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah</sup>

<sup>3</sup> The minimum on which zakāt is payable is called nisāb. In the case of cereals and fruit, the nisāb was five wasaq, which comes to between 20 and 30 maunds, according to different calculations. In the case of camels, the nisāb was five, in that of goats and sheep, 40. In the case of silver it was five auqiya or 200 dirhams which comes to a little over Rs 50. According to one hadīth (AD 9 5) the nisāb in case of gold was twenty dīnārs, about 3 oz. Under present conditions a uniform nisāb would lead to greater facility, and as money is the standard in all payments, it would be quite in conformity with the spirit of the sharī'a if a money value of Rs 50 is fixed as the minimum on which zakāt is payable in the case of all possessions. No zakāt is payable in things which are required for daily use (Tr-Msh 6 2). Jewels and precious stones are also excepted.

<sup>5</sup> Umm Salama was the Holy Prophet's wife. The hadīth shows that zakāt must be paid on gold and silver ornaments whether they are actually worn or not. The reference in the word konz used in this hadīth is to the following verse

‘Those who hoard up gold and silver and do not spend it in Allah's way announce to them a painful chastisement’ (9: 39)

Thus gold and silver may be hoarded only if zakāt is regularly paid thereon

<sup>6</sup> Zakāt was paid on camels and sheep which were kept for trade purposes, and therefore there is no reason for excepting trade goods. But while there is a natural increase in the case of animals, out of which zakāt is paid, the capital involved in goods for trade may sometimes lie dormant. There is no reliable hadīth to show how zakāt was calculated on merchandise. A reasonable course would be to take as the basis of calculation the profit which is gained by trading.

16 'Amr ibn Shu'aib reported on the authority of his grandfather,

The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him addressed the people and said

"Beware! Whoever is the guardian of an orphan who has property, should trade with it, and should not leave it (undeveloped), so that the zakāt should eat it away" <sup>7</sup> (Tr-Msh 6)

treasury When the Holy Prophet died, many of the Arabian tribes which had just entered Islām rebelled against the Caliph and apostarized. There were others whose rebellion consisted only in refusing the payment of zakāt into the public treasury. It is these tribes that are spoken of in this hadīth, as the words of Abū Bakr show. “If they withhold from me even a she-kid” Making a difference between prayer and zakāt also meant the same. They did not apostatize but they refused to pay the zakāt, and this was a refusal to admit the authority of the central government. Abū Bakr’s action on this occasion shows that zakāt cannot be distributed according to the will of the individual who pays the zakāt, but it must be collected and distributed by a central organization.

<sup>10</sup> This collector withheld a part of what he had brought, saying that that part of his collections was presented to him. The Holy Prophet decided that no one who was appointed as a collector could receive personal presents. This is mentioned in detail in B 51 17.

<sup>11</sup> One-third or one-fourth of the zakāt may be left with the owner for distribution according to his choice.

20 'Abd Allāh reported,
The Prophet <sup>ﷺ</sup> said

<sup>12</sup> Agricultural produce was taxed on a different basis. This was the land revenue of the Muslim state, and it is only a fraction of the land revenue under the British rule in India. Under non-Muslim rule, when land revenue goes to the state, zakāt should be calculated only on the savings of the year.

CHAPTER XVII

FASTING

1 'O you who believe! Fasting is prescribed for you as it was prescribed for those before you so that you may guard (against evil) and those who find it hard to do so may effect a redemption by feeding a poor man' (2 183)

2 The month of Ramadzān is that in which the Qur'ān was revealed Therefore, whoever of you witnesses the month he shall fast during it, and whoever is sick or on a journey (he shall fast) a (like) number of other days' (2 184)

3 It is made lawful to you to approach your wives on the night of the fast they are an apparel for you and you are an apparel for them and eat and drink until the whiteness of the day becomes distinct to you from the blackness of the night at dawn, then complete the fast till night' (2 187)

The directions relating to fasts are all contained in vv 2 183-187 Fasts are to be kept during the 29 or 30 days of Ramadzān (v 2) The fast consists in abstaining daily, from dawn till sunset, from food and drink and sexual intercourse (v 3) Fasting is recognised in hadīth as one of the pillars of Islām (H II 5 6), but too much voluntary fasting is prohibited (H II 3) While fasting one must cultivate the habit of abstaining from evil from foul talk and falsehood (hh 1, 2), and of charity to fellow men (h 3) Fasting starts with the first day of Ramadzān and ends with the last day of it Ramadzān being a lunar month, its beginning and end depend on the appearance of the new moon (H XII 1, 2) Fast must not be kept on a doubtful day (h 4) The fast begins when dawn appears (h 5), and ends when the sun sets (h 6) When fasting, it is recommended that one should have a meal in the morning (h 7), a little before dawn (h 8)

Breaking the fast when one is journeying is permitted, but fasting is allowed in such a case unless it entails hardship (hh 9, 10) One who is ill, the pregnant woman, the woman who gives suck, and a very old person may feed a needy person instead of fasting (h 11) A woman should not fast when she is menstruating but she should fast for the same number of days afterwards (h 12)

When for some reason the number of fasts is to be completed after Ramadan it may be done at any time before the next Ramadan (h 13). Fasting on Eid days is strictly prohibited (h 14). When a person eats or drinks forgetting that he is fasting the fast is not broken (h 15). Coughing or sneezing, spitting, gargling or rinsing the mouth and tasting of the food in the cooking-pot do not break the fast (h 16) nor does vomiting (h 17). I'tikāf or keeping to the mosque during the last ten days of Ramadan and not going out of it except for a need, may be resorted to by those who fast and it is in these nights that the Laila al-Qadr must be sought (hh 18-19).

1 Abū Huraira reported,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him said

"Fasting is an armour with which one protects oneself, so let not him (who fasts) utter immodest (or foul) speech, nor let him act in an ignorant manner, and if a man quarrels with him or abuses him, he should say twice, I am fasting. And by Him in Whose hand is my soul, the odour of the mouth of one fasting is sweeter in the estimation of Allāh than the odour of musk—he gives up his food and his drink and his (sexual) desire for My sake, fasting is for Me and I will grant

PILGRIMAGE

(HAJJ AND 'UMRA)

1 Surely the first House appointed for men is the one at Makka blessed and a guidance for the nations And pilgrimage to the House is incumbent upon men for the sake of Allah and every one who is able to undertake the journey to it (3 95 96)

2 "The pilgrimage is performed in the well-known months so whoever determines the performance of the pilgrimage therein there shall be no amorous speech, nor abusing nor disputing in the pilgrimage and make provision" (2 197)

The word hajj means literally qasd (betaking oneself to a person or a place), and technically it means betaking oneself at a particular time to Makka to perform certain devotional acts required by Islām. Umra from 'amara meaning he paid a visit to a place, means a visit to Makka at any time of the year and consists of some of the devotional acts of hajj. The Sacred House, called the Ka'ba, a rectangular building 40 ft by 35 ft, and the Haram including Makka and some adjacent territory form the centre of the devotional acts of hajj and 'umra.

The Ka'ba is called the first House of Divine worship on earth, and a pilgrimage to it is made incumbent upon every Muslim who has the means to undertake the journey to it (v 1). Pilgrimage is spoken of as one of the basic institutions of Islām (H ii 6), and its performance once in a lifetime is obligatory (h 1). If a person is unable to perform it personally he can do it through a substitute (h 2). One must provide oneself beforehand with what is required for the journey (h 3). Hajj can be performed only at a fixed time (h 4), 'umra may be performed at any time. Ihrām is the condition in which the pilgrim puts himself, what is to be done or not done in this state is described in hh 5-8. There are particular places on the different routes to Makka where the pilgrim must enter into the state of ihrām (h 9). The particular dhikr of hajj is the utterance of labbaika in a loud voice (h 10). Making circumambulations of the Ka'ba, or tawāf, is the first devotional act of hajj or umra (h 11), it is performed by men and women together (h 12), and may be made while riding (h 13). The tawāf is commenced at the corner where the

Black Stone is placed at the starting point of the first circuit (h 13) In this circuit there are two tawāf and the pilgrims at the corners were to say tawāf (h 14-15) The tawāf is done to attract attention to prayer and therefore a menstruating woman should postpone it (h 16-17) In the tawāf the first three circuits are mile running and the last four walking (h 18) Running between the Sa'ā and the Marwa known as sa'ī is the next devotional act of hajj and with this the umra ends (h 18) The hajj proper begins on the 8th Dhu-l-Hijja which is called the umra al-tamima, when the pilgrims proceed to Minā and here they say their Zuhr and Asr prayers (hh 19-20) On the 9th Dhu-l-Hijja, called ta'im al-arafa the pilgrims proceed from Minā to Arafāt where they say the Zuhr and Asr prayers and the imām delivers the khutba (h 21) Arafāt is left after sunset, and the Maghrib and Ishā prayers on that day and the Fajr prayer on the following day are said at Muzdalifa (hh 22-23), which is left before sunrise for Minā where the animals are sacrificed at about breakfast time Then the tawāf al-afāda is performed and after this the pilgrim gets out of the state of ihram (h 24) The flesh of the animals sacrificed may be eaten, stored or distributed and the skins must be given in charity (hh 25-26) The head is shaven or the hair is clipped as a sign of getting out of the state of ihram (h 27) The 10th Dhu-l-Hijja and the following two or three days, called the ayām al-tashriq are spent in Minā During these days the pilgrims may occasionally visit the Ka'ra (h 28) Stones are thrown at three places known as the Jamra and the pilgrim prays to God to keep the Evil one away from him (h 29) The final act of hajj is the tawāf al-wadā', the circumambulation of the Ka'ba when leaving Makka (h 30) The pilgrim is allowed to do any business before or after the hajj (h 31)

1 Ibn 'Abbās reported, Al-Aqra' asked the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> O Messenger of Allāh! Is the pilgrimage to be performed every year or only once? He said "Only once; and whoever does it more than once, it is supererogatory"

5 Ibn 'Umar reported about the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> A man asked him, What should a man wear in the state of ihrām? He said

عَنْ ابْنِ عُمَرَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ ﷺ
أَنَّ رَحُلًا سَأَلَهُ مَا يَلْبَسُ الْمُحْرِمُ

<sup>1</sup> Ihrām, (from haram, a forbidden thing) signifies entering upon a state that causes what is allowed before to be forbidden or unlawful, and it is technically used to indicate the condition in which the pilgrim is required to put himself. What acts or things become forbidden in the state of ihrām is explained here and in the three hadīth that follow

“ He shall not wear shirt, nor turban, nor trousers, nor head-gear, nor any cloth dyed with uars or saffron, and if he does not find shoes, let him wear leather stockings, and he should cut them off so that they may be lower than the ankles” (B 3 53)

فَقَالَ لَا يَلْبَسُ الْقَمِيصَ وَلَا

يَكُونَا تَحْتَ الْكَعْبَيْنِ ۖ

6 Ibn ‘Abbās said, One in a state of ihrām may smell sweet-smelling plants, and look in the looking-glass, and use medicines out of what he eats, (such as) olive oil and butter, and ‘Atā’ said, He can wear

٦- قَالَ ابْنُ عَبَّاسٍ يَتَسَمُّ الْمُحْرِمُ

يَتَدَاوَى بِمَا يَأْكُلُ النَّرِيتَ
وَالسَّمْنَ وَ قَالَ عَطَاءٌ يَتَحْتَمُّ

* This hadīth explains what the pilgrim should not wear when he enters upon a state of ihrām. Men wore only two seamless sheets: a sheet reaching from the navel to below the knees, (izār) and a sheet which covers the upper part of the body (ridā) while women wore their ordinary simple garments. Wars is a plant with which clothes are dyed. Clothes dyed red or yellow are thus forbidden.

<sup>1</sup> The veil was worn in Arabia as a mark of rank and it was, therefore, disallowed when a woman was in a state of ihrām, as pilgrimage required the obliteration of all differences of rank. Forbidding a veil in pilgrimage is further a conclusive proof that the Holy Qur'ān did not enjoin the wearing of veil, as in that case the prohibition here stated would be a contradiction of the Holy Qur'ān. Gloves are not allowed because like the veil they are a mark of rank. Ornaments are allowed because they are not a mark of rank, and are worn by even ordinary people and labouring classes.

<sup>2</sup> Talbīd is the putting upon one's head gum or something glutinous, in order that the hair might become compact. This is allowed in the state of ihrām, lest the hair should become dishevelled or dusty.

<sup>9</sup> This hadīth shows that men and women performed the different acts of devotion together only the women did not mix with men, just as in prayer in mosques they formed separate ranks. It further shows that a change was already coming over the simplicity of the Holy Prophet's time and already men were thinking of enforcing stricter measures for the seclusion of women, and restraining their freedom. In fact, this was a necessary outcome of the ease which Muslims began to enjoy on account of their conquests.

13 Ibn 'Abbās said, The Prophet, <sup>عليه السلام</sup> made circuits of the House riding on a camel and every time that he came to the Corner, he made a sign with something which he had with him and said, Allāhu Akbar <sup>10</sup> (B 25 61)

<sup>13</sup> Sarā and Marwa are two little hills near Makka. This devotional act of hajj is called sa'y. The running between Safā and Marwa is performed seven times (B 25 79). The limits are indicated by two minarets. In the case of umra the pilgrim gets out of the state of ihrām with the sa'y.

<sup>14</sup> Tarwīya means watering or satisfying the thirst, and the 8th of Dhu l-Hijja is so called because on that day the pilgrims provide themselves with water for the following days which are to be spent in Minā and 'Arafāt. The hajj proper

21 Sālim reported Hajjāj ibn Yūsuf in the year in which he attacked Ibn al-Zubair, asked 'Abd Allāh How dost thou do in the halting-place on the day of 'Arafāt?'<sup>17</sup> Sālim said, It thou wilt follow the Sunna, say the prayer at an early hour on the day of 'Arafāt. Then 'Abd Allāh ibn 'Umar said, He is right, they used to combine the Zuhr and 'Asr prayers according to Sunna<sup>18</sup> (B 25 88)

thus begins on the 8th Dhu-l-Hijja, and pilgrims who get out of the state of ihram on performing the umra enter into ihram for hajj on this date

<sup>17</sup> The 'Arafāt is the ninth day of Dhu-ul-Hijja. The pilgrims remain in Minā on the 8th, and on the ninth they proceed to Arafāt, about nine miles from Makka. 'Arafāt is derived from 'arf which means knowledge

The halting at 'Arafāt is called wuquf. It lasts only for a few hours, from afternoon till sunset but it is the most important of the devotional acts of hajj so much so that there is no hajj without it. A sermon is here delivered by the imām on the mound known as the Jabal al-Rahma (The Mountain of Mercy)

In the pre-Islām days the Quraysh did not go to Arafāt, as they considered themselves superior to the other tribes. Islām obliterated this distinction (2 197, B 25 91)

<sup>18</sup> Minā is left at noon on the 9th and the Zuhr and 'Asr prayers are combined in 'Arafāt where the pilgrims stay till sunset

The Prophet ﷺ combined the

JIHĀD

1 And those who strive hard for Us We will certainly guide them in Our ways " (29 69)

2 "Strive hard against them a mighty striving with it (the Qur'ān)" (25 52)

3 "And from among you there should be a party who invite to good and enjoin what is right and forbid the wrong and these it is that shall be successful" (3 103)

4 'There is no compulsion in religion' (2 256)

5 'And fight in the way of Allāh with those who fight with you and do not exceed this limit' (2 190)

6 'And they will not cease fighting with you until they turn you back from your religion if they can' (2 217)

7 'And fight with them until there is no persecution and all religions are only for Allāh' (8 39)

8 "And if they incline to peace do thou incline to it and trust in Allāh And if they intend to deceive thee, then surely Allāh is sufficient for thee" (8 61, 62)

9 "He it is who has sent His Messenger with the guidance and the true religion that He may make it overcome all (other) religions" (61 9)

Jihād means the exerting of one's power in repelling the enemy or in contending with an object of disapprobation. It carries a two-fold significance in Islām, being applied to both, the purely missionary activities of a Muslim and his defence of the Faith when necessary, in a physical sense. The first duty—the duty to invite people to Islām—is a permanent duty laid upon all Muslims of all ages, while the second is a duty which arises upon certain contingencies. The Holy Qur'ān calls attention to both these duties in the clearest and most forceful words. In the first place, it speaks of a jihād to attain to Allāh (v 1). Then it speaks of carrying on a jihād against unbelievers by means of the Holy Qur'ān, and this it calls jihād-an kabīr-an, a very great jihād (v 2). Islām's greatest jihād is, therefore, not by means of the sword, but by means of the Holy Qur'ān is a missionary exhort to establish Islām. We are told or told that there should always be among Muslims a party who invite people to Islām (v 3). Thus the missionary jihād of Islām is to be carried on in all circumstances.

The sword could never be used to force Islām on others compulsion in religion being forbidden in clear words (v 4). Fighting was undoubtedly allowed but it was expressly allowed only as a defensive measure against those who were bent upon annihilating Islām by the sword not to compel people to accept Islām (vv 5, 6). When persecution ceased and every one was at liberty to profess whatever religion he liked the sword had to be sheathed (v 7). Even in the midst of the war if the enemy wanted peace war was to be discontinued (v 8). The good news is finally given that not only will Islām not be annihilated but it would ultimately be ascendant over all other religions (v 9).

Hadīth also speaks of both kinds of jihād. It is a Muslim's foremost duty, and the most excellent deed a Muslim can do (hh 1, 2). A promise is given that if Muslims exerted themselves to their utmost to uphold the cause of Islām they would be in the ascendant (hh 3, 4). There is a further promise that divinely inspired persons called mujaddids shall appear among Muslims to revive the faith (h 5) and that a Messiah shall appear among them to carry the message of Islām to the Christian nations of the world in particular (h 6).

Guiding a man to truth is spoken of as a Muslim's greatest treasure (h 7) and the Holy Prophet himself wrote letters to kings in the 6th year of Hijra inviting them to accept Islām (h 8). He never threatened any of them with invasion if his message was not accepted (h 9). Muslims had to fight their battles, but this they had to do simply to defend Islām which unbelievers wanted to annihilate (vv 5, 6). The cause of Truth was however to be defended unto death (h 10), and Muslims were told to be always ready if the need arose, to defend the Faith with the sword that being the way to Paradise (h 11). The Holy Prophet's own soul yearned after martyrdom in defence of the Truth and, if possible, to come back to life and die again defending the Truth (h 12) and such should, therefore, be the desire of every Muslim. Martyrdom could however, be attained in other ways too (h 13). Even women took part in the battles which were being fought in defence of Islām (hh 14, 15). Non-combatants were not to be killed in battle there being a prohibition against the killing of women and children (h 16). Fighting was to cease if the enemy offered peace even though his intention might be to deceive (v 8), or if the enemy entered the brotherhood of Islām (h 17).

1 Abū Huraira said,
A man came to the Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him,
and said,

اَعَنْ اَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ جَاءَ

<sup>1</sup> In the heading of 97 10, this hadīth is related with a slight variation "A party of my umma shall remain in the ascendant propagating the Truth, and these are the learned ones (ahl al-'ilm)" This shows that Bukhārī took the word jihād in the wider sense

<sup>2</sup> The following explanation of this hadīth is given in the 'Aun al-Ma'būd, a commentary of Abū Dāwūd, on the authority of Nawawī "This party consists of different classes of the faithful, of them being the brave fighters, the faqīhs (jurists), the muhaddithīn (collectors of Hadīth), the zāhids (those who devote themselves to the worship of God) those who command the doing of good and prohibit evil, and a variety of other people who do other good deeds" Fighting in the way of Allāh thus includes the service of Islām in any form

رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ كَيْفَ أَنْتُمْ إِذَا

<sup>3</sup> The preceding two hadīth contain a prophecy that among the Muslim community there shall always be learned people who shall help the cause of Islām to become ascendant in the world, this goes a step further and contains a further prophecy that generally at intervals of a century divinely inspired people shall be raised among Muslims and they shall revive the faith of the Muslim community

A person thus raised by God is called a mujaddid (one who revives) in the terminology of Islām. The mujaddid is a muhaddath (one to whom God speaks though he is not a prophet), and he is raised up by God to remove errors that have crept in among Muslims and to shed new light on the great religious truths of Islām in the new circumstances which Muslims may have to face in every new age. The most famous names falling under this category in this country are those of Sayyid Ahmad of Sirhind popularly known as Mujaddid Alf Thānī, Shāh Walī Allāh of Delhi, Sayyid Ahmad of Bareilly and Mirzā Ghulām Ahmad of Qadian, the founder of the Ahmadiyya movement, who was accepted generally as the Mujaddid of the fourteenth century of Hijra, but who was later opposed owing to his claim to be the Messiah, whose advent is spoken of in Hadīth prophecies when the son of Mary makes his appearance among you, and he is your imām from among yourselves' <sup>4</sup> (B 60 49)

بَرَأَ ابْنُ مَرْيَمَ فِيكُمْ وَ إِمَامُكُمْ مِنْكُمْ

7 Sahl reported,
He heard the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him</sup> say

٧- عَنْ سَهْلِ سَمِعَ النَّبِيَّ ﷺ

'This is a further prophecy relating to the ascendancy of Islām. The son of Mary is the Messiah and Muslims are told that a Messiah would appear among them. This Messiah is called imāmu-kum min-kum i.e. your imām from among yourselves. In a hadīth of the Sahih Muslim on the same subject the words are wa amma-kum min-kum i.e., he (the Messiah) shall be your imām from among yourselves leaving no doubt that a member of the Muslim community would be raised to the dignity of the Messiah. These words were no doubt added by the Holy Prophet to remove the possible misconception that the Israelite Messiah would appear among Muslims.

The prophecy relating to the advent of a Messiah among Muslims, generally known as the second advent of the Messiah is on all fours with the prophecy relating to the second advent of Elias among the Israelites. 'Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven' (11 Kings 2 11), 'I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord' (Mal 4 5). When Jesus Christ was confronted with this difficulty—'Why then say the Scribes that Elias must first come?' (Mt 17 10)—he simply replied "Elias is come already but they knew him not" 'Then the disciples understood that he spake unto them of John the Baptist' (Mt 17 11-13), because as further explained John the Baptist came "in the spirit and power of Elias' (Lk 1 17). The appearance of the Messiah among Muslims thus meant only the appearance of a mujaddid 'in the spirit and power' of the Messiah.

The Messiah's work is thus described in the Bukhārī "The son of Mary will appear among you as a judge doing justice (between people) and he will break the Cross and kill the swine" (B 60 49). This clearly shows that the Messiah would come when the religion of the Cross will be in the ascendant, and that his work will be to spread Islām among the Christian nations of the world in particular, which in other hadīth is described as the rising of the sun in the West, the sun standing for the Sun of Islām and the West for the Western nations. Thus this prophecy speaks in fact of the final ascendancy of Islām in the world.

“ Then invite them to Islām, and inform them of what is incumbent on them, for, by Allāh, if a single man is guided aright through thee, it is better for thee than red camels”<sup>5</sup>

(B 56 102)

8 Ibn ‘Abbās reported, The Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him,</sup> wrote to the Cæsar inviting him to Islām, and sent his letter to him with Dihya al-Kalbī, and the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him,</sup> ordered him to make it over to the Chief of Busrā that he might send it to the Cæsar<sup>6</sup>

لِيَدْفَعَهُ إِلَى قَيْصَرَ ☆

<sup>5</sup> These instructions were given to Alī by the Holy Prophet in the expedition of Khaibar, which shows that invitation to Islām was the greatest jihād of Muslims

<sup>6</sup> This hadīth which speaks of the Holy Prophet inviting the Cæsar to Islām forms part of the chapter on Jihād in the Bukhārī, which again shows the wide sense in which jihād was interpreted by Muslims. The subject-matter of the letter written is produced in the next hadīth, which should be treated as a supplement to this hadīth

9 Ibn 'Abbās reported,
And this (letter)
ran as follows

“In the name of Allāh, the Beneficent, the Merciful From Muhammad, the servant of Allāh and His Messenger, to Heracleus, the Chief of the Roman Empire Peace be with him who follows the guidance After this, I invite thee with invitation to Islām Become a Muslim and thou wilt be in peace —Allāh will give thee a double reward, but if thou turnest away, on thee will be the sin of thy subjects And, O followers of the Book! Come to an equitable proposition between us and you that we shall not serve any but Allāh, and that we shall not associate aught with Him, and that some of us shall not take others for lords besides Allāh, but if they turn

<sup>8</sup> B 1 1 is a very long hadīth, only the part relating to the letter spoken of in the last hadīth is produced here The subject-matter of the letter is a clear proof that invitation to Islām was not accompanied by any threat of hostilities Similar letters were written to other rulers

<sup>9</sup> This happened at Hudaibiya, where the famous truce of that name was concluded Swearing allegiance for death meant that a man would defend Islām and stand by the Holy Prophet even though he had to face death

The ḥadīth emphasizes a Muslim's duty to be always ready to fight for the defence of the Truth. Muslims could not use the sword otherwise than in defence (v 5)

<sup>11</sup> This shows that in the Holy Prophet's time women did the duty of nursing the wounded and helping the armies of Islām in all other possible ways. As the next hadīth shows, they did the duty of carrying the slain to Madīna. In B 56 63, it is related that a woman, named Bint Milhān requested the Holy Prophet to pray for her to be among those who sailed on the seas to fight in the way of Allāh.

<sup>12</sup> Thus in the exigency of battles Islām did not allow the killing of non-combatants. "Do not kill a woman, nor a labourer," "Do not kill an old man, nor a child, nor a woman", are the words of other hadīth, (AD Msh 18 4)

17 Ibn 'Umar reported,
The Messenger of
Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup><sub>of Allāh be on him,</sub> said

"I have been commanded that I should fight these people till they bear witness that there is no god but Allāh and keep up prayer and pay zakāt. When they do this, their blood and their property shall be safe with me except as Islām requires, and their reckoning is with Allāh."<sup>13</sup> (B 2 16)

١٧- عَنِ بْنِ عُمَرَ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ

حَسَابُهُمْ عَلَى اللَّهِ ☆

<sup>13</sup> The hadīth begins with the words I have been commanded, and the command to fight is contained in the Holy Qur'ān in the following words "And fight in the way of Allāh with those who fight with you and do not exceed this limit" (v 5). Muslims, therefore, could not resort to fighting unless an enemy was the first to assume hostilities. What the hadīth means is that fighting begun under these conditions is to cease when the enemy people accept Islām. Bukhārī himself hints at this when he quotes this hadīth under the heading "But if they repent and keep up prayer and pay the poor-rate, then leave their way free" i.e. cease fighting with them.

CHAPTER XX

MARRIAGE

1 'And He it is Who has created man from the water, and He has made for him blood-relationship and marriage-relationship " (25 54)

2 And marry those among you who are single " (24 32)

3 'Do not prevent them (the divorced women) from marrying their husbands when they agree among themselves in a lawful manner " (2 232)

4 "And they (your wives) have made with you a firm covenant " (4 21)

5 "He it is Who created you from a single being and of the same kind did He make his mate that he might incline to her " (7 189)

6 "And one of His signs is that He created mates for you from yourselves that you may find quiet of mind in them and He put between you love and compassion " (30 21)

7 "He made mates for you from among yourselves multiplying you thereby " (42 11)

8 "And the chaste from among the believing women and the chaste from among those who have been given the Book before you are lawful for you when you have given them their dowries, taking them in marriage, not fornicating, nor taking them for paramours in secret " (5 5)

9 "Forbidden to you are your mothers, and your daughters, and your sisters, and your paternal aunts, and your maternal aunts, and brothers' daughters, and sisters' daughters, and your mothers that have suckled you, and your foster-sisters, and mothers of your wives, and your step daughters who are in your guardianship born of your wives to whom you have gone in—but if you have not gone in to them, there is no blame on you—, and the wives of your sons who are of your own loins, and that you should have two sisters together except what has already passed and all married women except those whom your right hands possess " (4 23, 24)

10 'And give women their dowries as a free gift but it is for themselves be pleased to give you a portion of them, then eat it with enjoyment and with wholesome result' (4 4)

11 And you have given one of them a heap of gold, take not from it anything (4 20)

12 'There is no blame on you about what you mutually agree after what is appointed or dowry' (4 24)

13 "And if you fear that you cannot act equitably towards orphans marry such women as seem good to you, two and three and four, but if you fear that you will not do justice between them, then (marry) only one or what your right hands possess' (4 3)

14 "And whoever among you has not within his power ample-ness of means to marry free believing women (he may marry) of those whom your right hands possess from among your believing maidens So marry them with the permission of their masters and give them their dowries justly" (4 25)

The Arabic word for marriage is nikāh which means originally 'aqd or umting. It is recognised in Islām as the basis of human society and marriage-relationship is given the same importance as blood-relationship (v 1). Celibate life is against the teachings of the Holy Qur'an which requires every Muslim to live in a married state (v 2, h 1). Castration is forbidden (hh 2 3). Marriage is a sacred contract (v 4) which a man and a woman enter into by mutual agreement (v 3). It is a contract entered into for life, temporary marriage being forbidden (h 4). It serves a double purpose, being the means of the moral uplift of man and the means of the multiplication of the human race (vv 5-7). Marriage may be contracted with a non-Muslim woman (v 8). It is prohibited within certain degrees of relationship (v 9). The rule is the marriage of one man with one woman but in exceptional cases a man may marry upto four women (v 13). Marriage with slave girls was allowed in case a man had not the means to marry a free woman (v 14).

Marriage should be preceded by a proposal (h 5). It is recommended that before making a proposal a man should satisfy himself as to the desirability of the match (hh 6 7). The guardian must obtain the woman's consent (h 8), where a woman was given in marriage by her father and she disliked the match, the marriage was annulled (h 9). Marriage among equals is recommended but all Muslims being equal there is no limitation as to the choice of the mate (h 10). Nobility of character is the most valuable gift of a woman which should be taken into consideration in marrying her (h 11). A dowry must be settled upon the woman, there being no limitation as to the amount (vv 10, 11 h 5), it may be increased or decreased by mutual consent after marriage (v 12). Any conditions may be laid down at the time of marriage, so long as they are not against the law of Islām (h 12). Shighār is prohibited (h 13). The marriage must be publicly proclaimed, and it is recommended that it should be held in a public place and announced with the beat of duff, a musical instrument (h 14) The contract is sanctified by a sermon before the parties announce their acceptance (h 15) Gatherings on the occasion of marriage are also a means of making it publicly known (h 16) Music is allowed at the marriage ceremony (h 17) Gifts may also be given on this occasion (h 18) A feast is recommended when the bride comes to the husband's house (hh 19, 20) Prayer to God for Divine blessings is recommended at the first meeting of the husband and the wife (h 21) Birth-control is allowed when it becomes a necessity (hh 22 23) When a baby is born, adhān must be called out into its ears (h 24) and the naming and the tahnīk follow (h 25) 'Aqīqa must also be performed if one can afford (hh 26-28)

1 'Alqama said, While I was going along with 'Abd Allāh, he said, We were with the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and he said

"He who is able to marry should marry, for it keeps the eye cast down and keeps a man chaste, and he who cannot, should take to fasting, for it will have a castrating effect upon him<sup>1</sup> (B 30 10)

فَعَلَيْهِ بِالصَّوْمِ فَإِنَّهُ لَهُ وَجَاءٌ ☆

<sup>1</sup> Marriage is here recognised as a means of moral elevation and spiritual exaltation. Fasting has a castrating effect inasmuch as the carnal passions are thereby subdued. According to another hadīth, marriage is recognised as the Sunna of the Holy Prophet and it is added "He who abstains from my Sunna is not of me" (B 67 1)

2 Ibn Mas'ūd said,
We used to fight along with the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup>

<sup>2</sup> So in Islām there are no eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven. On the other hand, marrying and keeping oneself chaste is a means of attaining the kingdom of heaven.

<sup>3</sup> The technical word for temporary marriage is mut'a. It is derived from matā' meaning profiting for a long time. Mut'a is considered to be a legal

5 'Ā'isha reported,
In the pre-Islamic times marriage was in four ways, one of these being as the people's marriage to-day, a man asking another man for marriage with his ward or his daughter, then he settles on her a dowry, then marries her.<sup>4</sup> (B 67 37)

6 Jābir said,
The Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said

When one of you asks a woman in marriage, then if he is able that he should look into what invites him to have her in marriage, he should do it"

form of marriage by the Shī'as, but the vast majority of the Muslim community rejects it on the basis of the hadīth quoted here. The Holy Qur'ān uses the word ihṣān (lit. being inaccessible) for marriage, and thus looks upon marriage as a permanent relation which can be cut off only by divorce. For all other kinds of sexual relationship it uses the word safāh, which signifies fornication. According to some hadīth, mut'a was allowed by the Holy Prophet in a war. Even if this be true, it may have been allowed at an earlier stage, reform having been brought about gradually, but there is not the least doubt that it was finally disallowed.

<sup>4</sup> Khutba or asking a woman in marriage is a preliminary stage. The dowry to be settled on the woman must then be agreed upon. There is no limitation

7 Mughira reported,
He made a proposal of marriage to a woman, and the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> said

"See her, for this is more likely to bring about agreement between you"
(Tr 9 5)

8 Abū Huraira reported,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> said to this amount it may be a heap of gold (v 11), or it may be a ring of iron or even service rendered to the woman in teaching her (B 67 51) In fact, the amount of the dowry depends on the circumstances of the contracting parties

<sup>5</sup> Hh 8 and 9 show that a woman must be given in marriage by her guardian but the guardian, whether father or anyone else must obtain the woman's consent As many hadīth show, a woman is at liberty to offer her hand to anyone, and Bukhārī heads one of his chapters as follows "A woman offering herself for marriage to a virtuous man" (B 67 33) In such a case, the state is considered to be the guardian (B 67 41)

9 Khansā' reported,
Her father gave her away in marriage, and she was a thayyib, and she did not like it. So she came to the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, and he annulled her marriage<sup>6</sup>

ﷺ قَالَ تُنْكَحُ الْمَرْأَةُ لِأَرْبَعِ

<sup>6</sup> Thus the woman has the choice of repudiating a marriage to which she is not a consenting party. The word thayyib includes both, a woman whose husband has died and a woman who has been divorced.

<sup>7</sup> Marriage must be contracted so far as possible between equals. This is technically known as marriage in kuf or kufu (pl akfā). Bukhārī explains this by heading his chapter as 'Al-Akfā fi-l-dīn' (67 16), or Equals in religion, making it clear that all Muslims are equal in one sense. There are examples recorded in Hadīth in which a woman of the high family of Quraysh was married to a slave or a freed slave (B, 64 12).

صَدَاقٌ ☆

<sup>8</sup> Religion, in contrast with the other three builds character, and hence the word dīn carries the significance of character here

<sup>9</sup> Any conditions which the parties agree upon may be laid down in the marriage contract, so long as they are not against the law For instance, it is stated that a woman shall not impose a condition requiring the divorce of her sister (B 67 54)

<sup>10</sup> The dowry must be made over to the woman, and her father or guardian has no right to it Hence shighār is forbidden

<sup>11</sup> Duff or daff is the tambourine, and the object of beating with daff at marriage is to make it publicly known. It also furnishes a kind of music.

<sup>12</sup> The khutba or sermon at marriage helps the publicity of the marriage, and serves the double purpose of sanctifying the marriage contract and informing the parties of their responsibilities. The three verses of the Holy Qur'an quoted in the sermon are 4:1 (a part), 3:101 and 33:70, 71. V 4:1 runs thus and I bear witness that there is no god but Allāh and that Muhammad is His servant and His Messenger 'O you who believe! The whole of this verse may be recited instead of the part given in the hadīth. They all lay stress on carefulness to duty, and the person who delivers the sermon must expatiate on them to make the audience realize their import. The khutba is followed by ijāb and qubūl i.e., the acceptance of the parties to the contract, and the amount of dowry is made publicly known. This is followed by a prayer by the whole gathering that the union may be blessed.

<sup>18</sup> This is the first act with regard to a Muslim baby. The words of the adhān are repeated opposite the right ear and the words of iqāma opposite the left. The latter is based on a report in the Sharh al-Sunna, showing that 'Umar ibn 'Abd al-'Azīz followed this practice. The practice is traced back to the Holy Prophet in the Musnad of Abū Ya'la. The utterance of words relating to the unity and greatness of Allāh in the ears of a new-born baby shows that the Holy Prophet was aware of the existence of the sub-conscious mind.

<sup>19</sup> The Arabic word is hannaka-hū. The word tahnīk is derived from hanak which means the interior of the upper part of the inside of the mouth, or the palate. The new-born baby is made to taste either a chewed date as in this case, or honey, by some elderly member of the family. The naming of the baby, the tahnīk and a prayer for him are thus the sunna of the Holy Prophet.

<sup>20</sup> The word 'aqīqa is derived from 'aqqa meaning he clave, split or cut, and 'aqqa 'an waladī-hī signifies he slaughtered as a sacrifice for his child a sheep or a goat (on the seventh day after the birth) This is called 'aqīqa, but the word is also applied to the hair, of a young one recently born, that comes forth on his head in his mother's belly the hair being shaved on the seventh day It is in reference to this that the Hadīth speaks of removing of uncleanness

<sup>21</sup> This is the general practice, but as the next hadīth shows, one goat suffices in the case of the boy as well It is only for those who can afford.

CHAPTER XXI

DIVORCE

1 And if you fear a breach between the two, then appoint a judge from his people and a judge from her people if they both desire agreement Allāh will effect harmony between them' (4 35)

2 And if a woman fears ill usage or desertion on the part of her husband there is no blame on them if they effect a reconciliation between themselves, and reconciliation is better And if they separate Allāh will render them both free from want out of His ample-ness" (4 125 130)

3 "When you divorce women, divorce them for their prescribed time Do not drive them out of their houses, nor should they themselves go forth unless they commit an open indecency" (65 1)

4 "And the divorced women shall keep themselves in waiting for three quwā and their husbands have a better right to take them back in the meanwhile if they wish for reconciliation" (2 228)

5 "And when you have divorced women and they have ended their term of waiting, do not prevent them from marrying their husbands when they agree among themselves in a lawful manner" (2 232)

6 'Divorce may be pronounced twice, then keep them in good fellowship or let them go with kindness, and it is not lawful for you to take any part of what you have given them, unless both fear that they cannot keep within the limits of Allāh, then if you fear that they cannot keep within the limits of Allāh, there is no blame on them for what she gives up to become free thereby

Then if he divorces her, she shall not be lawful to him afterwards until she marries another husband, if he (too) divorces her, there is no blame on them if they return to each other if they think that they can keep within the limits of Allāh" (2 229, 230)

7 "And if you wish to have one wife in the place of another and you have given one of them a heap of gold, take not from it anything, would you take it by slandering her and doing her manifest wrong?" (4 20)

8 "O you who believe! When you marry the believing women, then divorce them before you touch them, you have in their case no term which you should reckon" (33 49)

9 So when they have reached their prescribed time retain them with kindness or separate them with kindness and call to witness two just ones from among you" (65 2)

10 And for those of your women who have despaired of menstruation if you have doubt the prescribed time shall be three months, and of those too who have not had their courses and as for the pregnant women, their prescribed time is that they lay down their burden' (65 4)

Talāq (lit. undoing of a knot) or dissolution of marriage is permitted by Islām but the right should be exercised under exceptional circumstances (hh 1 2) When differences arise between husband and wife every effort should first be made for reconciliation, and private judges should be appointed for the purpose (v 1) Divorce may be resorted to only if reconciliation cannot be effected (v 2) The wife can claim a divorce for any good reason (vv 2 6, h 2) even though there is no ill-treatment on the part of the husband (h 3) The procedure laid down requires that divorce should be pronounced during the period of cleanness (h 4), and must be followed by 'idda, a waiting period of three qurū about three months, and during this period the woman should remain in the house of her husband, and the parties may re-establish marital relations (vv 3, 4) In the case of women who do not menstruate the 'idda is three months and in the case of pregnant women it lasts till delivery (v 10) There is no 'idda when the divorce takes place before the parties have come together (v 8) After the 'idda has passed away the parties may remarry (v 5) But the option for re establishment of marital relations and remarriage is limited to two occasions If the husband after benefiting of the permission on two occasions resorts to divorce a third time the divorce becomes irrevocable, and reconciliation cannot be effected nor can the parties remarry An exception in this case is, however, made when the wife has married another husband and becomes eligible again for marriage through a divorce (v 6) or any other reason Halāla is an un-Islamic practice, and it was denounced by the Holy Prophet (h 8) The dowry settled on the wife at the time of marriage cannot be taken back by the husband on divorce, unless the wife is guilty of adultery (v 7), or she wants a divorce without any fault on the part of her husband (h 3) The divorce must be pronounced in the presence of witnesses (v 8, h 9) Divorce should be pronounced only once, its utterance thrice on one occasion is un-Islamic (hh 5 6) The three divorces allowed are separate acts between which there must be an interval (h 7) To give the wife option of freeing herself from the marital tie is not a divorce, unless the wife exercises the right (h 10) The wife is considered to be divorced if the husband is mafqud (h 11) Divorce also takes place when li ān is resorted to, but in this case the husband cannot claim the return of dowry (h 12) If a man resorts to ilā' (temporary cessation of marital relations), without naming a period, he is bound either to re-establish the normal relations after four months or to divorce the wife after the lapse of this period (h 13)

<sup>1</sup> This hadīth shows that divorce should be resorted to only in cases of extreme hardship. A Muslim is required to face the difficulties of the married life, and to avoid disruption of family relations, so long as possible, turning to divorce only as a last resort.

<sup>2</sup> This hadīth recognises the right of the wife to demand a divorce, so much so that she may demand it even without any harm being caused to her, though she is told that in such a case she will displease God.

4 Ibn 'Umar reported, He divorced his wife while she was menstruating. 'Umar mentioned this to the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, so the Messenger of Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, became displeased on account of this and said

She said that she could not pull on with him, and her right to have a divorce was not refused. But she was required to return the orchard which the husband had given to her as dowry. This is technically called khul', lit. undoing of a knot. The words I hate disbelief in Islām mean that she could not pull on with him as a faithful Muslim wife should, according to another version the words are lā utiqu-hū, i.e., I cannot bear him.

<sup>4</sup> This hadīth relates to procedure in the matter of divorce. It shows that divorce is not effective unless it is pronounced when the wife is clean 'Idda, or the period during which a woman must wait before remarrying, is stated in v 4 (2 228) to be three qurū. The word qurū is plural of qar which signifies the entering from the state of cleanness into a state of menstruation, and is in normal cases about four weeks.

<sup>6</sup> This hadīth and h 5 show that divorce uttered on one occasion, whether uttered once or thrice—in fact any number of times,—counts only as one divorce, and this was made clear by the Holy Prophet himself, while h 6 shows that pronouncing divorce thrice on a single occasion is un-Islamic. Even the jurists call it talāq bid‘ī (an innovation), but they consider it irrevocable in the terms of 2 230, as these hadīth show, the Holy Prophet did not consider it such. The procedure of talāq according to Islām is laid down clearly in the Holy Qur’ān. It is to be pronounced once while the woman is in a clean condition, and it is followed by a period of waiting, called the idda (65 1), during which the parties may be reconciled to each other, or after which the parties may marry each other again (2 228, 232). Such a divorce, called a revocable divorce, may be pronounced twice (2 229) the option for reconciliation or remarriage being with the parties, but if it is uttered a third time, it becomes irrevocable as laid down in 2 230. Umar’s object in making effective three divorces pronounced on one occasion (h 5) was to warn the people that they would have to take the evil consequences of following an un-Islamic practice, but the result is just the contrary of what he intended. This hadīth shows that whenever a woman was divorced, whether the divorce was on that occasion pronounced once or thrice, it was a single act of divorce and revocable. Divorce became irrevocable only when two revocable divorces were first pronounced, hence the occasion for the third divorce spoken of in 2 230 was a rare event.

<sup>7</sup> In pre-Islamic Arabia the divorce was pronounced thrice and was irrevocable, and remarriage between the parties required the wife to go through a temporary marriage with another husband who divorced her after having sexual connection with her. This practice was called halāla (lit. making a thing lawful). Without going through it, it was not lawful for the divorced pair to return to marital relations. Islām did not recognise temporary marriage (H xx 4), and therefore halāla was denounced. The marriage after an irrevocable divorce spoken of in 2 230 is quite different, being a perpetual marital tie.

<sup>8</sup> As marriage is a public act, so is divorce, it must be pronounced in the presence of witnesses.

<sup>9</sup> The wives of the Holy Prophet demanded certain comforts which in the later days of the Holy Prophet's life fell to the lot of Muslim women generally. Just then the Holy Prophet received a revelation telling him to give his wives the option of remaining with him without these comforts, or to have the material benefits and get themselves divorced. They chose the first alternative. This was not a divorce.

<sup>10</sup> So that if no news of the husband is received within this period, the wife can marry. Imām Mālik holds the view that in all cases where the husband is mafqūd al-khabar, the wife should wait for four years and may marry after this.

<sup>11</sup> The procedure of li'ān, when a husband accuses the wife of adultery and there is no evidence, is laid down in the Holy Qur'ān (24 6-9). The marital relation is in this case cut off. The dowry remains the wife's. (B 68 53)

13 'Ibn Umar used to say, with respect to ilā' about which Allāh has spoken,

CHAPTER XXII

BUYING AND SELLING

(Buyū)

1 "Men shall have the benefit of what they earn, and women shall have the benefit of what they earn" (4 32)

2 "Do not devour your property among yourselves falsely except that it be trading by your mutual consent" (4 29)

3 "Men whom neither merchandise nor selling diverts from the remembrance of Allāh" (24 37)

4 "And when the prayer has been ended, disperse abroad in the land and seek of Allāh's bounty" (62 10)

5 "Give a full measure when you measure out and weigh with a fair balance" (17 35)

The Arabic word for trading is bai' which means both buying and selling. Every man must earn his own living (v 1, h 1) and every profession is, therefore, honourable, even that of the hewer of wood (H xvi 8). A man may follow any worldly pursuit that he likes but duty to Allāh shall take precedence of all other duties (v 3, h 2). Among means of livelihood, trade occupies the most prominent place, the honest merchant being one of the righteous servants of Allāh (v 2, h 3). The seller is required to be just in weighing (v 5), generous in dealing (h 4), giving respite even to those in easy circumstances and forgiving those in straitened circumstances (h 5). If there is a defect in the thing sold, it must be made manifest to the purchaser (h 6). Two kinds of sale prevalent before Islām, munābadha and mulāmasa, in which the purchaser was deprived of the occasion to examine the thing purchased, were made unlawful (h 7). The taking of oaths in selling things is forbidden (h 8). Special directions are given as to the sale of cereals, because they are the prime need of every man, rich or poor. They should be sold in the market so that they may be had at the price which the producer obtained (h 9). Speculation in this prime need of humanity is disallowed, it being necessary that cereals shall be sold only after their possession has been obtained (h 10). The withholding of cereals to raise their price artificially is prohibited (h 11). Najsh or deceiving a purchaser through a third party offering a higher price is forbidden (h 12), but auction or open sale to the highest bidder is allowed.

(h 13) Similarly enhancing the price of much animals and things from their value before their sale is forbidden (h 14) Advance prices or earnest money should be paid only when the measure or weight and time of delivery were definitely settled (h 15) Immovable property it is recommended, should only be sold if the seller intends investing money in other immovable property (h 16) Trade in idols and in things which are forbidden as food such as wine, swine and that which dies of itself, is disallowed (h 17) but as there is a general direction that the skin of a dead animal should not be thrown away and advantage should be derived therefrom (h 18) trade in it is evidently not prohibited and the same rule may be followed in other things prohibited as food such as the bones and fat of a dead animal etc

<sup>11</sup> It is due to neglect of this useful advice that immovable property is passing out of the hands of the Muslim community in India at a very fast pace. A Muslim is enjoined to meet his ordinary or extraordinary expenses out of his earnings or savings, and he must not sell his immovable property unless he intends to invest the price of it in acquiring similar property.

<sup>12</sup> Islām came to exterminate idolatry, and hence it could not allow trade in idols. As regards things forbidden as food, evidently a Muslim has nothing

18 Ibn 'Abbās said, The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> on him, saw a dead goat which had been given to a maid of Maimūna out of zakāt The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> on him, said "Why did you not benefit by its skin?" They said, It was dead He said "Only the eating thereof is forbidden" <sup>13</sup> (B 24 61)

to do with them and he cannot be allowed to carry them to other people So far the words of the hadīth are quite in consonance with the spirit of Islām which looks upon every profession as a service to humanity, besides being the means of earning a livelihood for a man But here follow the words

It was said, O Messenger of Allah ' Inform us about the fat of the dead (animal) , for with it boots are rubbed and skins are greased and people light their lamps with it He said 'No' it is forbidden' (B 34 112)

If this part of the hadīth is accepted as authentic, the question arises, Did the Holy Prophet mean to say that it was forbidden to Muslims that they should make use of the fat of the dead animal to light lamps or grease skins? This would mean that not only was the eating of the dead animal forbidden, but anything which formed part of it could not be used in any other way This is nowhere stated in the Holy Qur'ān, where only the eating of certain things is forbidden Moreover, the hadīth that follows, not only makes such use lawful but clearly makes it necessary (h 18) When the Holy Prophet saw a dead goat with its skin on it, he said "Why did you not benefit by its skin?" If it was necessary to benefit by the skin, why not by the bones or the fat, so long as they were not used for eating purposes? The Holy Prophet could not, therefore, say that it was unlawful to use any part of a dead animal whose flesh was forbidden, and this part of the hadīth cannot be accepted

Imām Shāfi'ī and others have interpreted this part as meaning that it was the trading in such things as fats that was forbidden, not their use There is no reason in this If the use of a certain thing is allowed for a certain purpose, trading in it cannot be forbidden if limited to that purpose The Holy Prophet made it necessary that the skins of the animals whose flesh was forbidden should be made use of, but how could that be done if trading in it was prohibited? Evidently there has been some misconception relating to the latter portion of the hadīth

<sup>13</sup> The words of the Holy Prophet make it clear that a thing which may not be eaten may be put to any other use

CHAPTER XXIII

CULTIVATION OF LAND

(Al-harṭh wa-l-muzāra'a)

1 "Do they not consider that We drive the water to a land having no herbage, then We bring forth thereby seed produce of which their cattle and they themselves eat" (32 27)

2 "And He it is Who produces gardens (of vine), trellised and untrellised, and palms and seed-produce, of which the fruits are of various sorts, and olives and pomegranates, like and unlike" (6 142)

3 "Like seed produce that puts forth its sprout then strengthens it, so it becomes stout and stands firmly on its stem, delighting the sowers" (48 29)

Harṭh is the tilling of land, and muzāra'a (from zara'a, he sowed the seed) is the making of a contract with another for labour on land to sow and till it for a share of its produce. The Holy Qur'ān draws attention to the necessity of turning waste-land into gardens by making arrangements for watering it, and growing good crops (vv 1-3). Hadīth speaks of it as an act of great merit (h 1), but it gives a warning at the same time that a people who give themselves up entirely to agriculture, neglecting other lines of their development, are not capable of great and glorious deeds (h 2). Impetus is given to the cultivation of waste-land (h 3). It is allowed to let to another person land for cultivation for a part of the produce (hh 4, 5), or for money (h 6), but it is at the same time recommended that a person who can afford it should give land rent-free to his poor brother (h 7). A person having his land on a water channel is entitled to water his fields, but he must allow the water to pass on to others when his need is satisfied (h 8). The digging of a well is an act of great merit (h 9). A neighbour's right to land must be respected very scrupulously (h 10).

1 Anas said,

The Messenger of

Allāh, peace and blessings of Allāh be on him, said.

"There is no Muslim

2 It is reported about Abū Umāma that he said, when he saw a plough and some other agricultural implement, I heard the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him say "This does not enter the house of a people but it brings ingloriousness with it" <sup>1</sup> (B 41 2)

<sup>1</sup> Bukhārī's heading of the chapter is "Warning against the consequences of engrossment with the implements of agriculture or going beyond the limit ordained" The hadīth, therefore, implies that a nation which gives itself up entirely to agriculture neglecting other lines of its development cannot rise to a position of glory

4 Abū Ja'far said,

There was not in Madīna any house of the emigrants but they cultivated (land) on one-third and one-fourth (of the produce) And 'Umar employed people (for cultivation) on condition that if 'Umar supplied the seed from his pocket, he should have one-half (of the produce), and if they supplied the seed, they should have such and such a portion<sup>2</sup> (B 41 8)

٤- عَنْ أَبِي جَعْفَرٍ قَالَ مَا بِالْمَدِينَةِ أَهْلُ بَيْتِ هَجْرَةٍ إِلَّا يَزْرَعُونَ عَلَى الثُّلُثِ وَالرَّابِعِ.... وَعَامِلُ عُمَرَ النَّاسَ عَلَى أَنْ جَاءَ عُمَرُ بِالذَّرِّ مِنْ عَمْدِهِ فَلَهُ الشَّطْرُ وَإِنْ جَاؤَا بِالذَّرِّ فَلَهُمْ كَدًا ☆

Rāfi' said, There is no harm in taking dīnārs and dirhams (B 41 19.)

7 'Amr said,

I said to Tā'ūs, Thou shouldst give up Mukhābra, for they say that the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> forbade it. He said . . . , Ibn 'Abbās informed me that the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him,</sup> did not forbid this but he only said ,

رُومَةَ فَلَهُ الْجَنَّةُ فَحَفَرَهَا
عُثْمَانُ ☆

<sup>3</sup> Evidently this was advice given to people who had vast tracts of land, which they could not manage to cultivate for themselves. It did not mean that land could not be let to a tenant.

<sup>4</sup> Without water there would be no herbage, hence owners of land situated on water-courses were required to allow the flow of excess water to other people's land, or even to barren tracts which would thus become grass fields for cattle. Matters relating to irrigation are technically known as musāqāt which literally means giving to drink.

<sup>5</sup> The digging of a well is regarded as an act of the greatest merit. When the Holy Prophet came to Madīna, the only well of sweet water there was the property of a Jew, and Muslims had to purchase drinking water from him. 'Uthmān thereupon bought the Rūma well, and made it waqf.

10 Ibn 'Umar said,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and</sup>
<sup>of Allah be</sup> <sup>blessings</sup>

Whoever takes any part of land without having a right to it, he shall be, as a punishment for it, sunk down into earth on the day of resurrection to the depth of seven earths " 6

(B 46 : 13 )

١٠- عَنْ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ قَالَ النَّبِيُّ

ﷺ مَنْ أَخَذَ مِنَ الْأَرْضِ تَيْبًا

بَغَيْرِ حَقِّهِ خُسِفَ بِهِ يَوْمَ الْقِيَمَةِ

6 Muslims were thus required to be very scrupulous in the matter of other people's rights to land

CHAPTER XXIV

MATTERS RELATING TO SERVICE

(Ijārāt)

1 "My father invites thee that he may give thee remuneration for thy having watered for us" (28 25)

2 "The best of those that thou canst take into service is the strong one, the faithful one" (28 26)

3 'Allāh commands you to make over trusts to those worthy of them' (4 58)

4 Place me in authority over the treasures of the land, for I am a good keeper, knowing well" (12 55)

5 "He who acts unfaithfully shall bring that in respect of which he has acted unfaithfully on the day of resurrection" (3 160)

The word ijāra (from ajr meaning reward) signifies compensation for work done, or wages paid by one man to another for service rendered. The two basic rules laid down in this connection, both in the Holy Qur'an and the Hadīth, are that the servant shall do his work faithfully and to the best of his ability, and that the master shall pay him fully for the service rendered (vv 1, 2). The officials of the government are placed in the category of servants, however high their position may be. The trust spoken of in v 3 relates to the authority placed in the hands of such servants, as explained by the Holy Prophet (B 3 2). Authority to rule must be placed in the hands of those who are fit to rule (v 4). Unfaithfulness is severely condemned (v 5).

Even such a service as the tending of goats is considered honourable, the Holy Prophet himself doing this work in his earlier days (h 1), and his companions did not disdain the work of a porter (h 2). The faithful servant carrying out the orders of his master is ranked with those who give charity (h 3). As conditions of different kinds of service must necessarily be different, the broad rule is laid down that the master and the servant—as well as all those who make a contract—are bound by the conditions of the contract of service (h 4). A Muslim can take a non-Muslim into his service (h 5), and he can also enter into the service of a non-Muslim (h 6). A man who renders a service in connection with the teaching of the Holy Qur'an is entitled to remuneration, as is any other person engaged for any kind of service (h 7), even a commission-agent (h 8) The withholding of remuneration for service rendered is the gravest of sins (h 9) Unpaid remuneration may be invested in some profitable business and the servant is entitled to all profits accruing thus (h 10) The greatest caution must be exercised in the choice of public servants (h 11) Such servants are only entitled to the remuneration paid by the state and they cannot accept gifts from the public (h 12) Misappropriation or dishonestly taking any part of the master's property is condemned in very strong terms (h 13)

1 Abū Huraira reported,
The Prophet, peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him said

"Allāh did not raise a prophet but he pastured goats"

His companions said,
And thou?

He said

"Yes! I used to pasture them for the people of Makka for some carats"<sup>1</sup>

<sup>5</sup> This is part of a long hadith according to which three men were overtaken with a severe affliction from which God delivered them because of some good which each had done The good in this case was that the man did not allow the due of a labourer to lie idle and made over to him immense wealth instead of the paltry remuneration which he demanded

<sup>6</sup> This simply shows that the Holy Prophet made the best selection from among those whom he deemed to be fit for service, and would not take a man simply because he approached him while another did not As v 4 shows it is not forbidden to ask for a certain service

"He should have sat down in the house of his father or the house of his mother, then he should see whether a gift is given to him or not" (B 51 17)

<sup>2</sup> The mention of a horse is followed in the hadith by the mention of a camel and that of gold and silver and billets in similar words. The condition described here relates to the resurrection, and hence it speaks of spiritual experience in physical terms, the significance being that every dishonesty, great or small, shall ultimately be brought to light and punished.

CHAPTER XXV

DEBTS AND MORTGAGE

1 "When you deal with each other in contracting a debt for a fixed time write it down and let him who owes the debt dictate" (2 282)

2 "And if you are upon a journey and you do not find a scribe then a security may be taken into possession" (2 283)

3 "Allāh has allowed trading and forbidden usury" (2 275)

4 "And if the debtor is in straitness then let there be postponement until he is in ease and if you remit it as alms it is better for you, if you knew" (2 280)

Lending and borrowing are a necessary condition in human transactions and the rules relating to them are laid down in the Holy Qur'ān. Every such transaction should be written down and the writing should be dictated by the person who owes the debt (v 1). This latter direction guards against injustice being done to the debtor. Mortgaging of property is also allowed (v 2), but the apparent condition of being on a journey or there being no scribe is simply a statement of the difficulties under which it becomes a necessity. The carrying on of a trade and drawing profit therefrom is placed on a different footing from lending money on interest, the first being the fruit of labour while the latter leads to ease and inordinate love of wealth (v 3). A debtor in straitened circumstances must be dealt with leniently and if he is unable to pay the debt should be remitted (v 4).

Contracting debts was discouraged, and in his prayers the Holy Prophet sought refuge from being in debt as well as sin (h 1). When a bier was brought to him and he was told that the dead one had died in debt and had left nothing for payment thereof, he refused to conduct the service personally until someone undertook the payment of his debt (h 2). Contracting a debt when a man did not intend to pay it is denounced (h 3) and the Holy Prophet's anxiety to pay his debts is shown in h 4. Granting respite to a debtor and the remission of debt when the debtor is in straitened circumstances is recommended (H xxii 5). Payment in excess of the actual sum which a person owes is not interest, on the other hand it is considered goodness (h 5). Deferring payment by one who has the means is condemned as unjust (h 6) and may even be punished (h 7) The Muslim state is required to pay the debts of those who contract debts due to need it must even maintain uncared-for families (h 8) Mortgaging of property as security for payment of debt is allowed and the mortgagee is allowed to derive benefit from it (hh 9 10) The case of insolvency is dealt with in hh 11 12 Usury, even interest is forbidden but it is prophesied that a time would come when people generally would be involved in it (hh 13-15)

1 'A'isha said,

The Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allāh be on him</sup> used to pray, while saying prayers, and to say

“O Allāh! I seek refuge in Thee from sin and from being in debt”

Someone asked him, How often dost thou, O Messenger of Allāh! seek refuge from being in debt He said.

“When a man is in debt he speaks and tells lies, and he promises and breaks the promise” (B 43 10)

2 Salama reported,

<sup>1</sup> The Holy Prophet did not forbid the saying of funeral prayers over the bier of a person who was in debt By refusing to say prayers himself, he wanted only to discourage the habit of contracting debts when one had not the means to pay According to another version of the same hadīth (B 38 . 3), the Holy Prophet said funeral prayers over a person who was in debt but who had left property from which the debt could be paid As shown further on (h 8), the Holy Prophet himself undertook the payment of the debts of those who died in debt, later on when the state treasury had the means to pay them

<sup>2</sup> The significance is that Allāh grants him the means to pay it

<sup>3</sup> To get more and more wealth becomes a passion with wealthy people, and this passion deprives them of the noblest human sentiments. Hence they are said to be the poorer. The narrator, while saying thus and thus, moved his hands right and left, to show that wealth must be given away liberally if one has the good fortune to possess it.

“Say two iak’as of prayer” And he owed me a debt, so he paid it to me and gave me more (than was due) <sup>4</sup> (B 43 7)

“Deferring payment by one who has the means to pay legalizes his punishment and his honour” <sup>5</sup>

(B 43 13)

8 Abū Huraira reported,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him said

“Whoever leaves property, it is for his heirs, and whoever leaves a burden, it shall be our charge” <sup>6</sup> (B 43 11)

٨- عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ ﷺ
قَالَ مَنْ تَرَكَ مَالًا فَلِوَرَثَتِهِ
وَمَنْ تَرَكَ كَلًّا فَالْيَمَامَةُ ☆

<sup>4</sup> Thus if the debtor of his own free will gives more than what is due it is not usury or interest

<sup>5</sup> The legalization of uḍz (honour) is the using of harsh words, and that of uqūba (punishment) is imprisonment (B 43 13) Thus it is only the rich man who can be sent to prison for refusing to pay his debt regarding the man in straitened circumstances the law of Islām is that recommended in H xxii 5—the debt should be remitted

<sup>6</sup> Kall (burden) includes both a family to maintain and debts to be paid is thus the Muslim state that is required to undertake both the maintenance uncared-for families and the payment of unpaid debts

9 'A'isha said,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup>
of Allah be on him, bought food from a Jew for payment to be made at an appointed time, and he mortgaged for it a coat of mail made of iron

"The mortgaged animal may be used for riding, account of what is spent on it, and the milk of a milch animal may be drunk when it is mortgaged, and the expenditure shall be borne by him who rides

(the animal) and drinks
(the milk)"<sup>7</sup>

(B. 48 4)

١٠- عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ
رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ الرَّهْبُ يُرَكُّ
بِنَفَقَتِهِ إِذَا كَانَ مَرَهُونًا وَلَبَنُ الدَّرِّ يُشْرَبُ بِنَفَقَتِهِ إِذَا كَانَ
مَرَهُونًا وَعَلَى الَّذِي يَرْكُضُ
يُشْرَبُ النِّفَقَةُ ☆

<sup>7</sup> Hh 9 and 10 show that the law relating to mortgage as laid down in the Holy Qur'an (v 2) is not limited to cases when one is journeying or when there is no scribe. The law is a general one, the only limitation being that the property mortgaged shall be in the possession of the mortgagee. This hadith shows that when a person has to spend money on the thing mortgaged, he is entitled to derive benefit from it. Hence a house or land can be mortgaged subject to the condition that the possession shall be made over to the mortgagee who is entitled to live in the house or let it on hire, if he carries out the repairs, and to till the land and have the produce of it if he spends on it.

<sup>10</sup> The Arabic word which is here translated as usury is ribā (an excess or addition), and means an addition over and above the principal sum that is lent (LL), and thus includes both usury and interest The Holy Qur'an compares the devourers of usury to those whom the Devil has prostrated by his touch (2 275), usury, and if one does not swallow it, its vapour will overtake him ” <sup>11</sup> indicating that usury leads to selfishness of the worst type Islām aims at a co-operative system of trade and banking so that the capitalist should share the profit as well as the loss of the borrower The underlying idea in the prohibition of interest on money is that labour is a higher asset than money

The hadīth quoted here condemns the payer of the usury and the scribe and the witnesses along with the usurer, because they abet the crime

<sup>11</sup> This is a prophecy relating to the present time Material civilization has at its culmination brought about a state of things when no transaction can be carried on without payment of interest

CHAPTER XXVI

GIFTS

(Hiba and Waqf)

1 As for him who gives (gifts) and guards against evil and accepts the best, We will facilitate for him the easy end (92 5)

2 Woe to the praving ones, who are unmindful of their prayers who do good to be seen, and withhold small gifts (107 4-7)

Hiba is the giving of a gift whether it is given to one who is in need or to a well-to-do person and thus it differs from sadaqa which is meant only for the needy though they may be one's relatives. The giving of gifts (including charity) is praised (v 1), while the withholding of small gifts is denounced as against the spirit of Islām (v 2). Stress is laid on developing the spirit of brotherhood by the giving of gifts, great or small as one can find (hh 1, 2). Even a poor man may give a gift out of the charity he has received (h 3). Compensation for a gift received is recommended (h 4). The giving of a gift to one child would be an injustice to other children and it is therefore not allowed (h 5). A husband can give a gift to his wife and vice-versa (h 6). A wife may give gifts out of the property she has received from her husband (h 7). A joint gift may be given to more persons than one (h 8), and a gift may be given out of joint property (h 9). A gift may be given to and received from, a non-Muslim (hh 10, 11). It is forbidden to take back what has once been given as a gift (h 12). A gift for life is recognised subject to certain conditions (h 13). Property may be dedicated as waqf, becoming thus inalienable, or as waqf ala-l-aulād (h 14). One who receives a gift or any other good from another must give expression to thanks (h 15).

<sup>9</sup> Umra (from amara he lived) was a pre-Islamic transaction, a man assigning to another a house for the life of the latter, so that when he died the property reverted to the heirs of the assignor

A similar transaction was ruqbā (from raqaba he waited) by which a man assigned to another a house on condition that if the assignor died first, the house became the property of the assignee and if the assignee died first, the house reverted to the assignor, as if each waited for the death of the other. Bukhārī does not speak of ruqbā which, according to the best opinion, is not allowed in Islām. With regard to umrā, it is agreed that when it is expressly stated that the property shall pass to the heirs of the assignee or when no condition is laid down, it shall be a gift in all respects and shall not revert to the assignor, but when an express condition is laid down that on the death of the assignee it shall revert to the assignor or his heirs, there are two opinions, firstly, that the transaction shall take effect in accordance with the condition laid down, as if it were a loan, and secondly, that it shall be looked upon as a gift the condition being dealt with as illegal and unenforceable

14 Ibn 'Umar reported, 'Umar ibn al-Khattāb got land in Khaibar, so he came to the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> <sup>of Allāh be on him,</sup> to consult him about it. He said, O Messenger of Allāh! I have got land in Khaibar than which I have never obtained more valuable property, what dost thou advise about it? He said "It thou likest, make the property itself to remain inalienable, and give (the profit from) it in charity." So 'Umar made it a charity on the condition that it shall not be sold, nor given away as a gift, nor inherited, and made it a charity among the needy and the relatives and to set free slaves and in the way of Allāh and for the travellers and to entertain guests, there being no blame on him who managed it if he

<sup>10</sup> The case cited in this hadīth is known as waqf (from wayafu, he stood still or stopped). The property, generally immovable, is in this case not allowed to be sold or otherwise disposed of, only the profits accruing therefrom are dedicated to charitable purposes. But as in this case the relatives are included among those who share in the profits though they may not be needy, it has become the basis for what is more particularly known as waqf ala-l-aulād i.e., a waqf for the benefit of a man's children. The property is made inalienable and cannot be divided among the heirs and the profits from it are spent for the benefit of the children though a part must necessarily be for charitable objects.

<sup>11</sup> Jazāka-llāh (may Allāh reward thee) is the best form of thanking a man for any benefit or gift received from him. It is both an expression of thankfulness to him and a prayer for him, and it is the common form in which a Muslim thanks another.

CHAPTER XXVII

WILLS AND INHERITANCE

1 "Bequest is prescribed for you when death approaches one of you, if he leaves behind wealth for parents and near relatives, according to usage, a duty incumbent upon the righteous" (2 180)

2 'O you who believe! Call to witness between you, when death draws nigh to one of you, at the time of making the will, two just persons from among you, or two others from among others than you" (5 106)

3 "Allāh enjoins you concerning your children the male shall have the equal of the portion of two females, if there are more than two females, they shall have two-thirds of what he has left, and if there is one, she shall have the half, and as for his parents, each of them shall have the sixth of what he has left if he has a child, but if he has no child and only his two parents inherit from him, then his mother shall have the third, but if he has brothers, his mother shall have the sixth after the payment of any bequest he may have bequeathed or a debt And you shall have half of what your wives leave if they have no child, but if they have a child, you shall have the fourth of what they leave after payment of any bequest they may have bequeathed or a debt, and they shall have the fourth of what you leave if you have no child, but if you have a child, they shall have the eighth of what you leave after payment of any bequest you may have bequeathed or a debt, and if a man or a woman having no children leaves inheritance, and he (or she) has a brother or a sister, each of them two shall have the sixth, but if they are more than that, they shall be sharers in the third, after payment of any bequest that may have been bequeathed or a debt that does not harm others" (4 11, 12)

Every man who owns property is required to make a will (wasīyya) (v 1, h 1) which should be properly witnessed (v 2) The will was ordained especially for charitable purposes and limited to one-third of the property (h 2), the heirs receiving specified portions (v 3, h 9), no will being allowed in their favour (h 3) Giving away property to needy relatives is a charitable object (h 4)

If there is a debt due from the testator for which his property is responsible the debt shall be paid before the execution of the will (h 5) Muslims were not allowed to inherit from non-Muslims and vice-versa the two being then at war with each other (h 6) Prophets leave no inheritance (h 7)

If anything remains after giving away the appointed portions it goes to the nearest male relative (h 8) Hh 9-11 cite certain cases of inheritance as decided by the companions of the Holy Prophet When there are no near relatives, inheritance goes to the nearest great grand ancestor's descendants even to a freed slave in the last resort, when no claimant is found, it goes to the Muslim state or the Muslim community (hh 12-14) A child born crying is considered a person who can inherit or be inherited though he may die immediately afterwards (h 15) A man who murders another cannot inherit from him (h 16) An illegitimate child cannot inherit or be inherited (h 17)

1 Ibn 'Umar reported,
The Messenger of Allāh,
peace and blessings
of Allāh be on him, said

"It is not right for a Muslim who has property regarding which he must make a will that he should sleep for two nights (consecutively) but that his will should be written down with him

<sup>1</sup> Sa'd later rose to prominence under 'Umar as the conqueror of Persia. The incident related here took place in the 10th year of Hijra, as the mention of the Farewell pilgrimage shows. This shows conclusively that the order to make a bequest, as laid down in 2:180, was never abrogated. The hadīth further shows that the will was prescribed especially for charitable objects, and therefore only one-third of the property could be disposed of by will, so that the heirs may not be deprived altogether.

3 Abū Umāma said,
I heard the Messenger

<sup>2</sup> As the shares of the heirs are fixed by the Holy Qur'ān, a will in favour of the heirs would practically be an annulment of that injunction. If, however, the heirs agreed, there would be no objection to a testator disposing of his property in a particular manner.

<sup>3</sup> Abū Talha had certain property which he wanted to devote to charitable objects. The Holy Prophet advised him to give it to his own needy relatives who were not entitled to receive anything as heirs.

5 It is mentioned that the Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup> ordered the debt to be paid before the execution of the will <sup>4</sup>

<sup>5</sup> For eight years at Madīna, the Muslims and the unbelievers were divided into two camps at war with each other, and this order was probably given under these circumstances

8 Ibn 'Abbās reported,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup>

"Give the appointed portions to those entitled to them Then whatever remains is for the nearest male" <sup>6</sup> (B 85 4)

9 Zaid said, should be made with the person who inherits with them. If this rule is applied in all cases, the difficulty does not arise. Thus if there are parents and husband or wife along with children, they will receive their shares first, one-sixth each in the case of parents and one-fourth or one eighth in the case of husband or wife, and the remainder would go to sons or sons and daughters but if there are daughters only, they would take one-half or two thirds of the remainder as the case may be.

* The son's children are thus deprived if there is a son living. There is nothing related from the Holy Prophet in this respect and the companions had different opinions in matters relating to inheritance (h 11). The opinion given by Zaid is, therefore, not final. In B 85 7 it is stated that Ibn Mas'ūd gave a certain portion to the daughter of a deceased son, treating her as a second daughter. Taking this case into consideration, a deceased son's children should take the place of their father.

CHAPTER XXVIII

FOODS AND DRINKS

1 'O men! Eat the lawful and good things out of what is in the earth" (2 108)

2 "And eat and drink and be not immoderate, for He does not love the immoderate" (7 31)

3 O you who believe! Do not forbid yourselves the good things which Allāh has made lawful for you, and do not exceed the limits ' (5 87)

4 "And do not eat of that on which Allāh's name has not been mentioned" (6 122)

5 "Forbidden to you is that which dies of itself, and blood, and flesh of swine, and that on which any other name than that of Allāh has been invoked, and the strangled animal, and that beaten to death, and that killed by a fall, and that killed by being smitten with the horn, and that which wild beasts have eaten—except what you slaughter—and what is sacrificed on stones set up for idols" (5 3)

6 Lawful to you is the game of the sea and its food , and the game of the land is forbidden to you so long as you are on pilgrimage" (5 96)

7 "And the food of those who have been given the Book is lawful for you and your food is lawful for them" (5 5)

8 "It is no sin in you that you eat together or separately" (24 61)

9 'O you who believe! Intoxicants and games of chance are only an uncleanness, the devil's work, shun them, therefore, that you may be successful" (5 90)

There are some general principles laid down by the Holy Qur'ān regarding food. The first condition is that it should be lawful (halāl) (v 1), which carries the double significance of being earned lawfully and not being prohibited by Law. The second is that it should be good (tayyib) (v 1) or fit for eating, not unclean or such as offends the taste. It is further stated that the golden rule regarding what one eats and drinks is moderation (v 2). As underfeeding affects the build-up of man, so does also the overloading of the stomach. Moderation also requires that no food should be used to excess. Self-denying practices by which a man deprives himself of certain kinds of food are expressly denounced (v 3) Flesh is allowed if the animal is slaughtered in the name of Allāh (v 4) Prohibited foods are detailed in v 5 Game of land and sea is allowed with one exception (v 6) Interdining with non-Muslims is allowed (v 7) One may eat in the company of others or separately (v 8) Intoxicants are prohibited (v 9)

Further details are laid down in Hadīth The name of Allāh must be mentioned when an animal is slaughtered (h 1) It may be slaughtered with any sharp instrument which makes the blood flow (h 2) Slaughtering consists in cutting the jugular vein of the throat, but the spinal cord must not be cut (hh 3, 4) An afflicted animal may be slaughtered (h 5) An animal properly slaughtered by a non-Muslim is allowed (h 6) In a doubtful case the utterance of Allāh's name is sufficient (h 7) Game is allowed subject to certain conditions (hh 8, 9) Beasts of prey with teeth are prohibited (h 10) Intoxicants are prohibited (hh 11, 12) and they cannot be taken even in small quantities which may not intoxicate (h 13) The hands must be washed before taking meals and again after it, when the mouth must also be rinsed (hh 14, 15) The utterance of Bismillāh when taking food and a short prayer after it was the Holy Prophet's practice (hh 16, 17) Drink and food must not be blown into and must be kept covered (hh 18-20) In eating one may help oneself with a knife (h 21), or a spoon Vessels of gold and silver are a luxury which Islām does not allow (h 22) When a person is invited to a meal he should not refuse, nor should one go to a feast to which one has not been invited (h 23) A servant may eat at the same table with his master (h 24) Eating together is recommended (h 25), but when doing so, one should have regard for others (hh, 26, 27) The guest must be accompanied to the door of the house (h 28)

1 Anas said,
The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessing</sup> sacrificed two rams of a white colour mixed with black, I saw him with his foot placed on one side of their face, uttering Bismillāh, Allāh-u-Akbar, and he slaughtered them with his own hand<sup>1</sup>

be mentioned over the slaughtered animal is laid down to make man realize that the taking of a life, even though it be an animal is a serious matter, and that it is by Divine permission that man does it, not by his superior might If a man forgets to mention the name of Allāh, the meat is still allowed (B 72 15)

<sup>2</sup> This hadīth shows that an animal may be slaughtered with any sharp instrument that makes the blood flow out The object is that blood which contains poisons should not form part of human food

<sup>3</sup> There are two ways of slaughtering, dhabh in which the throat is cut from beneath at the part next to the head, while the animal is made to lie down under one's foot, and nahr, in which the animal is stabbed, while in a standing posture, in the nahr (the place where the wind-pipe commences in the uppermost part of the breast) The latter practice is resorted to in the case of bigger animals, such as camels and cows, on account of the difficulty of making them lie down But an animal that may be stabbed may also be slaughtered In both cases, it is a necessary condition that the spinal cord is not cut If, however, the head is cut off by mistake, it does not make the meat unlawful (B 72 24)

<sup>4</sup> The view expressed here by Zuhri is supported by Ibn 'Abbās (Ah, I, 302), who explains the word food in 5 5—"The food of those who have been given the Book is lawful for you—" as meaning the animal slaughtered by them. Only if it is known for certain that a name other than that of Allāh has been invoked, would it be unlawful

<sup>5</sup> These people, as 'Ā'isha explains, were recent converts to Islām, and therefore it was doubtful whether they observed the details of the Law

8 Abū Th'laba said,
 I said, O Prophet of Fish, even if caught alive, is not required to be slaughtered. Eel, frog or tortoise may be eaten, according to some

CHAPTER XXIX

TOILET

1 O thou who art clothed<sup>1</sup> Arise and warn, and thy Lord do magnify, and thy garments keep purified, and uncleanness do shun " (74 1—5)

2 'Sav Who has prohibited the adornment of Allāh which He has brought forth for His servants and the goodly provisions" (7 32)

3 'O children of Adam' Attend to your embellishment at every time of prayer " (7 31)

The order to keep the garments pure and shun uncleanness of every kind is combined with the order to warn the people and magnify the Lord (v 1) This shows the importance which is given to cleanliness in dress as well as in general habits Adornment is not prohibited, it is, in fact a thanksgiving for Divine blessings (v 2) The word adornment (Ar zina), which is generally taken to mean apparel, includes both the dress and the make-up of a person A good toilet is recommended even when going to prayer (v 3) No limitations are placed upon the form or quality of clothing but extravagance and vanity must be avoided (h 1) To be naked is forbidden (h 2) Men are prohibited to wear silk except for a good reason but women may wear it (hh 3-6) Men may wear a silver ring but not a gold one, but women may wear any ornaments (hh 7-10) The personal make-up of a man, the wearing of a moustache, beard and hair, and the use of perfumes are spoken of in hh 11-16, while hh 17-20 relate to pictures or decorations

1 The Prophet, <sup>peace and blessings</sup>
of Allāh be on him, said

۱- قَالَ النَّبِيُّ ﷺ كُلُوا وَاشْرَبُوا

" Eat and drink and wear clothes and be charitable,

وَالسُّوَا وَ تَصَدَّقُوا فِي غَيْرِ not being extravagant or self-conceited”<sup>1</sup> (B 77 1)

2 Miswar said,
I took up a heavy stone, and whilst I was going along (with it), my garment fell down. So the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him, said to me “Don thy garment, and you should not walk naked”<sup>2</sup>

(AD. 30 2)

3 Abū ‘Uthmān reported,
A letter from ‘Umar came to us that the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup> of Allāh be on him forbade us (wearing of) silk except this much,

To be naked even in private (except in case of necessity) is forbidden as the Holy Prophet is reported to have said in answer to such a question

The wearing of khazz (a cloth woven of wool and silk) is allowed (Ah iv, 233)

The Holy Prophet did it in both ways at different times. Another hadīth speaks of the dhawā'b (tuft of hair on the forehead) of Ibn 'Abbās (B 77 71)

١٧- عَنْ بُسْرِ بْنِ سَعِيدٍ أَنَّ
رَيْدَ بْنَ خَالِدٍ حَدَّثَهُ وَمَعَ بُسْرِ
بْنِ سَعِيدٍ عُمَيْدُ اللَّهِ أَنَّ أَبَا طَلْحَةَ
حَدَّثَهُ أَنَّ النَّبِيَّ ﷺ قَالَ لَا
تَدْخُلُ الْمَلَائِكَةُ بَيْتًا فِيهِ صُورَةٌ
قَالَ بُسْرٌ فَمَرَضَ رَيْدُ بْنُ خَالِدٍ

<sup>12</sup> Sūra means an image or a picture. According to another version (B 59 7), the Holy Prophet is reported to have said that 'Angels do not enter a house in which is a dog or a sūra'. But the Holy Qur'an allows the keeping of dogs for hunting (5 4), and so does Hadīth (H xxviii 8), and the keeping of watch-dogs is also allowed. Similarly, the Holy Qur'an speaks of tamāthīl (images) being made for Solomon, and it would not be right to say that angels did not on this account come into the house of Solomon, a prophet of God. The hadīth, therefore, which speaks of angels not visiting a place where images (or pictures) and dogs are to be found cannot be accepted in a literal sense. It is for this reason that an authority like Rāghib interprets the word bait (house) occurring a visit to him, and when we were in his house we saw a curtain on which were pictures. So I said to 'Ubaid Allāh, Did he not relate to us about pictures? He said, He had said, Except figures on a cloth, didst thou not hear him? I said, No. He said, Yea! He mentioned this.

يَوْمَ الْقِيَمَةِ يُقَالُ لَهُمْ أَحْيُوا

in this hadīth as meaning the heart, the significance being that the man in whose heart images or idols have a place, and who bows before them, does not receive the angels of Divine mercy. The concluding words of this hadīth, making an exception in favour of raqm fi-l-thaub (figures on a cloth)—and the same would be the case with regard to figures on a paper—confirm the conclusion arrived at above. What is forbidden is the keeping of images or pictures for paying them Divine honours.

CHAPTER XXX

ETHICS

(Adab)

1 "The noblest of you in the sight of Allāh is the best of you in conduct" (49 13)

2 "And do good to your parents If either of them or both of them reach old age with thee, say not to them, fie, nor chide them, and speak to them a generous word And make thyself submissively gentle to them with compassion, and say, My Lord! Have mercy on them as they brought me up when I was little" (17 23, 24)

3 "And do not kill your children for fear of poverty, We give them sustenance and yourselves too" (17 31)

4 "And when about the one buried alive it is asked, For what sin was she killed?" (81 8, 9)

5 "Righteousness is this that one should believe in Allāh and give away wealth out of love for Him to the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the wayfarer and the beggars and for the emancipation of the captives" (2 17)

6 "And they (the women) have rights similar to those (men have) over them in a just manner" (2 228)

7 "And keep them (your wives) in good fellowship" (2 229, 231)

8 "The believers are but brethren, so make peace between your brethren" (49 10)

9 "Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh, and those with him are firm of heart against the unbelievers, merciful among themselves" (48 29)

10 "And the men who speak the truth and the women who speak the truth Allāh has prepared for them forgiveness and a great reward" (33 35)

11 "Woe to every slanderer, defamer" (104 1)

12 "Let not a people deride another people nor let women deride women Neither defame one another, nor call one another by nicknames Shun much suspicion And spy not, nor backbite one another" (49, 11, 12)

13 "And fulfil promise for the promise shall be questioned about" (17 34)

14 "And give full measure when you measure out, and weigh with a true balance" (17 35)

15 "And do not kill any one whom Allāh has forbidden except for a just cause" (17 33)

16 "And those who shun the great sins and indecencies, and whenever they are angry they forgive" (42 37)

17 "And the recompense of evil is punishment like it, but whoever forgives and amends he shall have his reward from Allāh" (42 40)

18 "And the servants of the Beneficent are they who walk on earth in humbleness, and when the ignorant address them they say Peace" (25 63)

19 "And go not nigh to fornication, for it is an indecency and evil is the way" (17 32)

20 "Say to the believing men that they cast down their looks and guard their private parts

' Say to the believing women that they cast down their looks and guard their private parts, and not display their beauty except what appears thereof, and let them draw their head coverings over their bosoms" (24 30 31)

21 And as for women advanced in years who do not hope for a marriage, it is no sin for them if they put off their cloaks not displaying their beauty" (24 60)

22 ' Do not enter houses other than your own houses without permission and saluting their inmates and if it is said to you Go back, then go back ' (24 27, 28)

The word adab signifies discipline of the mind or every praiseworthy discipline by which a man is trained in any excellence Good morals and good manners are the real test of a man's excellence (v 1, hh 1, 9) Goodness to one's parents occupies a very high place in the moral code of Islām, the mother coming first (v 2 h 2), so much so that paradise is said to be beneath the mother's feet (h 3) Kindness and love for children is inculcated (vv 3, 4, hh 4, 5), and suffering on account of them is called a screen from fire (h 6) Doing good to relatives is a source of blessings in this life and the next (v 4, hh 7, 8) Wives have their rights over their husbands and they must be kept in good fellowship (vv 6, 7) The best of men is said to be one who is kindest to his wife (h 9), and it is recommended that one should help her in her work (h 10) Muslims are brethren—members of one body and parts of one structure—and they must help one another and be kind to one another (vv 8, 9, hh 11-14), then blood, property and honour being inviolable (h 15) They are forbidden to hate and boycott one another (h 16) to call one another kāfīr or fāsiq (h 17), and to fight with one another (h 18) A neighbour whether a Muslim or a non-Muslim, must be treated kindly (hh 19, 20) One must be kind and generous to one's slaves or servants, who must in all other matters be treated on a basis of equality (hh 21-23) Looking after widows and orphans is an act of highest merit (hh 24-25) Even an enemy must be treated generously (hh 26-27) Divine mercy is shown to him who is merciful to God's creatures (hh 28-29), even to dumb animals (h 30) Man must cultivate the habit of being truthful, for truth is the basis from which virtue springs while falsehood leads to vice (v 10, h 31) Special stress is laid that a man must be fair and forgiving in his dealings with other people, and must avoid everything which hurts them (vv 11-19, h 32) At the end are given a few verses and hadīth relating to good manners (vv 20-22, hh 33-41)

Many aspects of this subject have been, incidentally dealt with in the foregoing chapters

<sup>2</sup> The word rahim means the womb, hence relationship by the female side, but it also carries the wider significance of relationship in general, and Rahmān means the God of mercy or the Beneficent God. The hadīth signifies that relationship is deeply connected with mercy in its very nature. So whoever makes close ties of relationship by kindness to relatives God is kind to him, and whoever severs the ties of relationship by ill-treatment towards relatives God is displeased with him. One must be kind to relatives though they be non-Muslims

CHAPTER XXXI

THE STATE

(Al-Imāra)

- 1 And their rule is by counsel among themselves" (42 38)
- 2 'Pardon them and ask protection for them, and take counsel with them in affairs of state" (3 158)
- 3 "Allāh commands you to make over trusts to those worthy of them, and that when you judge between people you judge with justice" (4 58)
- 4 "O David! We have made thee a ruler in the land, so judge between people with justice and do not follow (thy) desire" (38 26)
- 5 They said How can he hold kingship over us while we have a greater right to kingship than he and he has not been granted abundance of wealth He said Surely Allāh has chosen him in preference to you and He has increased him abundantly in knowledge and physique" (2 247)
- 6 'Obey Allāh and obey the Messenger and those in authority from among you, and if you quarrel about anything, refer it to Allāh and the Messenger (4 58)

Amr means a command or an order imāra the possession of command or the office or authority of a commander or a ruler or a king and amīr, the person who commands or rules or the head of a state The word imām (originally, a person whose example is followed or who is imitated) is also used to indicate the chief or head of a state, and so also the word khalīfa (originally a successor, or a vicegerent, or a prophet's successor)

According to the Holy Qur'ān, the Muslim State is a democracy, counsel being the foundation-stone of government (v 1), even the Holy Prophet is ordered to consult with his followers in conducting affairs of state (v 2) The people are required to elect as their rulers persons who are fit for this office—to make over trusts to those worthy of them—, and those chosen as rulers are required to be just (vv 3, 4) Vast knowledge and strong physique are the qualifications which should be sought for in a good ruler, not the possession of wealth (v 5) The highest authority is that of Allāh and His Messenger, so that no law should contravene the Holy Qur'ān and the Sunna (v 6)

Hadith lays it down that government is needed for the good of the people the king or head of a state being as much responsible for the welfare of the people whom he rules as a father or mother for the welfare of his or her children or as a servant for the property entrusted to him (h 1) The people's responsibility to the State is to respect its laws and obey its orders, so long as they do not require disobedience to Allāh and His Messenger (hh 2 5) Opposition to constituted authority or rebellion against it is not allowed (h 6), but the authority of the head of the State may be disputed in extreme cases and he may even be deposed (hh 7, 8) The Muslim State founded by the Holy Prophet chose the fittest man as his successor after his death and it was agreed that the State should have a single head who should carry on government with the help of his counsellors and ministers (hh 9 10) The Khalifa was a paid servant of the State, like all other public servants (h 11) No public servant could accept gifts from the public (H ۱۱۱ 18) Those entrusted with carrying on the work of government including the head were required to work for the good of the people (h 12), to be gentle to them (h 13), to lead simple lives (h 14) to be easily accessible (h 15) to be God-fearing (h 16) to tax the different classes of people according to their capacity to provide for those who could not earn and to have as much regard for the rights of their non-Muslim subjects as for those of Muslims (h 17) In his private capacity the ruler was to be treated as any other individual Muslim (h 18)

1 Ibn 'Umar reported,
I heard the Messenger
of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings</sup>

"Every one of you is a ruler and every one of you shall be questioned about those under his rule, the king is a ruler and he shall be questioned about his subjects, and the man is a ruler in his family and he shall be questioned about those under his care, and the woman is a ruler in the house of her husband, and she shall be questioned

<sup>1</sup> The Arabic word ra'ī (from ra'y, pasturing cattle) means a keeper, guardian ruler or governor. Imām means a leader, and the king is also called an imām. The king or ruler is here placed in the same category as a servant. Just as a servant is entrusted with certain property for which he is responsible to the master, the king or the ruler is entrusted with the care of the people and the guarding of their rights, and for the proper discharge of his duties, he is responsible in the first place to God Who is the real Master, and then to the people in relation to whom he occupies the position of a servant. Hereditary kingship is therefore foreign to the Islamic conception of the State.

<sup>2</sup> Thus even a Negro, if he is fit for the job, may be placed in authority over people of a white race, considerations of race and colour carry no weight in Islam. According to another version, the words are, a Negro slave (M 17), so that even a slave may be entrusted with command.

الْإِمَامُ جُنَّةٌ يُقَاتَلُ مِنْ وَرَائِهِ

<sup>3</sup> Law is above all, even above the king or supreme authority, an order against the Holy Qur’ān and authoritative hadīth cannot therefore be accepted

<sup>4</sup> Amīr literally means one who holds command, and the word is applied to any person who is entrusted with any kind of authority over others. The highest ruling authority in Islām was called Amīr al Mu’minīn (Commander of the Faithful). The amīr or the imām is here called junna, or an armour for protection, because without the institution of imāra, or subjection to authority, a people cannot protect themselves either from an enemy or from one another’s injustice

<sup>8</sup> Conclusive evidence is afforded by this hadīth that the Islamic State was a democracy in which the head was chosen by the people themselves. Abū Bakr was admittedly the best among the companions and the fittest man to be the head of the State and to control its affairs as this hadīth and the one that follows show. The Ansār were at first under the impression that there could be two amīrs or two heads of the State but they were ultimately convinced that this position was untenable and there was an agreement on the point that the State must have a single head, with ministers and counsellors to help him. Wazīr (from wiz, burden) means an aid or helper and hence a king's minister. Umar's election as the head of the State after Abū Bakr was made in a different way. Before his death Abū Bakr consulted the leading men of the Muslim community, and nominated as his successor 'Umar who during his own caliphate had acted as his right-hand man, and who was admittedly the most outstanding personality in Islām after Abū Bakr. Umar, on his death bed, adopted yet a third course by appointing an elective council. There were then six eminent men every one of whom was fit to hold the reins of government, and 'Umar decided that these six should choose one from among themselves as the amīr, and the mantle fell upon 'Uthmān. There were some differences when 'Uthmān died, but the majority favoured 'Alī who was the fourth head of the Islamic State after the Holy Prophet. In all four cases, election was the basic principle in appointing the head of the State, though different methods were adopted to avoid dissensions.

But if Muhammad, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup> is dead, Allāh has given you the light<sup>9</sup> by which you may be guided—(with it) Allāh guided Muhammad, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup>, and Abū Bakr is the companion of the Messenger of Allāh, <sup>peace and blessings of Allah be on him</sup>, the second of the two; he is the fittest of the Muslims to control your affairs, so get up and swear allegiance to him

Some of them had sworn allegiance to him before this in the porch of Banī Sā'ida and the masses swore allegiance to him while he was on the pulpit

<sup>12</sup> A governor was thus required to lead the life of an ordinary Muslim citizen. That there is a direction not to ride any but a horse of Arabian breed shows that governors were required to be good horsemen as well. The ruling authorities were further required to be easily accessible to the public. The Holy Prophet himself set an example in this respect as he had no door-keepers even after he became ruler of Arabia (B 23 31)

<sup>14</sup> Hudhaifa and 'Uthmān were appointed by 'Umar to assess land revenue. The total amounted to a very large sum, and therefore 'Umar's apprehension that the people might have been taxed too heavily. He was assured that assessment was according to the capacity of the land.

<sup>15</sup> 'Umar apparently was thinking of making the State responsible for the maintenance of widows. He had already introduced old age pensions and made arrangements for the grant of allowances to the weak and the disabled.

<sup>16</sup> The conditions under which the urban and the rural populations lived were different, and 'Umar was therefore anxious that the Muslim State should have regard for the welfare of both. People were to be taxed with their assent, which shows that the State worked on purely democratic principles

I enjoin him as regards those under the protection of Allāh and the protection of His Messenger,<sup>17</sup> peace and blessings of Allāh be on him that the covenant made with them shall be fulfilled, and that battles shall be fought for their defence, and that they shall be burdened only with what they can bear

<sup>17</sup> The non-Muslims living in a Muslim state were known as ahl al dhimma or dhimmis, dhimma meaning a covenant. Here they are spoken of as being under the protection of Allāh and the protection of Allāh's Messenger, and the sacredness of their rights is thus enhanced. They enjoyed freedom to the same extent as the Muslim subjects of a Muslim state, and had the additional advantage of being free from military service on payment of a small tax, which was by all means a smaller burden than zakāt which Muslims were required to pay in addition to their liability to military service, being required to fight in the defence of Islām as well as non-Muslims.

OPINIONS

“Probably no man living has done longer or more valuable service for the cause of Islamic revival than Maulana Muhammad Ali of Lahore. The present volume is his finest work—free from sectarian comments and in perfect English. It is a description of Islam by one well versed in the Quran and the Sunna” (Marmaduke Pickthall in Islamic Culture).

“It must rank as a standard work on Islam.” (Sir Muhammad Zafrullah Khan)

“An extremely useful work almost indispensable to the students of Islam” (Dr. Sir Muhammad Iqbal)

“Characterized throughout by a wonderful insight into the tenants of our faith and will take rank as a standard work on the subject” (Sir Shafa'at Ahmad Khan)

“It is the product of great learning, deep scholarship and enormous labour” (Sir S. M. Sulaiman)

“Like almost all other works of the Maulana this is also a classical work—exhaustive, bold and authentic. I wish it were translated into other languages, particularly in Persian, Arabic and Turkish” (M. H. Kidwai)
